Religion, forgetting her station, Forgetting her birthright from God, Set action to warring with nation And scattered dissension abroad. Dear oreads have made men kill each other.
Fair faith has bred hate and despair,
And brother has battled with brother
Because of a difference in prayer.

Ant earth has grown wher and kinder, For man is evolving a sould From nars of an age that was blinder, We rise to a peace strated soul Where once men would attribe in treason
And slaughter each other in hordes, They now most to sather and reseast, fith thoughts or the weapons, not swords

The brute in humanity divindles. And lessons as time speeds along, And the spark of Divinity kindles And blazes up brighely and strong. The seer can behold in the distance The race that shall people the world; Atrong men of a goellike existence Unarmed, and with war banners furled.

Man's vast spirit strongth shall unfold; And tales of red warfare and ravage Shall seem like short efector of old. For the booming of gons and the rattle Of cornage and and at that shall reases. And the busile call, balling to battle,

Shall change to a pierin of peace.

1114 celebrated the anniverency of the Battle of the Boyne on Monday, July 13, at Resonville, There was a good attendance of the brethren present and the people of the currounding country showed the true spirit of protestantism by turning out in goodly numbers. The dinner and ten which was provided by the ledge reflect great credit to the committee as it was everything that could be expected. The music for the procession was very good indeed to say the least, and the gay and frolickeome you'he tripped the light funtastic until the small hours of the morating. The only drawback was the speakers they did not come. Say, we need to have protestant misisters.
