ABOUT GLASSES.

There is such a thing as wearing glasses when you should'nt, and not wearing them when you should. It's a mistake to do either. When you are in doubt we would request you to call on us and have your eyes care fully attended to. It costs you nothing to talk the matter over with us, and you may avoid serious trouble resulting from wrongly adjusted glasses.

We prescribe no glasses where none are needed; and if you do need them we sell a much finer quality at a lower price than you can purchase elsowhere.

IN HIS NATIVE CITY.

Her Majesty's ship Blenheim, with the body of the late premier arrived in Halifax at noon on Tuesday. Shortly after two o'clock the body was taken on shore, minute guns being fired while the ship's band played the "Dead March." The body was placed on a gun carriage and conveyed to the provincial buildings, where it lay in state until Thursday when the funeral took place. The building was draped on the outside in black and white, the chamber in which the body was laid being also appropriately draped with the emblem of mourning. It is estimated that 45,000 people passed through the chamber to take a last look at the casket that contained all that remained of one who as a jurist, or statesman, was a credit to his native city as well as Canada.

HONOR BESTOWED.

The Queen has created Mackenzie Bowell a K.C.M.G., an act which will be hailed with pleasure by Canadians from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Sir Mackenzie Bowell weil deserves the honor bestowed upon him by our Gracious Sovereign, an honor which we hope he will long live to enjoy.

Since the foregoing was in type the following telegram was received on Thursday afternoon, which created considerable alarm and anxiety :-

Halifax, N. B. -Sir Mackengle Bowell, the new premier is seriously ill and his recovery is doubtful,

The bad news, however, of this tele gram was modified by a later one which stated that there was no cause for alarm.

MUNICIPAL.

Those who criticise the tewn council for 1894, and can see nothing good they have done should bear in mind that as far as financial matters are concerned they have a record that few of preceeding councils have attained, and one that future councils would do well to follow. At the commencement of the year they had a debt of $2200 from the previous year to meet, they leave at the end of the year a clear sheet, no outstanding accounts.

Over 200 feet more sidewalks were built than were estimated for, yet still the street and bridge committee kept within the amount appropriated. We do not endorse all the actions of the council, but thus much may be said they have left a record, the matters referred to, that future councils would do well to follow. The Tickets good going December 24'h and 25th, good to return leaving destination not later than December 26th, 1894 Also on December simple fact is the council were practical not theorists.

FENELON FALLS.

THE annual sea of the baptist church took place on New Year's day, and was a great success. After the ample and luxur. ton, as I have been told, always said Orillia's Prominent Furniture addresses were delivered by Revs. Farn-comb and McColl. The chair was ably filled by the pastor, Rev. J. Frazer, and the evening was varied by music from the choir and a reading well-rendered by Mr. Wm. Graham of Smithtown.

THE usual nominations took place on Monday, Mr. James Dickson being elected for reeve by acclamation; whilst Messrs Slater, Golden, Wm. Jordan, Martin, Sandford, T. Johnstone and E. Fitzgerald were nominated as councillors, and Messrs. Sandford, Heard, T. R. bson, Nie and McKendry as school trustees. MIDNIGHT service was held in St. James church on New Year's eve, a large number being present to hear the very beautiful address of Rev. Wm Farncomb.

Town Council.

A special meeting of the town council to wind up the business of the year was he'd on Thursday, 27th ult. All members present, excepting Mesers, O'Halloran, Keith and Biain.

A D. Mallon and P. Jawett were present, each giving his version of the incidents relating to the taxes charged against a lot owned by the former. After a short breezy discussion by the former. After a short breezy discussion a motion to accept the amount of the taxes less interest charged, was accepted.

The report of the figures committe, recommending the payment of several accounts, amounting in all to $246.48; that the reporters for the three local papers receive $10 each, as recommended by resolution of the council; that the chief constable collect the sum of $5 from the agricultural society, being fee for merry go-round. Adopted.

Councillor Touchbourn read a statement of the work done under the supervision of the street and bridge committee during the year. The estimated number of rods of sidewalk to be built were 1536 constructed 1773, new

The estimated number of rods of sidewalk to be built were 1536 constructed 1773, new plank purchased 131 000 feet, old plank utilized 79 200, cedar 5 200 lineal feet, 69 cords of stone were broken and 185 loads placed on on the street with face broken, 760 yards of gravel were also placed on the street, Although 278 rods of side walk more than was estimated for had been built the committee had k-pt within the appropriation, there being still a balance to the credit of the committee in the treasury. Mr. Touchbarry ing still a balance to the credit of the committee in the treasury, Mr. Touchbourn thanked the council for passing the reports of the committee without any trimming. On motion the report was ordered to be fyled.

A motion was passed, authorizing the town solicitor to accept from Mr. Farrier, the fruit merchant, who had instituted a suit again tex mayor Ray, against whom the town had realized judgment for costs, a cash paymout instead of waiting to realize on the judgment.

After a few pleasant words had been exchanged between Mr. Orandell and Mr. Touchbourn, the minutes were read, and the council adjourned.

Which Cronin Was Executed.

Which Gronin Was Executed.

