VICINITY CHIPS

Mrs. R. Best is in Toronto undergoing treatment for her eyes.

Mrs. McIvor, Port Elgin, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. H. Wood, who is improving from her illness.

Mrs. Dunford and Miss Campbell, Stratford, are spending a few days with their cousin, Mrs. Harry Wood.

The Women's Institute intend holding a bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 29, all day and evening. Watch for particulars next week.

A bee last week succeeded in getting the rafters placed on the new cement driving shed at the Methodist church. If the winter weather continues it will be difficult to get the roof put on.

Thanks—We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends in and around Ceylon, for the many expressions of sympathy we received from them, owing to the loss of our daughter, wife and sister.—Mr. and Mrs. Ashdown and son, Walter Maloney.

The case of Hawkins v. C. P. R. wa to have been tried at the Orangeville Assizes this week and several witnesses in this district had been summoned to attend, but the case was settled out of court. Wm. Hawkins of this township was knocked off a sleigh by a freight train at the station last winter while crossing the track, and claimed injuries therefrom.

Winter came down like a wolf on the fold on Sunday, when a 50-mile gale brought a thick mantle of soft snow along with it to the depth of about four inches. The storm blew itself out Sunday night but wintry conditions have since prevailed. Any shipping on the lakes Sunday would have a hard time of it. The storm caused a small church attendance here.

At the village council on Wednesday evening of last week several accounts were passed and also a resolution similar to that passed by the Artemesia township council on the Saturday previous asking the Hydro-Electric Commission to look into the feasibility of building an electric railway by way of Mount Forest or Arthur via Flesherton and the Beaver valley to Thornbury or Meaford. We understand that Collingwood is moving in the matter for the terminus and this would find favor with the people of this district, who are quite well enough supplied with sufficient railway facilities to Owen Sound. There is no railway connection with Collingwood, thirty miles away, except around by Toronto, and such a connection over the proposed route would fill a long-felt want and be well patronized by the travelling public, as well as open up country which is urgently in need of railway facilities. No other route can be taken that will at all compare with the needs and the commercial value of the proposed route to terminate at Collingwood.

Two families in town have been quarantined for diphtheria for nearly three wheks past. It was not absolutely certain until last week that it was diphtheria, but so soon as the Board of Health was notified, nearly three weeks ago, it lost no time in quarantining the suspected families, with the result that there have been no further developments, nor are there likely to be. The family of Mr. Will Field, who lost a little girl from what the Dr. thought at the time was croup, will be released this week. Several members of Rev. Jas. Dudgeon's family have had the disease in a very light form, with the exception of the youngest child, a little boy of four years, who had a very strenuous and losing fight for life. The disease left an aftermath of trouble in the throat which could not be cured, notwithstanding the efforts of four physicians who were called in consultation. Death came on Monday night, after three weeks' illness.

Rev. Mr. Miller, a missionary recently returned from British Columbia, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church both morning and evening on Sunday. The evening discourse dealt largely with conditions in British Columbia and the foreign element there. Speaking of the Chinese he said they were the most reliable workmen in the country. Though a few were addicted to opium they did not drink intoxicating liquor and in that were in strongly favorable contrast with the Anglo-Saxon. It was a poor commentary on our boasted civilization.

Died

DUDGEON—In Flesherton, on Tuesday, Nov. 11, Joseph Elgin, youngest son of Rev. James Dudgeon, aged 4 years and 5 months.

WYVILLE—At Vandeleur, on Monday, Nov. 10, 1913, Aaron Wyville, aged 48 years

Timely Temperance Topics

The most important temperance event in this Province in the near future will be the voting on the Canada Temperance Act, which is announced to take place on Nov. 24th, in the counties of Huron, Peel and Welland. In all of these counties the temperance workers are well organized. In every case they secured the signature of more than the twenty five per cent. of the electors which is necessary to bring on a contest. The Dominion Government has passed an order-in-council directing the taking of the vote and detailed instructions will be sent to the returning officers without delay. A simple majority of the votes cast will adopt the Canada Temperance Act in the places in which it is submitted.

The Legislature of the State of Arkansas has enacted a law providing that hereafter any application for a liquor license must be accompanied by a petition signed by at least fifty per cent. of the white adults in the district in which the license is to take effect. There is a very large colored population in the state which is said to have been responsible for a great deal of the drunkenness and disorder which exists. The object of the law is partly to prevent the opening of saloons in which these people could obtain liquor. As the anti-license sentiment of the white population is very strong, it is expected that it will be practically impossible to secure the necessary petitions in favor of bar-rooms and by January 1st next, the State of Arkansas may be absolutely dry so far as the law is concerned.

The Field Day work of the Dominion Alliance in Toronto last Sunday was very successful, although a number of churches had to defer their services to a later date. Alliance representatives either on Sunday or the deferred dates had open to them the pulpits of about one hundred and twenty-five churches. This Field Day work is having a great effect in the development of public sentiment against the liquor traffic.

The British shipbuilding firm of Armstrong, Whitworth & Co. is about to establish a Canadian plant.

Mrs. J. Bowler and little daughter, Norah, are visiting friends in Dundalk this week.

It will require 30 days to repair the damage caused to Montreal's telephone system in the business district by a three-minute fire on Wednesday of last week.

Rev. G. V. Collins, Baptist minister, Wingham, resigned because he had received several abusive anonymous letters. The reverend gentleman told the congregation there was an Achan in the camp, a snake in the grass, a devil in the church, and he proposed to resign.

A serious shooting accident occurred at Berkley recently when Mr. Robert McFadden of that village was shot in the head. A young Englishman was handling a shot gun which he did not know was loaded and pulled the trigger. Fifteen grains of shot pierced McFadden's scalp and several of his teeth were knocked out. He will likely recover.

The Grand Trunk Pacific now has less than 240 miles of rail to lay before east meets west. The district still under construction is from Kidd station to Prince George, a fairly level country, and it is believed that the golden spike will be driven during the summer of 1914.

A gang of thirteen Italians came to town on the noon train yesterday, and were met at the depot and conveyed with their baggage to a boarding house in the West End. These men are said to have been working on the Port McNichol branch of the C. P. R., and rumor says they are here to commence work on the front for the Baxter-Collingwood branch. —Collingwood Messenger.

Jos. McConachie, Amaranth's farming and threshing magnate, turned over to George Gamble a bunch of 12 cattle 3 years old and rising 3 years, that brought him him $1140. Here is one good explanation of the high cost of living. Three-year-olds at about $100 a head is a pretty fair price.—Grand Valley Star.

An editor wrote a nice little puff for a milliner in which he said he was glad to see her "stocking up." Meeting the scribe on the street she soaked him with her parasol and threatened to tell his wife. The unsophisticated editor has never been able to find out what was wrong with his item.
