The voices of spring are in the air and we can smell the perfume of flowers afar off, but it was not so on Friday last. These sensations came on suddenly. Friday was one of the many stormy days of this winter and a good foot of snow fell here. The railway cuttings were filled, the night train was cancelled, and it was not until 3 p.m. Saturday that a train managed to get through. Saturday was a beautiful sunshiny day and Sunday a thaw came on which has stayed with us more or less until time of writing, Tuesday. Everybody hopes that the storm of Friday was a dying gasp.

Walkerton Crows "Sing"

Crows were heard singing in Walkerton on Tuesday, which is a more promising sign of spring than that reported from Flesherton, where a crow was seen frozen on a tree—Herald and Times.

Mr. M. Loree, of Redickville, had a unique experience this week. On Tuesday he attended a wedding at Randwick The thermometer was below zero at going home time, so he heated a couple of bricks and put them in the cutter to keep his feet warm. On arriving home he had some difficulty getting the barn door open and desided to leave the cutter, robes, whip, etc., outside for the night. It was a lucky decision—one that saved his barn—for when he went out to the barn Wednesday morning to put the cutter inside he found that the hot bricks had set fire to the robes and cutter and that all that was left of the outfit was some ashes and the metal parts of the cutter. It was a very narrow escape for the barn for even as it was had the wind been blowing towards it the building would likely have gone. —Stayner Sun.

A very plausible gentleman named Thomas Long struck town a few weeks ago and boarded with Mrs. Fenn. When the first week was up he had no money here, had left it all in Owen Sound, in the Molson's bank, in fact he stated that he had $500 there. At the end of the second week it was the same story, but he said that if she would lend him enough to take him to Owen Sound he would go there and draw it out and give it to her son, who would go with him. Accordingly she gave 70 cents, and while the son got on the train, the man Long did not, and at Park Head Mr. Fenn saw that his bird had taken wings Upon returning to Wiarton he found him and the boarder admitted that he hadn't a cent, that his home was seven miles from Owen Sound, on the Meaford road. The case was given to Robert Ward, who had him brought before the police magistrate and the boarder was given 60 days of hard labor at Walkerton ——Wiarton Canadian.

Mrs Elizabeth Paterson and her daughter, Miss Elmetta Paterson, lost their lives in a fire at Niagara Falls that destroyed the Macartney block.

The chief point of interest at last division court in Mount Forest was a suit entered by a West Luther farmer for $9, the price of a load of wood, against a citizen who claimed that the wood was short and of poor quality. The farmer was allowed $5.50 and had to pay his own costs. There was a sequel to the suit. The farmer struck another citizen, who made some remark about the suit, and was haled before Police Magistrate Macgregor, who imposed a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to about $6.

Mr. Norman L. Wilson, a well-known and very popular resident of Owen Sound, died unexpectedly Saturday morning at the General and Marine Hospital from blood-poisoning, incident, upon a slight accident a week ago. Mr. Wilson, who was Manager of the Owen Sound Iron Works, had a finger mangled in a lathe. The injury was dressed, but was so painful that finally he went to the hospital, intending to have the finger amputated. The operation was not performed and yesterday evening blood-poisoning set in, and dissolution came Sunday morning. Deceased was thirty-one years of age, being the son of Mr Jas. Miller Wilson. He was well-known in militia circles, holding the position of Captain in the Thirty-first Regiment, and was an enthusiastic rifleman.
