Word has been received here of the death in New York on Thursday, Sept. 12, of Mr. H. M. VanTassel. The deceased gentleman will be remembered by many here as having married Miss Gertie Keefer of Flesherton twelve years ago in August last at Bloomfield, N. J. Mr. Van Tassel was in his 36th year. For more than a year past he had been putting up a brave fight against the white plague, but was forced to succumb. He leaves a sorrowing wife and two children—a boy aged 5½ years and a girl aged 4. Interment took place at Bloomfield, N. J.

The concert held in the auditorium of the high school on the evening of Friday last was one of the most successful ever held here, both in point of numbers and excellence of the program. The artists were Mr. Robert Wilson, comic, and Mr. Ellwood Genoe, elocutionist. The former kept his audience laughing uproariously with an innocent variety of humor, rather above the average of such amusement. Mr. Genoe did not disappoint his friends, and his work on Friday night placed him far above the ordinary elocutionist. His rendering of "How a Mohawk Dies," one of Pauline Johnston's thrilling poems, and Gunga Din," showed masterly power in the emotional role. "Aunty Doleful's visit." and "A Midnight Conversation" proved him to hold as strong a grasp on the humorous. It places us to be able to say truthfully that no elocutionist has ever been heard here who elicited so many favorable comments as did Mr. Genoe. The verdict was unanimously favorable. His work can scarcely be improved on. Miss Grace Bonnick acted as pianist. The receipts amounted to $115.

There was some excitement up at David McCutcheon's on Tuesday night of last week. Three of the children being somewhat indisposed a nurse was engaged to assist Mrs. McCutcheon in taking care of them. About midnight as all were composedly sleeping the nurse laid down for a few moments, and on rising and going to the room where Norman, a twelve-year-old boy had been left sleeping, she was much surprised to find his bed empty. The house and yard was searched for him without avail. By this time the anxiety had naturally become intense and the telephone was made use of to arouse the neighbors, when a general search of the fields and buildings around was instituted. This was kept up until about daylight when the strain was relieved by the boy being found under the table in T. Coates' kitchen, nearly half a mile away, with nothing on but his nightshirt. He was at once put to bed and warmed up and no serious results have since developed. Whether it was a case of delirium or somnambulism is a question.—Creemore Star.
