THE BUSINESS MAN'S ETHICS

The Shelburne Free Press gives a little talk on the inconsistent business man and mail order business that can be appreciated by every editor in the country. They have all had similar experience. Speaking of the fight that country papers have made against the mail order houses the Free Press says:

We can name over a score of subscribers who quit the Free Press on that account as they dealt largely with mail order houses. If the editors of Ontario had recieved regular advertising rates for all they have said against the enemies of the country merchants they could now be wearing diamonds. The department stores appreciate advertising space and are willing to take all the average country paper has for sale, and at a good rate. This paper has refused them time and again. What other class of business or professional men would refuse business to help their friends when many of said friends never seem in the least disposed to return the compliment or even appreciate it?

The Free Press might have gone further, too, without treading too hard on some people's toes. We venture to say that every country editor could tell of men whose advertising never appears in the home paper. They rely on getting a sprinkling of the business brought to town by their more enterprising advertising neighbors, and are apparently satisfied with the little business they can rake out from under the feet of others. Twenty-five or fifty dollars paid out for advertising is considered as thrown away by such people. As a consequence their business does not grow, and they wonder why. Again, when specialties are placed on the market they wait until the advertising business man has created a demand, then rush after the goods and put them on sale. It is a question if business men dealing in such methods will ever make much of a success in their business, because the buying public know that they carry these ethics through all their transactions and do not care to deal with them.

We feel free to elaborate thus on the Free Press article, because Flesherton is singularly blessed in having a more honorable class of merchants who would not stoop to tactics of this description.

County Council

This week the county council is in session and so far nothing of great moment has been done, if one or two matters are excepted. The county fathers got down to business on Monday evening, but their sitting was short, occupying only about one half hour, and consisting chiefly of the calling of the roll, and the reception of a few communications and reports. On the day following they sweltered through a considerable amount of work. They looked into the presentment of the Grand Jury as given out by that body last April. As is well known this is a scathing arraignment of the county for not providing a better county building, and laying bare the antiquated features of the present court house and county buildings. But the council decided to handle it very charily and with as little discussion as possible they ordered it placed on file. The warden, Dr. Mearns of Hanover, did not think that the Grand Jury had been entirely justified in the language they had used with regard to the county buildings and he thought that it was not a good record for the county to have published all over the province. Anyhow it was laid to rest for the time being. On Wednesday the council gave the third and final reading to the bylaw to provide twenty thousand dollars by the sale of debentures to meet the extraordinary expenditure caused by the sweeping away of a number of the bridges in the county over a year ago. Also they dealt with the matter of equalized assessment. It remains just as it was last year, none of the municipalities being assessed more highly than in 1912. With regard to the assessment and the amount of money required for county purposes it may be said that the total which will be raised under the present assessment will fall several thousand dollars short of the requirement as included in the estimates of County Treasurer S. J. Parker.—Times.

Presentation

By resolution of Court Flesherton No. 995, I. O. F., held on June 27th, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. H. E. Wellwood, for the very able sermon delivered to members on Sunday, June 22nd, also an address as follows.

To Rev. H. E. Wellwood:

Dear Sir and Bro.—We, the members of Court Flesherton No. 995, I. O. F., desire to convey to you our appreciation of the service you have rendered us, as a court, from time to time, during your stay with us. We regret that circumstances make it necessary that you and your family be removed from our community, but we sincerely hope you will see fit to leave your certificate of membership with us. We congratulate you upon being a member of our noble Order, and we trust that you may live long to enjoy Liberty, Benevolence and Concord, which is our noble Motto. As a slight token of appreciation, we would ask you to accept this purse. May you have success in your life's work, namely; winning souls for Jesus; and that through your personal efforts you may give the Pass Word to many a other Man, whereby he may earn Eternal Life. Signed on behalf of the Court.

One Hundred Years Old

Mrs. McDougall of Woodbridge, grandmother of Mr. S. Shunk of Flesherton, celebrated her centenary birthday recently and last week the Family Herald and weekly Star reported this interesting event as follows:

One hundred years of peaceful, tranquil life, just a little bit retired from the rush of modern life, and yet not isolated by any means—such has been the portion granted to Mary Loynachan McDougall, widow of the late William McDougall.

Mrs. McDougall celebrated her birthday on June 18, surrounded by members of her huge family of five generations, at her home in Edgely, York County, a little place about sixteen miles out of Toronto. The realization that the old lady had passed the alloted time by fully thirty years, had sent a thrill of joy to many hearts in all parts of Canada and the United States.

"It is nice for all of us to think that mother has passed safely her hundred years of good and peaceful life," said a daughter of Mrs. Tuning in conversation with a press representative. She has always been very happy, and never worried about small things. This, I suppose, is the reason for her long life.

Mrs. McDougall was born in South End, Argyleshire, Scotland, in 1813, and came to Canada in 1838. She has lived in Ontario for a long time.

Thrown from Rig

Owen Sound, Ont., June 26 —One of the early settlers of Sydenham, Mr. Patrick Cunningham, was thrown out of a rig and instantly killed. In the absence of his son, John, who was in town. Mr. Cunningham, who was a man of 75 years, hitched a horse to a light rig and, accompanied by a small boy, went out across the farm to search for a lost calf. When about a mile from the house the horse took fright and in the runaway threw the aged man and boy out of the rig. Mr. Cunningham, who was in a feeble condition on account of his years, was instantly killed. The boy was unhurt.
