HAIL TO THE VICTOR

When Private Hawkins of Toronto recently won the King's prize of $1200 at Bisley, his victory was heralded around the world, and paeas of praise were raised at his prowess. He had done something that none of the other competitors could do, and as a consequence he is a hero to be feted and petted and made much of. His victory did not mean anything added to the world's wealth,or tend to the betterment of mankind in any way. It merely proved that he could shoot straight—had studied trajectory and air currents with their effect on the velocity and deflection of bullets until he could hit the bullseye at half a mile.

The knowledge thus gained has won for him twelve hundred dollars, an interesting holiday and the plaudits of his fellow men throughout the empire. But the honor attached to a victory of this kind is of the most ephemeral nature, and next year it will be forgotten in the demand made by a new champion. Only those to whom he shows his medal will remember that Private Hawkins won the King's prize for shooting in 1913.

This victory is all very well as sport, but it is not the solid thing that Canada needs. There is a man living out in the West who is a thousand times more deserving of the plandits of Canadians, and whose memory will no doubt be cherished long after Private Hawkins has fired his last shot. We refer to the man who produced Marquis wheat.

When Dean Swift wrote his Gulliver's Travels he put into the mouth one of his characters the following words : "And he gave it as his opinion, that whoever could make two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together."

And he might have added expert marksmen to the politicians.

But the most important lesson to be learned from this episode is the fact that a man who can do anything a little better than his neighbor, no matter what, is a champion and consequently a hero. There are prizes to be won and honors to be gained in every walk of life if we excel in what we undertake.

AN ILLUSTRATION

In conversation with a party who taught school in a section not far from Flesherton some thirty years ago The Advance unearthed a condition that will illustrate better than any other means the marvelous change that has taken place during that time where teachers and teachers' salaries are concerned.

The party in question received at that time the munificent annual salary of $240 for her services. She asked for $260 but the trustees could not see their way clear to increasing the salary so outrageously. One trustee remarked : "We will soon have to sell our farms if salaries go up like this!" The teacher got a larger salary in another school and the section she left was obliged to pay $300 to a new teacher. That section to-day pays its teacher a salary of $600 and there is no murmuring. But it is a big step in advance of the high-water mark of thirty years ago when $240 was thought to be the limit.

Edward Hope, sr., of this town, says the Chesley Enterprise, is wearing for everyday work a coat and vest that he purchased 25 years ago from James Halliday, ex-M.P., who was in business in Chesley at the time of the big fire. Mr. Hope brought in a load of hay for Mr. Halliday and as he had lost heavily in the conflagration it was agreed that Mr. Hope should have a suit of black serge made in payment for the hay. As our own Edward has been wearing the coat and vest for 25 years, and they are still good for several years, it looks as though he got good value for his hay The old song about the "Hat my father wore" might it changed to "coat" aptly apply to the one Edward Hope is wearing down in the flour and feed store.

Toronto Line North

Last Week's Items.

Rain came at last, after many threatening attempts.

Miss Adda Wright of Flesherton visited with Miss Elva Lever.

Messrs. Fred and Lyall Mathewson of Toronto visited a few days with their uncle, Fred Mathewson, here.

Mr. Brown and Miss Lever held their annual farmer's picnic on Thursday, in the former's beautiful grove. As well as other sports, games were indulged in ; from these we learn that Toronto Line possesses some good players. The ladies of the district who are famous in culinary art furnished the good things which seemed to satisfy everyone's appetite. The picnic was enjoyable and successful. Hope we may have another next year.

A number of East Mountain young people visited at Mr. Thos. Lever's, recently.

Mrs. J. Manning has returned home to Brussels, after a week's visit with her daughters, Mrs. J. Lever and Mrs. Fred Mathewson.

This Week's Items

Harvesting is in progress.

Mr. Myron Cole of Forest and brother Frank of Pontiac, Mich., with their wives and children visited the former's sister, Mrs. Chas. Stewart. They were on a motoring holiday.

Master Eddie Davis of Cheeseville is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Geo. Swanton.

A very enjoyable and pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Lever on Friday evening, when Miss Elva Lever met her friends and neighbors for the last time before her departure from their midst. She left Monday to attend Model school at Hanover. She was accompanied by Miss Hazel Allen of East Mountain, who also attends Model.

Miss Nellie Boland of "the oaks," Vandeleur, is visiting with her aunt, Mrs. W. Swanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wickens of Toronto are visiting at the former's parental home.

Mrs. G. Cousin and babe, and Miss Irene Cousin returned to their home in Toronto, after a fortnight's visit with Mrs. G. Swanton.

Miss Elva Lever and sister, Clarissa, spent the week end with East Mountain friends.

Walkerton

An amusing incident took place at the G. T. R. station on Tuesday morning in which two hogs put one over on Jack Cahoon of Brant. Jack left his farm on the gravel road with the two pigs in his wagon to catch the stock train south and when he arrived at the yards he called Mr. Frank Smith the buyer, to help him unload his swine, but to his discomfiture when he looked into the wagon, the pigs were not there. First assuring himself that he was awake, Jack turned to Mr. Smith and exclaimed. "I'm dead sure I put those pigs in there!". This nevertheless did not alter the situation, and Jack climbed disconsolately into his seat and started homeward. He had only proceeded as far as the biscuit factory, however, when he discovered his porkers along the roadside. Jack would not trust them in the wagon and drove them on foot to the depot, arriving there in time to catch the train. Mr. Cahoon has not yet been able to figure out just how his wayward porkers got out of the wagon

Early Saturday evening Chief of Police Ferguson received a hurry-up call from the west ward to arrest a young lad, who it was alleged had stolen a gold watch from a man who resides in the same building as himself. The theft was noticed shortly after it was committed and circumstances pointed strongly towards the youth and the loser struck out on his trail which led him to the vicinity of Truax's dam. The Chief who had in the meantime been called, hurriedly followed, but the youth had given them the slip and after a short search they returned to the abode of the man where to their surprise they found the stolen watch lying on the doorstep. This was a very wise move on the part of the youth as all parties were satisfied at the recovery of the watch and he thus saved himself from being put into a very unpleasant situation. The youth in question is of a rather thriftless disposition and it was just another case of, "There is always plenty evil for idle hands to do.—Telescope.

Mr. Wm. H. May, one of the best known and highly esteemed farmers in the township of Ashfield, fell off a load of hay on Friday the 18th inst. When picked up he was dead, the fall having severed his windpipe and broken his neck. He was using a hay loader at the time. The remains were interred on Sunday last.—Reporter.

Thornbury has been reported dead since the passing of local option, yet the Thornbury Herald says : "T. W. Eastland, general merchant, Thornbury, has just completed a fine large addition to his store. His business during the past has so increased that he found it necessary to enlarge his building to double the original size. He has now a store and storehouse that would be hard to beat anywhere in the country.
