GLOBE AND GUARDIAN

The Christian Guardian of last week gave the Globe editor a castigation that he will not soon forget, and to which, thus far, he has been unable to find words in which to make a fitting reply. It looks as though the Guardian had administered a knock out blow.

The whole trouble between the Guardian and Globe is the fact that while shouting enthusiastically for the abolishment of the bar it barters its aid towards building up a market for wet goods sans the bar. The Globe endeavors to divorce its editorial page from the advertising pages. In fact Rev. Dr. McDonald, the editor, repudiates any connection between the two. The general public and the Guardian cannot see eye to eye with him in this respect The advertising, you know, helps to pay the editor's salary and therefore the two cannot be divorced by any means which the editor of the Globe can employ.

The Globe charges the churches with being bound up with the liquor traffic to the extent of being forced to pay taxes toward the cost of government, while the churches are untaxed, thus obliging the liquor business to help pay their share. The Guardian's answer to this is a classic in its way and should forever silence such an argument. By using such logic, the Globe lays itself open to one of the most cutting replies that we have read for some time, and which has by this time no doubt has soaked thoroughly into the Globe editor's brain.

The Guardian's reply to this aspect of the question is as follows.

"Mr. Saloon-keeper, we justify the exemption of church property from taxation on the ground that the church is a public benefactor. It is a social and enconomic blessing. It does more to keep law and order in the community than three dozen plain clothes policemen would. It serves the neighborhood in which it is placed at many points, and always—or shall we say nearly always, to strengthen our argument?—helpfully and healthfully. The community owes it something, owes it much, and you, Mr. Saloon keeper, are a member of the community that owes it a special debt."

"But really, my dear sir, you will excuse me for saying so, but the community doesn't owe you very much. Your business is a social and economic curse. Every up-to-date economist or sociologist in the world says the same thing, so we can be pardoned for mentioning it. You make your money with less expenditure of brains and cash than anyone else. Whatever economic value your business may have is wiped out many times over by the fact that it is a woeful nuisance in the community. You make for lawlessness and disorder. You help to keep our police courts working overtime. Why, you are the greatest hindrance the church has to its work. It wouldn't need to have half so much for its poor fund if you weren't on the job. Why, man, you owe every one in sight. And if everyone took something out of you every time you wouldn't even then half pay your debts. The little the church gets out of you isn't the one-thousandth part of what you owe it. And the church takes it without compromise, too, for it would kill your business to-morrow if it could, and send you off to do a decent man's job."

THE WESTERN HARVEST PROBLEM

There is a probability that the financial stringency and dearth of speculative buying and depression in the West will fall heavily on the farmer when it comes to harvesting his crop. From all accounts, and judging by conditions, the exodus of farm help from old Ontario will show a serious falling off this year. Work is plentiful here and wages good, while the country, too, has been pretty well drained of young men suitable for harvest work. In the past many young men have gone West to work in the harvest, and later to become settlers. Those who go for the harvest alone find that it does not pay if they purpose returning, as the trip out and back takes up most of their earnings. We have known some to return without having a dollar of their earnings left, but the experience may have been as bread cast on the waters. To the young men who wish to make their home in the West (and these are now limited in this section for reasons before mentioned) the harvest excursion is a good thing; but as a money-maker it is a failure, and with the present plethora of work here and good, steady wages, the inducement will not be great enough to draw the army of workers required for the western wheat fields.

The governments of the prairie provinces are trying to entice workmen this year from British Columbia, where conditions have forced many men into idleness. Let us hope that they will be successful.

Accidentally Shot

On Wednesday of last week, Mr. John Staples met with an accident which terminated in death on Sunday morning last.

In putting away the gun he had been using, he caught it by the muzzle, and undertook to hang it up by the trigger guard. The weapon was loaded, and whether cocked or not, we do not know. While attempting to put it in place, it discharged and the load lodged in the upper portion of his leg. The accident appeared serious from the first, but recovery was hopeful. Medical aid was at once summoned, and all possible assistance rendered. He had some nails in his pocket, and these were driven into the leg by the force of the charge. Blood poisoning set in, and the suffering man was in a state of intense agony for several hours, before his sufferings were relieved by death on Sunday.

