Gas Distended His Stomach

Caused Palpitation, and Prevented Sleep—When Health Was Gone, Cure Followed Use of "Nerviline."

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

Testimonial No. 4890

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline. 50c per bottle, trial size 25c, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

W. L. Smith On Reciprocity

Mr. W. L. Smith, editor of the Toronto Weekly Sun, spoke on reciprocity in the town hall on Friday evening last to an audience of about two hundred, in which was a sprinkling of ladies. Mr. Smith is a strong advocate of the measure and put up a clever and eloquent plea in its behalf. He said in part:

This was not a party question. There was disaffection on both sides. The manufacturers and trusts were lining up against the measure. Inside of two years we must have another election owing to redistribution. Reciprocity was free trade in all agricultural products except wool, also in fish. The pact was not binding for ten years or one year but could be abrogated by Canada at any time desired. This was the only time the farmers of Canada would have this chance open to them. The speaker quoted market figures to prove that United States markets were better than those of Canada, referring more particularly to cattle, barley, butter, etc. Alexander McKenzie was in favor of free trade with the United States and George Brown was sent to the United States to negotiate, but the negotiations came to nothing. The first thing Sir John Macdonald did when he came into power was to make a standing offer of free trade. Sir John Thompson was also in favor of it. Everybody admitted that the treaty of 1854 was favorable to Canada, and during the time it was in force Canada multiplied her trade fourfold. There had been no other period in her history when expansion was so great. At that time two-thirds of the American people were producers; now only one-third were producers. If free trade was good enough in 1879 it must be good enough now, because of the big increase of population at our doors. Every farmers' organization in Canada had declared in favor of reciprocity. Reference was made to the big delegation of farmers which went to Ottawa last winter, every man of whom was in favor of reciprocity. The speaker declared that the fear that the price of horses would drop was founded on false reasoning, and cited facts to prove his argument. There was an unlimited market at big prices for heavy horses across the line. Reciprocity would enhance the value of farm lands, more especially near the border. The American Agriculturist said that every farm and town lot in Canada would be enhanced in value.

Mr. Smith referred to the defection of eighteen Liberals in Toronto. They were all voting from personal motives in this election. Mr. Blain was interested in the Wallaceburg sugar refinery and knew he would have to pay a little more for his beets. Mr. Flavelle would have to pay a dollar per head more for his hogs and he foresaw a decrease in the 120 per cent. dividends. And so it went. These men were trying to hoodwink the farmers into helping them to defeat reciprocity. Monopolies were getting a hold of this country that would very shortly make serfs of the people. Business was being centralized by them and the small manufacturers of the country were even now practically extinct. The demand came from the West about a year ago for free access to the American market, and it was the farmers themselves who had forced the government to action. Referring to the cement combines, Mr. Smith said these had stolen millions of dollars from the people of Canada, and it was no wonder these and other special interests did not desire any change in the business conditions of the country. It behoved the farmers to vote for their own interests Reciprocity would be of the greatest material advantage in opening up a great market to the people of Canada.

The speaker was accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

As to the Fireplace.

The sides of a fireplace should be well splayed or beveled in order to reflect the heat, says Arts and Decoration. The back should lean forward at the top for the same purpose, and the fireplace should not be too deep. A projecting chimney produces an effect of pushing the guest away, whereas a receding one beckons him nearer to enjoy the hospitality of the open fire. For this reason the inglenook—that is, the fireplace built into the wall of the room—is especially cozy and attractive.

CLOTH IN THE MAKING.

The Way the Uncouth Product of the Loom Is Finished.

Every woven fabric is made by crossing or interlacing two distinct series of threads together. When the yarn comes from the spinner it is mounted upon the loom in spools writes Rupert Bowers in Harper's Weekly. So wonderfully automatic are these modern looms that when a bobbin is emptied it is forced out and a full spool is put in its place without stopping the loom. There are all classes of looms for all classes of material, from the thinnest fabrics up to the thickest felts. To attempt to describe one of them or the principles on which they are constructed would involve the reader in a wilderness of technicalities. The power loom is one of the most remarkable and complex of mechanical products, the growth of many years of experience and ingenuity and the crystallization of the inventive genius of many minds.

The cloth in the shop window resembles the cloth as it comes from the loom so remotely that there would seem to be no relationship between them. The first product of the loom is usually uncouth, harsh and anything but inviting in appearance. It has to pass through many processes before it is finished and made ready for the market. It is first mended so as to correct weaving faults as far as possible Then it is scoured and thoroughly cleansed. Again it is looked over and mended before it passes to the fulling or milling machine which, with soap and fuller's earth, produces the finish that is required. Then it is scoured again.

Tentering is the next process. This sets the cloth at a satisfactory width and straightens it for the operations that follow, the first of which is called raising. The millions of tiny hooks on the gigging machine raise up the fibers on the surface of the cloth and leave them in an upright position. The pile or nap is the result. This produces a remarkable change in the appearance and condition of the fabric. Shearing is the next thing. This cuts off all the raised fibers, leaving them of a uniform length. The required gloss and solidity are obtained by the pressing which follows.

A JOLLY TIME AT HOME.

Advice to the Man Whose Wife Is Away on a Vacation.

