This interesting poem, relating to the ntroduction of Diamond Dyes to the monarch and people of an oriental nation is worth sending for.

The little book minutely describes the work and success achieved by one who was earnestly devoted to his mission. Few commercial travellers of the past or present ever handled a work so successfully, and few, indeed, could be found strong enough to resist the bribes and The Victoria Avarder temptations that were placed before the hero of the story. The little book is appropriately illustrated, and will interest old and young.
