Worth Considering

Possibly a good many of the young people who have returned to their places in the secondary schools have never had occasion to stop and consider that it costs their parents a gooo deal to keep them in school. There are parents who are sacrificing to do this very thing although they never say so and they never complain. Might be much better if the children understood more about that side of their schooling.

Too ften there is the mistake made of splitting time by referring to what the scholar intends to do when he is through school. He (or she) may of some sort, but there is so close a line drawn between what takes place during the school years and afterward that it cannot be broken.

We recall one rather outstanding educationist, a successful principai for many years, and he contended that he could tell almost with unfailing accuracy the pupils who would do well after they left school.

His theory was: 'They are already at their life work when they are in school and the application they give to their duties here will be the same as they apply to their work after. It is a mistake to believe that the scholar, after leaving school, starts all over again with a new outlook and a new and better supply of energy and determination. The scholar in after years is going to use exactly the same equipment as employedlin schoo days."

And that, we are satisfied, is truth and nothing else. So the pupil has two things which should never be overlooked, (1) the parents are providing the education, and (2) the pupil in the secondary school is actually giving evidence of the chances he is going to have for success when he leaves school. — Peterborough Examiner.

Our Town is at War

● Men are drilling in our town . . . our own men . . . men we call by their first names. Some of them quit good jobs to join the army . . . some quit school. When the Empire went to war and Canada went to war . . . this town went to war. Every now and then a few more men from this town leave for active service. We're taking the war more seriously. Are we? Are we all? Are those of us who haven't joined up doing all we can? Are we lending all we can? That's one thing we can all do . . . one thing we must all do. We must all buy more War Savings Certificates.

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us.
