Fictitious Values.

If a coin worth only 58 cents be substituted for one worth 100 cents as a standard of value, all values must be brought to the new standard. What sould have been purchased for 100 cents will cost 190 cents in the new coin. What could have been purchased for $5 in gold will cost $9 50 in silver. What makes the matter more serious, this silver coin will fluctuate in value. The purchase by the government, for nearly fifteen years, of the entire annual product of silver in the United States did not fix its relation to gold and prevent wide variations from week to week in its value; and no power exerted by the government of the United States can prevent that fluctuation in the future. No one having goods will know how much silver he can obtain for them to morrow, or how much of other commodities he can obtain for the silver on

In favor of such a policy it is urged that we will have one-dollar wheat and doubled wages. Everything saleable will be higher priced, and a time of prosperity will succeed. Yes, wheat may sell at a dollar a bushel; but the bushel of wheat will exchange for no more cotton cloth, no more stores at the grocery, and no more farm implements than it did before the change. It will still weigh sixty pounds, and occupy as much space as formerly; and it will still swap for everything as before, except for one commodity -labor. It will command ninety-five cents in silver instead of forty-seven cents in gold, but the silver will purchase no more than did the gold; it will command more labor than before, which means a reduction in wages. If the wages of labor do not rise, a workman must work suffering, strikes, and possibly violence) he would still have to give three-fourths of a day's labor where one-half would have sufficed before the "reform."

"Kelsey" Corrugated Warm Air Generator.

Any ordinary Hot Air Furnace will produce heat if you will only supply enough fuel. The "Kelsey" has several special and valuable features but most important is that it will give more heat with less fuel and is the most durable heater made.

The "Kelsey" fire pot being constructed of several upright, tubular, corrugated, cast iron sections (see cut) around which the fire passes and up through which the cold air passes while being heated, and this entire section being wrapped with a heavy steelcasing which becomes heated by the fire striking it when passing down outside of upright sections towards smoke pipe, it in turn warms the air that passes up between this steel casing and the galvanized iron casing, this explains why the "Kelsey" has three times more radiating surface and warm air capacity than an ordinary Furnace. The "Kelsey" heats every room evenly, wheresoever located, with a nice, mild, healthful warm air that will not injure your familure. The "Kelsey" will heat rooms 69 feet distant.

The "Kelsey" does not heat your celler.

CLOSE OF BEASON.—The period of summer visitors, bright costumes, wheeling parties, fish stories and general fivolity is over for another year, and Mr. Ryott who has given his courteous and untiring attentions to the guests of the Rockland has flown with the song birds, to more southern climes. A number of Mr. Ryotts triends spent a very pleasant eyening on Tuesday, and on Wednesday ne departed, expressing the hope that he will return when summer comes again. Show Day .- Saturday, Oct. 3rd, is show day. The hall will be open on the Friday evening, but Saturday is the gathering from the country. It is to be hoped that the members will bring in a liberal quantity of what they have and make a good spread. Pigs and sheep should make a fair exhibit this year. In roots and vegetables it is desirable that everyone should exhibit what they have regardless of prizes. The season has been dry and if only those who have extra large stuff exhibit, the show will sands of cases where sure and sudden not be much. Don't be afraid of filling the hall. To Bake a Ham.

It is frequently asked why some hams taste so much better than others. This would not be the case if they were baked, and not boiled until all the sweetness was extracted, which is generally done in the majority of cases where they are found tasteless and discolored. Of course a great deal depends upon the quality of the ham, and but the best sugar cured should be selected. Here is a good rule for their treatment: Make a stiff paste of flour and water, with which completely cover the ham.

Then place it in a bake pan containing a little water, with which it must be occasionally basted, It will require about four or five hours to bake a ham of medium size in a moderate oven. The cook must of course, use her judgment by testing it occasionally with a fork. At the expiration of that time remove the ham, and the entire top can be peeled off like a sheet of leather, leaving only the fat exposed, which must be well covered with bread crumbs. Return to the oven long enough to brown; then set aside until cool before using, as it is twice as easy to cut in tempting thin slices, besides lasting as long again. Always begin in the centre and you will do well.

A Pork Industry Lesson.

Commenting on the recent visit to Montreal of Mr. Phil Armour, the Chicago pork packing king, the Trade Bulletin remarks that "at one time Mr. Armour pretty well con-"trolled the trade in hog products throughout "Canada; but after the duty was placed on "hogs and pork the great millionaires' grip on "the Canadian trade was lost, and he has "since done a comparatively small business "here, to the great benefit of our farmers and "throughout the country." The bulletin's remark calls attention again to one of the mest remarkable developments of Canadian trade in recent years, which, in effect, changed the Dominion from an importer into a large exporter of hog products. When the protect-ive tariff was arranged in 1878 a certain amount of protection was given to the Canadian pork producers, as to those engaged in other industries. Complaint was made, however, that an error had been made in the extent of the protection, and that the national policy teriff in this item at least was not doing what was expected of it. nor what it could do. The representations of the agricultural element were liscened to, and in 1890 the duties were increased, on barrelled pork from 1 cent 11 cents a pound, and on smoked and cured meats from 2 cents to 3 cents a pound. The effect was seen almost at once. The quantity of perk and pork products the country imported began to fall off, and the quantity exported to increase. In 1890 the quantity of pork products imported was 26,421,000 pounds. and the quantity exported only 7,730 000 pounds. In 1895 the quantity of pork products imported had declined to 4,220,000 pounds, while the exports had risen to 42,93 0 000 pounds The imports in six years fell The presbyterians here held their anniver-sary on the 20th and 21st of Sept. Two sermons were delivered on Sunday and a tea was served on Monday, which a tea was served on Monday, which with the quantity of the goods exported. The Potato discipling is the order of the day trade papers have commented on it, and large Save the Queen." and at the close of the dealers regularly advertise Canadian bacon and hams among their specialities. The country has gained on every hand. And what is true of the porkproducing and curing industry is true of all others, fostered under the national policy, to a greater er less extent.
An industry, developed under protection, though its operation directly tends to reduce the amount of import trade, does not reduce the amount of the country's commerce. It merely causes to be done in the country itself business that otherwise would be partly done in another country. It secures to the country both the makers and the purchaser's profit. This is a good thing, for all who live within the country, and it is not the Canadian parliament's business to look after the interest

How "Uncle Sam" Got His Name

The nickname, "Uncle Sam," as applied to the United States government, is said to have originated as follows; Samuel Wilson, commonly called "Uncle Sam," was a government inspector of beef and pork at Troy, New York, about 1812. A contractor, Elbert Anderson, purchased a quantity of provisions, and the barrels were marked "E. A.," Anderson's mitials, and "U S.," for United States. The latter initials were not familiar to Wilson's workmen, who inquired what they meant. A facetious fellow answered: "I don't know, unless they mean 'Uncle Sem.'" vast amount of property af erward passed though Wilson's hands marked in the same manner, and he was often joked upon the extent of his possessions. The joke apread through all the departments of the government, and before long the United States was popularly referred to as "Uncle Sam."—October Ladies' Home Journal.
