The Late R. J. Talbot

On February 19th at Lord Dufferin Hospital, Orangeville, there passed on one of the pioneers of this community in the person of Robert John Talbot. He had lived his entire life of 74 years in Proton and Osprey Townships. Mr. Talbot was a man of genial temperament, who always met life with a smile, and will be greatly missed in this district.

He was born on the farm now owned by Wm. G. Acheson, Proton. When quite young he moved with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Talbot, to a farm now owned by Wm. Talbot on No. 10 Highway. In 1889 he settled on Lots 13-14, Con. 3, S.D.R., Osprey. Two years later he married Ann Jane Arnott and they farmed there for 50 years. Thirteen months ago Mr. and Mrs. Talbot moved to Dundalk, where they have since resided.

Mr. Talbot was a member of Osprey Council for five years. R. J. was the eldest of the family and consequently knew the hardships of pioneer life. He was the son of John and Elizabeth Ann Talbot. An Anglican in religion, he formerly was a member of St. Mary's Anglican Church, Maxwell, and latterly of St. Paul's, Melancthon.

He is survived by his sorrowing widow, three sons and two daughters: John, of Laurel; Edward, on the homestead; Albert, of Welland; Mrs. Merritt Lonsway (Mabel), Corbetton, and Mrs. Neil R. McCannell (Ethel), Proton Station. Two brothers also survive, namely: Samuel, of Osprey, and William, on No. 10 Highway.

The funeral was held on Saturday, February 21st, from his late home in Dundalk to St. James' Anglican Church, Rev. E. M. Caldwell being in charge. During the service a trio comprising Messrs . C. R. Werry, Harry Minke and . F. Ashton sang "Abide With Me." The remains were taken to the mortuary chapel, Dundalk Cemetery. The pall-bearers were schoolmates and chums of the deceased: Albert and R. J. Little, Abe Sherson, R. G. Acheson, Wesley Lonsway and John Lougheed.

Friends from a distance who atetnded the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Talbot, Welland; John Talbot, Laurel; Albert and R. J. Little, Mrs. R. G. Richardson and Leslie Little, Primrose; Driver R. J. Talbot, Camp Borden; Mr. and Mrs. S. N. McCannell, Mrs. Sam McLean, Swinton Park; and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Talbot, Swinton Park. — Dundalk Herald.

LADY BANK

March came in like a lamb. Let's hope that it leaves likewise.

Cpl. Gordon Graham, C.A.T.S, Hamilton, spent Sunday with his brother, Mr. Jack Graham, and family here. He was accompanied by their sister, Mrs. Srigley, and husband of Barrie.

Mr. Elmer Eagles of Priceville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Semple.

Mr. Thos. Harrison of Priceville has a gang of eight men, most of the time, taking out timber from the Wildcat swamp.

Mrs. Steve Sutton of Flesherton spent a day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Semple.

A half dozen sparrows were having a fearful argument yesterday on the cornice of a house. There must have been a by-election going on among them.

TRAVELLER USED GUM IN UNEXPECTED WAY

The delightful old lady traveller has been the subject of possibly as many alleged comic stories as the much-maligned mother-in-law, but every now and then a true incident occurs which puts even the best invented story to shame. Recently one of those old lady travellers made her first trip on a Trans-Canada Airlines plane. She had ear trouble, she said, and was afraid of the liner's taking off and landing. Supervisory Stewardess Margaret Dixon, of the Trans-Canada Airlines, gave her a package of gum and assured her that if she would chew it there would be no trouble to her ears. The plane rose steadily and all was well but the old lady. She called Stewardess Dixon and shouted she was "stone deaf." Margaret was worried. The old lady could not hear. She pointed to the gum. The old lady pointed to her ears. She had chewed the gum and plugged her ears with it. A minor operation with a hair pin restored the old lady's hearing.

Head of Corps

are needed by the Army and they cannot be taken out of industry. The trade schools are therefore worth there weight in gold. Repair shops are vitally necessary. None of the mechanical equipment was actually defective, but there were some faults in design at first because of the sudden jump into production, instead of having the usual two years of testing. The manufacturers sent experts over and corrected the faults. The new stuff is exactly as we wish it.

For the past year, Canadiantroops have been arriving in Britain fully equipped. Our Air Force, Navy and industrial development have enlarged. General McNaughton would not say how many should go into industry. We should survey our man first. We want no flash in the pan. We must plan for a war of long duration and not put all our goods in the show window now. No one wants to break up a Division which has been formed. Someone must decide what is to be our maximum war effort.

The General believed there would have to be an invasion of the Continent. (That was one of the favorite topics for debate in England at that time.) He said there was no doubt about it. A well organized nation cannot be brought to its knees by missels and bombs alone. The Air Training Scheme is still Canada's greatest effort, but bombing from the air has its limitations. In a week at the end of the last war, over 200,000 tons of missels were used in 2500 yards on the front and more could have been used. Air power cannot drop enough bombs and infantry cannot ge there fast enough after theb ombs are dropped to be of the maximum use.