The newspapers generally speak of the gallows upon which Jack Cronin was executed as something almost entirely new. The New York Herald says: "The automatic gallows used to hang Cronin is an improvement on the Colorado hydraulic gallows. It was built by one of the convicts, James H. Rabbett, of Stamford, an ingenious mechanic, who was recently pardoned. An arrangement of shot in the cylinder is substituted for the hydraulic features in the Colorado hanging machine. The gallows lifted the victim suddenly into the air six feet. This movement was caused by the rapid descent of a yeight of 312 pounds at the other end of the rope furthest from the noose. The knot of the noose was adjusted behind the left jaw, and as the rope became taut by the falling of the weight, the full force of a blow of 312 pounds was concentrated upon the knot, breaking the neck instantly. The body then fell to within two feet of the platform upon which the condemned man had stood. This device has superseded the trap door in almost all modern gallows. The peculiarity of the Connecticut gallows is in the method of controling the drop of the weight. The condemned man stood on an iron plate two feet square, by his weight releasing a sliding valve at the bottom of the cylinder, containing fifty pounds of shot. As the shot ran out, a lever connection holding the weight dropped and all was over." The Connecticut gallows differ but very little from the gallows constructed in this city twenty years ago when General E. O. Beers was sheriff, and which, this city twenty years ago when General E. O. Beers was sheriff, and which, eral E. O. Beers was sheriff. and which, after sending a dozen culprits into eternity, now repose among other rubbish in the court house cellar in this city. The principle of General Beer's gallows is identical with the Connecticut gallows, except as to it being automatic, the executioner using the Beers gallows having to sever a small rope that releases the weight. General Beers could have patented his gallows had he so desired, but that the instrument was sure sired, but that the instrument was sure and quick death was all that he desired.

The subject of pronunciation has been up for discussion a good deal of late. The following regarding "don't" and "doesn't" should be of interest, coming from the best authority. "Don't is like dropping the final g of the present particle, a vulgarity of people of culture. Thackeray and Anthony Trollope constantly place it, a eng with ain't for "ain't not" or "is not," in the mouths of their highly-bred characters. The late Prince Consort used it. I recollect, says a writer whose name unfortunately has a writer whose name unfortunately, has a writer whose name unfortunately, has been lost — quoting from memory from his "Life," by Sir. T. Martin — that, speaking of the Princess Beatrice as an infant the Prince wrote. "She don't like it." Other corruptions are, or were, 'em for "them," Hawvut for "Harriet," chawvut for "chariot," yallow for "yellow," tossel for "tassel," Lunnon for "London," Roome for "Rome," goold for "gold," oblege for "oblige." The first duke of Wellington, as I have been told, always said obleege. It certainly does grate upon the ear to hear don't used for "doesn't," and yet we find it used in the "Pickwick Papers," in the song which Mr. Wardle sings on Christmas Eve at the Manor Farm, Digby Dell:

And love that's too strong, why, it den't last as many have found to their pain. In East Anglia they say "you don't ought," which, though true, is slightly ungrammatical.

The Power of Suggestion, The full significance of suggestibility The full significance of suggestionity is apparent when we remember that teaching, preaching, acting, public speaking and pleading are forms of suggestion, says Professor E. W. Scripture, of Yale University. The treaks of hypnotism are performed by suggestion. The faith cures and miraculous effects of the grotto of Lourdes are benevolent suggestions bringing us into a religious frame of mind. The manipulations of the spiritualists and the monotonous blackness of a funeral are all forms of suggestion. How shall we develop the children so as to produce in them minds well balanced in respect to suggestion?

It is now certain that neither Dr. J . Guillotin, who is said to have died upon the instrument which has a name strikingly like his own, nor Dr. J. B. V. Guillotine who has also been given the credit of being its inventor, was the designer of the French instrument of capital punishment. It is known to have been in use in Italy at least 590 years before the time of either of the centlemen mentioned, and was the recognized instrument used for inflicting the death ponalty in Scotland during both the lifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Conradin of Swabia was executed by such a machine in Naples in the year 1268 and that it was used in France more than 100 years before the time of Dr. J, I, Guillotin is proven by the fact that the Duc de Montmorency was decapitated "by a sliding ax" in 1632.—St. Louis Republic.

The Dog Wanted His Old Friend, William Winpenny, of Queen Lake, was, until a few days ago, the owner of a pet parrot, which he had purchased in New Orleans several years ago. The bird was a veritable hous hold pet, being allowed liberties that no other parrot ever enjoyed. Its constant chatter amused the members of the family, especially at meal time, when Polly was regularly placed at the table, receiving the choicest tid-bits for her meals. A few days ago Polly died, and was reverently buried in the yard, with a little headstone to mark the grave. The next day's dinner was a mournful a little headsione to mark the grave. The next day's dinner was a mournful one for the family, Polly being sadly missed. The old house dog, Pomp, looked on with a wistful eye, surmising that something was wrong. The instinct of the brute solved the problem, and without more ado, he went into the garden, dug up the parrot, and carrying it in to the dining-room, deposited it in its accustoned place.—Philadelphia Record.
