Kimberley Budget

Drawing saw logs is the order of the day.

Mr. Wm. Best and family of Edmonon, are renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity at present.

Mr. Russell McMullen of Eugenia, visited Kimberley friends on Sunday last.

The annual meeting of the Centre Grey Farmers' Intstitute was held in town hall here, on Wednesday, Jan. 22, in the afternoon and evening. In the afternoon Clark Hamilton of Dundas county, spoke on the dairy cow and ensilage question. He strongly favored the Holstein as being the best breed for dairy purposes and also urged every farmer to errect a good silo. In the evening a joint meeting of the Farmers' and Women's Institute was held. Mrs. Norman of Toronto was the lady speaker. She spoke on "Personality" and handled her subject in a very able manner. Mr. Hamilton spoke on "Weeds and their eradication." A good program was given by local members of the Farmers' and Women's Institute. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

Miss Millie Harris of West Toronto, is visiting friends in this vicinity at present,

Mr. Asa Hurlburt of Moosejaw, Sask., visited Kimberley friends the past week. He left for points further east, where he is going to buy a carload of dairy cattle. Mr. Hurlburt is an old Kimberley boy and has done well in the West.

Mr. Will Carruthes of Toronto visited with his mother, Mrs. T. Carruthers, sr., the past week.

Kimberley Poultry Show

The poultry fanciers of Kimberley held their first poultry exhibition on Thursday of last week, when a very nice little show was the result. The competition was not very severe, however, except in barred rocks and the single comb leghorn varieties, of which there was quite a large number of entries. The exhibition was a one-day affair and did not enable the judge to do full justice to the birds, although he gave general satisfaction so far as he went. Only one bird was scored—a barred rock belonging to Mr. Jacob Loughead of Wodehouse—and it was allowed 87¾ points. The judge also gave demonstrations in each class which were invaluable to the various breeders. There is a movement in this district looking towards improved feathered stock and more sane methods of handling them, and this show, though small, will give an added stimulus to the movement. The varieties shown on this occasion embraced only utility stock, there being no prizes for fancy breeds. Among the varieties, and which are comparative strangers here, were Cornish Indian Game, shown by Mr. Hickling ; Langshans, by H. Conn and S. McAslin, and Indian Runner ducks by S. McAslin. These birds attracted considerable attention from those who were not familiar with them. The directors did not charge an admission fee, which we think was a mistake. However, after paying all expenses they have a neat surplus for next year's show and have also gained experiance that will tend to make the show a greater success next year. The bunch was judged by Mr. Geo. Robinson of Ottawa, an expert government judge. Following is the

A Reason Why

The mail order houses, insane speculation, and the trek to the West are the three great influences which are sapping the life out of the rural sections of Ontario. But there will be a reaction some time. The rural population will awake some day to the conclusion that it is time these things should stop. Many of the prosperous villages and towns that used to cover the province are gradually falling by the wayside, simply because the rural population has been sending the money that should go to support these towns away to the city to let the big moguls of mail order houses buy steam yachts and endow hospitals. Only those towns which have developed into manufacturing centres and to a certain extent are self-supporting, have not felt the effects. Would it not be fairer if this money was kept at home and distributed amongst the numerous business places which indirectly support the schools, the churches, the libraries and other institutions that make life in the rural sections more pleasant, more especially whon the local merchants can, in nine cases out of ten, meet the competition of the mail order houses and can frequently do better.—O. S. Sun.

A Word of Praise

From the Clarksburg Review

The Flesherton Advance last week published a well written article by Mrs. W. G Pickell on the "Discovery of Eugenia Falls." The Advance was fortunate in getting Mrs. Pickell's contribution titled as above, and the Advance spoke truly when it said "Mrs. Pickell is gifted with a clever pen," for the article is interesting from start to finish. The illustrations and general appearance of the Advance through the article referred to was enough to make the people of Flesherton cock-a-doodle-do not a little for their village paper.