The deceased gentleman, who was 68 years of age, has been a resident of Glenelg for a great many years, and was well-known as an honest, upright citizen and a good neighbor. He has had a great deal of trouble during the past few years, having lost five of his family, three sons and two daughters from tuberculosis. Five or six years ago, he had his barn burned, together with his year's crop, and bore all his misfortunes with a calmness that would crush most men.

Besides his sorrowing widow, he leaves four daughters, Mrs. Joshua Dean, and Mrs. Fentiman, of Toronto and Mrs. Wesley Ball of Mt. Forest. Besides, he leaves four brothers and two sisters George, in Glenelg; James, in Markdale; Benjamin, in California; Dr. W. D. Staples in Hanover; Mrs. James Whitmore, in Glenelg, and Mrs. Cowie, in Allandale.

Another daughter, Mrs. Wilson, lives at Invermay, Sask.

Interment under L. O. L. colors, took place Tuesday afternoon to Trinity church cemetery.—Durham Chronicle

Young Man Suicides

On Friday last the neighbors of the sixth line of Sunnidale were shocked to hear of the sad and tragic death of Mr. John Wines, a much respected and well-to-do young man of the vicinity, who took his own life while in a state of despondency.

Mr. Wines had been a resident of Sunnidale all his life and last fall purchased a farm on which he lived alone. He had been accustomed to get his meals at Mr. Marchel Desjardine's, a neighboring farmer, and to exchange work with another neighbor Mr. Shepherd.

On the morning of the tradgedy Mr. Shepherd sent his little boy over to Mr. Wines' farm to see if he would come and help him draw in hay that afternoon. The little lad was not able to find him, and Mr. Shepherd went to Mr. Desjardines at dinner time expecting to see him there, and not finding him he went across to Wines' barn where he found him hanging in the stable, life being extinct. Dr. McPaul of Collingwood, the Coroner, was notified at once, and he decided an inquest was unnecessary. — Stayner Sun.

Fire In Mono

Orangeville, July 27.—The house of Hilliard Anderson, ex-Reeve of Mono, was totally destroyed by fire, together with the contents, on Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were here when word was telephoned of their loss.

Harry Brown, a young English farm hand, who formerly worked for Mr. Anderson, was arrested by Chief Marshall at 3 o'clock this morning, charged with arson, and lodged in the county jail. He told a story of having been held up by two men and shot at. The coat of the prisoner had the marks of three revolver shots, evidently fired from the inside by the man himself, as the cloth was burned.

The revolver was, it is alleged, stolen by Brown from Anderson, and traded for a watch at a local jeweller's store, and the watch sold. The evidence against Brown, who is about 20 years old, is said to be strong. Later the young man acknowledged that he burned the house.

Dundalk

Reeve Bell has been suffering from blood poisoning but is now on the mend. Some time ago he received a nasty scrape on the arm and poison from the wound went through the system.

Fishing on Sunday is contrary to the law and it is also an offence against the morals of the community. The Rowbottom Fishing Club have a suspected case and the members of the club are very indignant that an attempt at illegal fishing should be made on their premises.

A destructive fire occurred at Bryce Hill early Thursday morning of last week when Murt Woolsey's saw-mill was destroyed, with a quantity of shingles and lumber. It is not known how the fire originated, but it was beyond control when first discovered. A large number of neighbors assisted in saving some of the stock. The mill was established a number of years ago and did quite a large business in lumber, shingles and grain chopping. Its removal is a decided loss to that community. Much sympathy is expressed for the owner, who is a heavy loser. There was only a small insurance carried, as the rate on that class of property is very high.—Herald.

Messrs. Jas. Jelly, W. Calhoun, A. McGrath and Dr. Frank went up to Mulmur Lake Tuesday and returned Wednesday, bringing with them as trophies of their prowess four lake trout, each in the neighborhood of two feet lang and with a combined weight of seventeen pounds. Another trout they landed weighed a pound and three-quarters. The big ones bring to mind the trout weighing over ten pounds each that were caught in this lake a few years ago.—Shelburne Economist.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

BEFORE TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience:
"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.