During any time when your wife is on an extended visit with her relatives you can save money from your board allowance by keeping house for yourself. You may find the following suggestions helpful:

If you forget to order ice you can render the butter serviceable in the following manner: Take a cut glass finger bowl and fill it with cool water Scrape the butter into the finger bowl When ready to spread your bread extract your butter in quantities as needed with the cucumber lifter. That's that flat silver spoon with holes in it.

If you smell smoke you will doubtless find the lamp is smoking and the room is covered with soot. First turn the wick down to save oil, then get a damp cloth and go over everything carefully, rinsing out the cloth from time to time. When cleaning the walls use only a downward motion, so that the streaks will all run vertically.

Not having your wife's social charm you will doubtless be given tough steak by your butcher. One way to make steak tender is to run it repeatedly through the sewing machine. Use a coarse needle, but no thread. The bobbin trough will catch the juice, which can be used later for gravy. If you take out the bobbin first you will have more room for the juice.—Walter A. Dyer in Delineator.

A Shadow Fifty Miles Long.

The peak of Tenerife projects a huge shadow stretching upward of fifty miles across the deep and partly eclipsing the adjoining islands. Exaggerated shadows of immense size are commonly seen in many other places. On the Harz mountains the so called Specter of the Brocken throws gigantic shadows of mountain climbers into the sky, repeating every movement made by them. The same occurs on the summit of Pambamarca, in Peru.

On the tops of Alpine peaks and on the summit of Ben Lomond, in Scotland, mists in one case and rarefied air in the other explain these optical illusions. The same causes produce also colored shadows, varying at each hour of the day and traceable to the dispersion of the solar rays.—Scientific American.

Walkerton

While Mr. and Mrs. John Foster of Brant were sitting around the kitchen fire on Saturday morning they were suddenly shocked by the stovepipes flying in all directions. An investigation showed that lightning had struck and demolished the chimney and had travelled into the kitchen with the above result.

The second robbery that has taken place in the Walkerton liquor store since Mr. Egan took charge was pulled off one night last week, when someone with an appetite for booze entered through a window at the rear of the store and appropriated twenty-five bottles of the choicest brands of whiskey, brandy and gin.

Mrs. Bueker had the misfortune to run a large carving knife into her eye, inflicting a painful and serious wound. She was cutting a large roast when the knife slipped and went forcibly against her eye. Dr. Fraser expects to save the sight.

While Joseph Frieburger and Wm. Bannerman were driving out of Walkerton in a democrat on Friday their team became frightened at an auto driven by Mr. A. H. Wahlquist, and in the mix-up which followed Frieburger was thrown from his rig and had several ribs broken, besides sustaining many bruises and a severe shaking up. The other occupant of the rig escaped unhurt.—Bruce Herald.

Riverdale

Threshing is the order of the day in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolson of Toronto visited friends here recently.

Miss Lou Wiley returned to Meaford last week to resume high school studies.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson of Beaverdale visited friends in this vicinity Wednesday of last week.

Miss E. Briscoe of Killaloe resumed professional duties in our school on Tuesday of last week.

Mrs. J. Gould pleasantly entertained her friends at a quilting bee one day last week.

What is the matter with our esteemed Stone Settlement cor?

Miss Eveline Armstrong of Dundalk is the guest of Miss Letitia Boyd for a few weeks.

Inferring from the low, immoral remarks of our Priceville cor. his morbid intellect is not capable of understanding good, plain, immaculate English. We advise our poor cor. to give much thought to the following lines of the immortal Longfellow:

Pride goeth forth on horseback, grand and gay,
But cometh back on foot and begs its way.
Fame is the fragrance of heroic deeds,
Of flowers of chivalry and not of weeds.

Owen Sound News

Mr. Wm. E. Johnston, of 5th Con. Derby, evidently holds the record for shooting black birds. At 4.30 on Friday afternoon he saw an exceptionally large flock of birds crowded together on the ground and getting a double-barrel gun from the house he took aim and fired just as the flock was rising from the ground. The charge went right into the the midst of them and 18 blackbirds fell dead to the ground.

A young fellow 17 years of age who was known as "John" rode away from the farm of Mr. Robert Jordison, two miles north of Chatsworth, taking with him a suit of clothes, a pair of boots, a watch fob and a small sum of money. The man had been in the employ of Mr. Jordison for a few days and on Thursday last during his employer's absence in Owen Sound, "John" helped himself and headed south towards Durham on one of Mr. Jordison's best horses. Search has been commenced for the young man, but so far he has been traced no further than Williamsford. The horse found its way home a day or two ago. "John" is described as a homely looking lad 5 ft. 6 in., weighing 120 lbs, medium dark complexion, wears Christy stiff pretty well down to his ears, has dark coat, red vest and grey trousers.

Mr. Mullen, a young Scotchman who has been occupying the pulpit of the Babtist Church at Keady for the past three months, was on Friday placed under arrest on a charge of theft. He is at present in Owen Sound gaol awaiting a hearing which will take place tomorrow. Mr. Mullen is accused of robbing the home of Mrs. Sinclair, of Keady, with whom he was boarding. A sum of money amounting to $138 and two gold watches were missing, and were found in the young man's room. A peculiar feature of the affair is that $100 of the amount stolen belonged to the young man himself. Mr. Mullen stoutly denies that he has any connection with the affair. He was well thought of by the people of Keady who are naturally shocked at the serious charge laid against him and there are many who are of the opinion that he will clear himself. He was planning to go to McMaster University at the end of the month.—Sun.
