SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON 1.
JESUS AND HUMAN AFFLICTION.—Luke 13.
PRINTED TEXT, Luke 13: 1-5, 10-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—We have not a high priest that cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities. Heb. 4: 15.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time. — November-December, A.D. 29.

Place.—Peraea, that part of Palestine which was east of the Jordan River, opposite Judah.

In this lesson we find continual emphasis on Christ's desire to turn the attention of all men to the subject of their own individual, personal salvation, and away from speculating about what will happen to other people, until they have determined in their own hearts to be right with God. Men are as lost today as when Jesus was here, and just as He desired to save men then, so He desires to save men now.

"Except Ye Repent"

Luke 13: 1. "Now there were some present at that very season who told him of the Galilaeans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices." We have no record of the particular massacre which these hearers now report to our Lord, but these pilgrims from Galilee doubtless had come up to Jerusalem for one of the Feasts, probably Tabernacles, and had come into collision with the Romans, perhaps through some fanatical act of rebellion.

2. "And he answered and said unto them, Think ye that these Galilaeans were sinners above all the Galilaeans, because they have suffered these things? 2. I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all in like manner perish. 4. Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and killed them, think ye that they were offenders above all the men that dwell in Jerusalem? 5. I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." What our Lord is here doing is warning his audience that they should not first be concerned about distress that has happened to others, speculating concerning the cause for such, and concluding that those destroyed were particularly wicked men, but rather that they should look into their own hearts, discovering their own wickedness, until they realized that they too were worthy of similar disaster and sudden death, unless they repented. To "repent" means fundamentally, to turn around, to change one's mind, and then, to change one's way of living. Repentance means more than being sorry for one's sin, it means to deliberately turn from one's sins.

Healing and Teaching

10. "And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath day. 11. And behold a woman that had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years; and she was bowed together, and could in no wise lift herself up."

12. "And when Jesus saw her, he called her, and said to her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. 13. And he laid his hands upon her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God." Two things our Lord did. He spoke to her and He laid his hands on her. He separated her out from the multitude in the synagogue, just as He separates every believer from the world of humanity, dealing with each case individually; and then He laid hands on her as a symbol of communicating power to her, enabling her for the first time in eighteen years to stand upright. Whether this was a miracle worked upon nerves or a curvature of the spine, or, what is more probable, both, we are not told, but a miracle it was indeed.

The Sabbath Day

14. "And the ruler of the synagogue, being moved with indignation because Jesus had healed on the sabbath, answered and said to the multitude, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the day of the sabbath." This official was the chief of the elders who formed the local Sanhedrin. Though only first among his equals, the virtual rule of the synagogue devolved upon him. That the daring Innovator, Jesus, should perform one of his Sabbath-breaking cures there was too much for him. 15. "But the Lord answered him, and said, Ye hypocrites, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?" Surely one of God's chosen people was of more value than an ox: to be tied to a manger which daily yielded food was nothing to the bondage in which this woman was held.

Made For Man

The Sabbath rest, meant for man's good, had been turned into an intolerable yoke of evil by these hypocrites . . These men were pretending zeal for the Sabbath, while they were really moved by anger at the miracle, which would have been equally unwelcome on any day of the week. They were pretending that their zeal for the Sabbath was the result of their zeal for God, while it was only zeal for their rabbinical niceties, and had no religious element at all.

16. "And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound, lo, these eighteen years, to have been loosed from this bond on the day of the sabbath? 17. And as he said these things, all his adversaries were put to shame: and all the multitude rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him."

Hot Temper Is Handicap

Loses Friends; Better Learn to "Take It on the Chin"

An uncontrolled temper is costly. By it one may lose friends. On its account many a youth and adult denies himself success at school or at work. Many a job is lost in a temper.

MANY A JOB LOST

Nearly every one of us has faced experiences when we were sure we were unjustly treated by a "boss". But when wise we have also learned to hold our tongues. We must learn "to take it on the chin". Let us always count the cost first, and not let our passion get the better of us.

Many a child or whole family must endure grave hardships because the father-breadwinner, in a fit of temper, lost his job. A certain young father of two little children, who drove a milk wagon, desired one day to see a baseball game. He drove his wagon outside a drug store, telephoned his boss but was denied permission to go that day. In violent rage he rammed the receiver onto the hook, left the horse and wagon standing there and went to the game. It was a long while before he found another job.

UNDIGNIFIED AND UNSAFE

Few soldiers desire to stand at the side of the road and "thumb a ride", as they find it humiliating. Hitch-hiking also is unsafe for every pedestrian in these days of heavy traffic. The Canadian people do not desire to see their men of the fighting services exposed to these conditions; they feel that, with the railways available, and the sums that are being spent on the war, the country's finances are not going to be impaired by providing free rides in trains which often are half empty anyway.

Butter Dearth Fear Needless

Many Canadians Have Stocked Up And Antipodes Stores Always Available

As in the last war, when butter was very high of price, so today, when the price is not so high but rising rather ominously, Canadian householders are shown in many cases as having taken time by the forelock. They have been storing up. It may be the 50-pound box or crock, but many creameries from all over report to the regulating authority at Ottawa that a lot of this has been going on since the early fall.

Thus, it is figured that the quantities referred to in the statistics as being in public storage—about 42,000,000 pounds — is far from the whole picture. Thousands of pounds are reported to be in cellars or out on the balconies, in cases where colder refrigeration is needed. Every box or crock put away will by that much, lessen the consumer demand for butter at the corner groceries.

MANY PUT AWAY BOXES

The War Price Board is not worrying about any shortage of this essential fat. Nor is it considering rationing or the thinning of cream, ice cream, or the skimming of milk for table use.

If the supply should really run short, there can always be transportation from Australia and New Zealand with no restrictions whatever save a five-cent a pound customs duty. Down under, it is always June, in our January. There is plenty of butter to buy there, if need be, and if ships for its commercial transport are available.

Although it is the capital of Iceland, the temperature of Reykjavik rarely goes below freezing-point.

Production of the aircraft industry in anada during 1939 was valued at $12,638,470 as against $6,927,105 in the preceding year.
