BEAUTY CULTURE FOR FARM HOMES

The oft-quoted line from Thomas Hood, "I remember I remember the house where I was born," and another by William Cowper, "Be it a weakness, it deserves some praise, we love the play-place of our early days," touch a responsive chord in the hearts of those who cherish the memory of that childhood home of long ago.

These lines occurred to the present writer as he listened to a remarkable address by C. H. Hodge, editor of the Farmer's Magazine, Toronto, on the occasion of a recent meeting of the Quebec Horticultural Federation in Montreal. The topic was the beautification of farm homes in Ontario, and with the aid of colored lantern slides the speaker described the transformation of the homes of those who entered competitions sponsored by his paper. Indeed, credit for the idea and its realization belongs to Mr. Hodge.

As Mr. Hodge expressed it, we owe to our children the enduring memory of an attractive home, one that in after years they can recall with pleasure and pride, and a child's most impressionable years are between 5 and 12. "With a Glance Backward," by the late, highly esteemed Dean E. A. Howes of Edmonton, records most entertainingly and picturesquely the scenes and events of his childhood in Ontario.

Mr. Hodge showed how marvellously the appearance of a farm home can be improved by a little trimming and painting, by tidying up around it, giving some care to the lawn and especially by planting flowers. The other day the writer heard of a man who offered a house for sale at $3,000 and found no bidder. He then spent $40 on a paint job and sold the house easily for $4,000.

Painters of another color deplore the appearance of a silo on the farm because, they say, it means no more pumpkins among the corn, and poets may rave about the tumble-down shack somewhere. Byron said of Italy, "Thy very weeds are beautiful, thy wastes more rich than other clime's fertility." But surely more beauty and charm attach to the home of peace and plenty.

The Ontario Crop Improvement Association has for its slogan: "Better rural conditions through crop improvement." It is a strange anomaly that many a farmer who takes great pleasure and pride in his thriving field crops, cultivated and fertilized with consummate care, is indifferent to the immediate surroundings of the farm house. Thanks to Mr. Hodge, it may now be said that "the old order changeth, yielding place to new."

You can't accuse the gasoline service stations of radio censorship. They advertise "Free Air."

At all events the Byrd expedition ought to be fairly safe from submarine attacks.

The seed plant catalogues are now being studied.

Just notice an add in a paper with the heading "Truth About Corns," but the way to get the truth is ask the man who wears one.

When tax rates are being struck it is common enough to comment on the rates in various communities but the truth is the tax rate means educational secretary of the United assesment.

Welcomes Comparison In Retail Prices

On April 15th we intend opening our butcher shop in Flesherton, with the merger of the Henderson and Priestley shops. We are not buying both these shops and making one, in order to control prices to our own satisfaction, but we feel that the volume here does not warrant two businesses without charging a wider margin than will be necessary with one business and one overhead. We will welcome comparison of prices on the same quality of meat from other communities where competition is the price-fixing factor.

We will appreciate your business and will try to serve you to the best of our ability
