Two Men Killed At Meaford

Meaford, July 18.—A fatal accident, causing two deaths and marked by extraordinary features, occurred here at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when a piledriver used in the construction of the new Sykes street bridge over the Big Head river overbalanced and started to fall upon a group of workmen beneath. A metal bolt at the very top of the piledriver caught in a wire which supplies electricity to the town from the plant of the Georgian Bay Milling Company, preventing the big machine from falling, but this circumstance, which meant the salvation of the workmen below, brought death to two others, for the electrical current was diverted to the frame of the piledriver. William Cherry, of Meaford, operating the engine fifty feet away, received the charge through the steel cable of the piledriver, and fell dead. A man named Johnson, whose home is at Owen Sound, was working half way up the piledriver. He involuntarily seized the cable as the frame tipped, and was also killed, his body falling back into the river. The water was so heavily charged with electricity that George Randall of Meaford, who grasped Johnston's hand to draw out the body, was rendered unconscious. The body was finally pulled out by looping a rope around it. Several spectators received slight shocks from the water or the piledriver frame before the power could be shut off. The bridge under construction is to replace one swept away in the spring floods.

Railway Man Killed

A despatch from Orangeville on Friday last says: A fatal accident took place about 4 o'clock this afternoon at the marl beds of the Superior Portland Cement Company about three miles from this town, whereby William Carson was instantly killed. The Cement Company operates a railway from the works here to the marl beds. Carson, who had charge of a gang of men, was engaged in moving the tracks, and in some manner the bucket attached to the crane on the steam derrick swung around and struck the unfortunate man on the back of the head, breaking his neck and several ribs. Death was instantaneous. It is not likely that an inquest will be held, as it appears from the eye-witnesses that no one was to blame. Carson, who is a widower, aged about 60, was an old and experienced railwayman, and it is said he gave the order which started the crane which resulted in his death.

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing housework all day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by all dealears.

Indian In Trouble

Cephas Cabbage, an old Indian of the Saugeen Reserve, who has made periodical visits to Walkerton, and who has been in this vicinity for the past few months, has put himself into a web of trouble from which he will find it exceedingly hard to extricate himself. The charges which were laid at the investigation of the Children's Aid Society are of a serious nature, that of adbucting and criminally assaulting two little white girls under the age of 14 years, whose names are Eliza Francis and Anneta Cole. The charges were laid last week and as he was known to be in this vicinity, Chief Ferguson, accompanied by a constable from Southampton hired an auto and after searching all Wednesday afternoon found the Indian camp in the vicinity of Belmore. Old Cephas and his squaw and one little girl were taken in custody and brought to Walkerton, the Indians being lodged in the gaol and the girl being sent to the Children's shelter. The other girl had evidently been put wise as to what was transpiring, and thought it best to make herself scarce. The preliminary hearing of the cases took place on Thursday, the squaw being sent to gaol for thirty days on a charge of vagrancy, and Cephas was remanded until Friday of this week. The charges against the Indian are next to that of committing murder, and he is liable to a term in the penitentiary with laces for the offences.—Walkerton Telescope.

The Sea Serpent Again

The sea serpent is here again, says The News-Letter. At various times it has been an open question whether or not these waters are the home of some hideous, dragonish monster. Eye-witnesses have affirmed that they have seen the terrible thing in both Lake Couchiching and Simcoe. This was some years ago

But here it is again. It was seen in Lake Couchiching about a mile out from Orillia wharf on Thursday afternoon by Elijah Yellowhead, eldest son of the late celebrated head Chief Yellowhead of the Ojibway Nation, who is a level-headed and substantial Indian not easily frightened. He was paddling across the lake to Orillia from Rama when the head of a large monster suddenly shot out of the water within a few feet of his canoe. The head looked a golden yellow in color and was about 20 inches in width. Mr. Yellowhead had a close view of the monster. He didn't stop to investigate, however, but dipped in the water and hiked away from it with all his strength. When he arrived in Orillia he related his experience to Ex-Mayor Goffatt and seemed to be considerably agitated by the sight of the monster so much so that the return home across the lake again did not seem particularly pleasing to him.

That some monster of the deep inhabits these waters there is little doubt. It has been seen on different occasions for a number of years and bobs up serenely at different times before the astonished gaze of a much frightened spectator. The last appearance of the sea serpent was at Barrie about ten years ago, when it was seen by several people, who said it had a head resembling a horse and was about ten feet long.

Mr. Ellis was one of the early settlers, coming here when this part was nearly all forest. He was a man of sterling worth, a staunch member of the Methodist church, and, with his esteemed wife, who predeceased him some five years ago, will long be remembered by the people of these parts, and especially in the church, where they were among the early mebmers, large supporters and active workers. The funeral took place to New England cemetery on Thursday afternoon, followed by a large concourse of sympathising friends and neighbors. French Dry Cleaning

We have put in a French Dry Cleaning Plant and are prepared to do this work on short notice and at reasonable prices.

A method introduced by the French for the purpose of cleaning the finest as well as the heavier garments worn, such as wool, felt, linen, cotton, leather, gloves, fur, feathers, straw, lace and waterproof goods without washing or shrinking them so as not to get them out of shape or fade the most delicate fabric trimming.

The fact is well known that a garment of silk or wool, if steam cleaned or washed, can never be pressed into shape, and it takes all the oil out of the wool; so that goods will never wear or look as well again besides shrinking the goods.

Therefore, figuring the small extra expense of Dry Cleaning, no one can afford to take chances of having their work done otherwise.

Many household articles, such as curtains, table covers, drapes, etc, that would be utterly ruined if washed, can be dry Cleaned, thus restoring them to their former beauty and usefulness and will not cause them to fade or the colors to run.

The Dry Cleaning Process prevents the carrying of contagious diseases on garments thus treated; it is also a disinfectant and moth preventive.
