A person going to the United States now must carry a form showing that the money he has was released by the Foreign Exchange Board. In this age of carrying permits and licenses for one thing and another, one more will not make much difference.

British children enter the United States as aliens under the quota system, but they can remain indefinitely. The manner of entrance is secondary to the one main consideration — that they enter.

CHANGES MADE IN ADVANCED REGISTRY PUREBRED SWINE

Changes in the procedure with regard to advanced registry for swine have recently been made by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, which are of interest to commercial swine producers as well as to breeders of purebed swine. These changes are intended to reduce the time and expense of making inspections of sows and litters entered in Advanced Registry while maintaining the accuracy of the performance records. In future, only two litters of a sow will be inspected and tests will only be made of groups from the litters inspected. Identification of later litters will, therefore, be the responsibility of the breeder. By this change sows will only be pemitted two chances of being tested, but this number appears reasonable since it is doubtful if many sows which cannot complete a test, or obtain satisfactory scores with one of these litters, are sufficiently good to justify the effort and expense of further testing.

Other changes such as no retest of sows which have obtained pass scores or a test of sows with litters of less than eight have the same objective in view but are of less importance because very few animals were involved at any time. With these changes it is anticipated that inspection staffs will be relieved of a considerable amount of purely routine work and will, therefore, be in a position to do inspection work carefully and to spend more time with the breeder in studying and discussing specific breeding problems of which there are still many in the swine industry awaiting solution.

FLESHERTON WON AGAIN

Flesherton softball team entry in the Holland League kept up its winning streak Monday evening when they defeated the fast Holland Centre team 6 to 4, in a most exciting game. "Pete" Dargavel hit a home run with one on and Cec. McTavitsh almost had a dream come true to hit a home run with the bases loaded, when he poled out a three-bagger with three on the paths. Better luck next time, Cec. Two of the regular players were absent.
