One day recently Messrs. Jas. Turner and Jos. Oliver of the O. D. R. hied themselves to the bush and dug out a foxe's den, capturing seven little foxes, which are all doing well. This is Messrs. Turner and Oliver's chance to form a joint stock company and go into fox raising on a commercial scale.

Dr. John Waugh, Inspector of Continuation Schools, spent a couple of days in the R. H. S. here last week. Dr. Waugh was highly pleased with conditions and stated that there was no better all round continuation school in the province. The official report has not yet been received.

Mrs. Percy Neithercut of Dundalk dropped dead on Saturday morning. She had only been married about four moenths. The young couple had recently moved to Dundalk and had not yet got settled. When Mr. Neithercut got up to light the fire he left his wife in bed. Shortly afterward something was heard to fall upstairs and Mrs. Neithercut was was found lying on the floor. She expired immediately.

Rev. T. A. Roger of Owen Sound has been invited to the Cowan Avenue Presbyterian church, Toronto, and will probably accept.

At the close of the service, Dr. Murray, on behalf of the Literary Department of the Epworth League, presented an individual communion service to the Trustees of the church. It consists of three oak trays, each containing thirty-five glasses, and on the outside is a silver plate suitably engraved. It is a gift of which the congregation may be well pleased.

Miss McPhee, an exexpert in bread making, gave a demonstration in the town hall on Friday last before some fifty ladies, and now, for a short time at least, no doubt the baker will find his receipts falling off. The lady demonstrated how bread could be made in four hours and says if her ideas are followed the day of sour bread is past. The lessons also included brown bread, bun and pastry making, and embraced many useful hints. The demonstration was under the auspices of the Women's Institute.

Circumstantial Evidence

To the Editor of The Advance:

Dear Sir,—I am enclosing a clipping from to-day's Owen Sound Sun re the Love murder case, which—one paragraph in particular—attracted my attention as misleading and false, as regards the first and only hanging we ever had in Owen Sound. The Sun must know quite well, and if not they could easily get the desired information, regarding that confession made on a dying bed, that not only did not clear the murderer, Cook Teat, and cause him to become an innocent victim, but it made it known to the world that instead of two murderers being hung for causing the death of an innocent person, only one paid the penalty; for if my memory serves me right it was Cook Teats' mother-in-law that made the confession that Teats procured the poison but did administer it, but as I was so young at the time I don't remember if the mother had to admit she had administered it, or if she really said who did administer it; but as the victim was poisoned to death for insurance money, that much is certain and whether Teats administered it or not, is of no importance, for having procured it, knowing for what purpose it was intended, made him equally guilty with the party that did administer it. So if that kind of a criminal constitutes an innocent man, the Sun must have a strange conception of what constitutes a guilty man. It looks very much as though the Sun was trying to frustrate the ends of Justice, not on the ground of sentiment alone, but on that of false representation as well. The presiding Judge on the Love murder case said that Love had received a very fair trial, as fair as any British subject could possibly receive. But because the twelve good men and true had returned a verdict in accordance with the evidence (a thing which they were compelled to do in keeping with their oath,) the Sun would wish to see that verdict set aside, but how he can ignore it with his conscience, by wishing presumably an "innocent man" sent to penitentiary for life is most amazing. For if Love is innocent the only alternative is freedom, any other sentence would be miscarriage of justice. Did not British law condemn and hang the perpetrator of the most sensational murder case England has had in modern times on circumstantial evidence? and does not British law recognize circumstantial evidence as good British jurisprudence? Now Mr. Editor, I did not scribble this for publication, but you can do with it as you wish, only I want the Sun and Burks Falls Arrow to have their false statement nailed.

—A FRIEND OF JUSTICE.

Owen Sound, April 25, 1913.

Gavin Wilson, of Turnberry, near Wingham, had two cows calve recently and they both brought him twins, thus adding four head to his herd. Mr. Wilson (though a good Liberal the Advance says) is fair, and good-naturedly gives the Borden Government credit for a lot of good things, but is really elated over this last evidence of their beneficent rule. If the Borden Government continue showering blessings like this on Gavin, he'll be supporting their candidate at the next election.

Be Careful!

You better be careful in the selection of your twine this year. Be sure you get the best. Beware of mixed twines, which are really composed of low grade manila. They are unsatisfactory at the best, and they will annoy you to death straightening out tangles and picking up loose bundles. Buy good sisal, standard sisal, or high-grade manila binder twine and save yourself annoyance.

When you consider the satisfaction that sisal, standard sisal and high-grade manila binder twine will give and the amount of extra labor good twine will save, you will more fully understand the value of McCormick twines. McCormick binder twine is made in four brands—sisal, standard, manila, pure manila. Every brand is up to the McCormick quality. You will get perfect satisfaction if you use McCormick twine.

Don't be misled, come direct to us and we will explain the twine proposition.