One of the editors asked whether the young man with a good education should go into the Air Force rather than the Army. General McNaughton said educated men were needed in every branch of the service. Even if they enlist as privates in the Infantry, they will be found by a card index system and put at the work where they are most needed.

Most Mechanized Army

The Canadian Corps has a sufficient supply of mechanical transport, and has two R.C.A.F. squadrons attached to it, which is more than the average. There are twice as many Engeneers as in the last war. There are five regiments of long range guns, an armored division, survey and meteorological sections and a thoroughly balanced force. The Canadians have far more mechanization than the British, and Engineers to keep the roads open.

We are now on interior lines with a water barrier and can take the offensive in any direction. An invasion of the Continent is easier than an invasion of England. The Germans may yet attempt an invasion of England and it may be that the best time to strike back will be after that—butnot necessarily.

The Germans have 25 times as much coastline to guard as we have, which gives them an impossible task. The Russian campaign has been as gold, frankincense and myrrh for us. There is no need for Canadians to tell Americans what to do: they know their own show and we need not tell them.

At that time, the Russian armies were still in retreat, Petrograd was surrounded and Moscow was threatened. But even at that, the General did not believe that Russia was going to be knocked out of the war. He was so heartened by their performance, even in those days, that he was willing to base plans for the future on the fact that they would continue to fight. We can give them mechanical assistance to add to what they are producing in the Urals. Official reports from Russia must have been prepared with enormous mechanization and there was no need to be greatly surprised at their stand. They are careful not to let even their allies know any more than possible.

Shipping Conditions Improve

It is a scarcity of shipping alone which has held back Canada's Army overseas. Every possible ship has been used. Ships are now getting across the Atlantic much more quickly. The change is amazing. The North Atlantic is rapidly becoming a corridor for the safe transit of troops and supplies.

The General felt no anxiety about the morale of the Canadian troops during the coming winter. They had much more interesting training ahead of them. The men have an extraordinary high standard of intelligence and crime is far less than in the last war, only a small fraction. He was not anxious about the troops this winter. The scheme of education helps to put in their spare time and proves beneficial as well.

Not long before that, there had been an expedition to Spitzbergen Island in the Arctic. The inhabiltants had been taken off and the coal mines destroyed so that the enemy could not use them. The Canadians ran that expedition. It was useful in many ways. Britain, Norway and Russia all asked for it.

A Dagger at the Heart of Berlin

In the end, the Canadian Corps is a dagger pointed at the heart of Berlin. In fighting value and range of action, we have an edge on the German panzer divisions. The 5th Canadian Armored Division is stronger than any the Germans have. The first Canadian tanks were then being received. They would be severely tested before going into action. There was no need to doubt their quality, nor the quality of any other Canadian-made equipment. Bren guns from Canada are as nearly perfect as any gun ever turned out and they came through their trials with flying colors.

Summing up, the General said that Canada's great problem was the development of its manpower to the best advantage. It might be that the recent census would help. There is a big job to be done.

As the editors rose to leave after spending nearly two hours at the Corps Headquarters, General McNaughton shook us each by the hand again. We departed, feeling that we had met one of the greatest of all Canadians and one who had been perfectly frank and outspoken. Under his direction, the Canadian Corps can be depended upon to give a good account of itself.

Since then, the General has taken a rest because of ill-health due to overwork. Now he has recovered and has come to Canada to confer with the Government and Army officials here about plans for the future.

KIMBERLEY

We congratulate Mr. Rufus Wickens on reaching his 91st birthday on February 25th. This make three men in our neighborhood over the 90 year mark, Mr. Wickens, Mr. John Fawcett and Mr. John Camack.

Kimberley young people enjoyed very much the friendly games with Thornbury young people at badminton, who came up Thursday night.

A number of men of the churches are putting in a good supply of wood. Mr. Geo. Cornfield has generously donated tops from logs he is taking out.

The W. I. met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jos. Gibson. Over 25 were present. The roll call was an exchange of recipes. Mr. Montgomery gave a splendid talk and report of the youth movement convention held in Flesherton.

Friday evening the public school gave a fine concert based on "The Cavalcade of Canada." Both rooms took part. One special number could be mentioned: the Britannia drill Mr. W. Perry, assisted by the teachers, trained the pupils. Over $13 was taken in. Mr. Buchanan gave a very fine talk between the acts.

Kimberley friends were glad to have a call last week from Mr. John Speers of Feversham.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurie Sewell of Feversham visited with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Kirkpatrick.

We are sorry to report Mrs. F. Chard not in very good health.

Aircraftman Jack Graham has a week's leave of absence, having fallen on the ice at St. Thomas, injuring his shoulder severely.

Miss Jean McFee visited with her sister, Mrs. L. Morwood.
