A Terrible Cyclone Ravages Regina

A terrible cyclone devastated the town of Regina, Sask., on Monday evening, destroying $5,000,000 worth of property and two score people were killed, while over 200 people were injured. Three of the finest churches are in ruins and many fine office buildings and hundreds of residences are a mass of wreckage. Everything on Lorne and Smith streets for a distance of two miles is demolished. The southern half of these streets was filled with fine brick and stone buildings, the homes of the wealthiest citizens. All these were swept away as if made of cardboard and the debris scattered for miles around.

'Round the grave where mother's laid.

—HER DAUGHTERS

William Fraser, who was drunk in Orangeville, is now serving three months in jail because he refused tell where he secured the liquor that "tanked him up."

Dundalk

Messrs John Sinclair and James McPherson, while driving near Maxwell on Sunday, met with a mishap by which they had a narrow escape from serious injury. In driving down a hill the rig in the harness which holds the breeching strap broke, permitting the buggy to run onto the horse. In endeavoring to stop the horse the rig was turned over an embankment and both occupants thrown out. Mr. McPherson was considerably jarred by the fall, but, luckily, escaped without further injury. Mr. Sinclair got wedged in between the wheel and the body of the buggy, so that he was in a perfectly helpless condition so far as extricating himself. He clung to the lines all the while, and, fortunately, the horse did not proceed far. Mr. Sinclair had the side of his face scraped—the closest shave he ever got.

An old landmark in Dundalk was removed the past week when the wood shop on the Norval property on Main street was pulled down. This shop was one of the first buildings erected in Dundalk about 38 years ago. It was used as a wagon-making shop by the late John Norval on the gore. Its destruction now is an improvement to the landscape.—Herald.
