Old Wrecks Moved

The fierceness of the storm which lately swept over the lakes can best be judged by the fact that many old wrecks that had been given up as lost for good and no one had ever dreamed of ever hearing again of, have been washed up. Along the shore of Cape Croker some of the cargo of the Jones is being found, having been washed up by the waves. The whole lake must have been agitated from the bottom up for some of the heavy barrels of oil would have naturally stayed on the bottom till the wood rotted, but the movement of the waters even on the bottom of the lake washed these ashore. Part of the hulk of the Jane miller wrecked about thirty years ago has also been washed up. The Miller was supposed to have gone in the deepest part of the bay between the shore and Griffiths Island. The water here is about two hundred and fifty feet deep. This is the first wreckage that has ever been found of the Jane Miller. This would indicate that this was the worst storm that this part of the lakes has ever been subject to for at least thirty years and old seamen say that it is the worst that has occurred in over fifty years.—O. S. Advertiser.

Finally Approved

The Ontario Government has given the final approval expressed in an order-in-Council to the launching by the Provincial Hydro Electric Commission of a half-million dollar power development scheme for the Owen Sound district. Hon. Adam Beck signed a contract on Wednesday last with the Town Council of Owen Sound, and the commission's engineers were instructed to go ahead at once with the preparation of plans and specifications for the development of Eugenia Falls, and to ask for tenders for the construction of the plant and transmission lines.

The Eugenia Falls will serve Flesherton, Markdale, Chesley, and the rest of the municipalities within a wide radius. Upon the completion of the system it will be linked up with the Collingwood system, which takes in Midland, Barrie, Penetangand other municipalities served from the Big Chute development.—Mail.

The Late Mrs. Thompson

On Tuesday, November 11, Mrs. James Thomson, sr, passsed peacefully away at the home of her son, George, on the 10th line, Osprey, at the ripe old age of seventy nine years. Mrs. Thomson had been ill for several weeks, and death did not come to her unexpected, nor did it find her unprepared. Mrs. Thomson was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1834, came to Canada in 1846, and settled in York Township, where, with her mother, brothers and sisters, she resided for 12 years. The family moved to Osprey Township, where she was married on March 8th 1861, to James Thomson of that Township. Mr. Thomson predeceased her seven years ago last June. Mrs. Thomson was one of Osprey's early settlers having lived in that township for 55 years. One brother and one sister still reside in Osprey, Mr. Wm. Davidson on the 12th line and Mrs. John Kaiting in Feversham. She is also survived by a family of four sons and two daughters. Chris, James and George reside on the 10th line, Osprey, and John, Reeve of Osprey, on the homestead, Mrs. Chas. Tuppling on the 14th con., and Mrs. Andrew Douglas of New Liskeard. Mrs. Thomson was a member of the Presbyterian Church and a large concourse of friends and neighbors followed the remains to the Presbyterian cemetery in Feversham on Friday, Nov. 14.

We shall sleep but not forever,
There will be a glorious dawn ;
We shall meet to part, no never,
On the resurrection morn.

We shall sleep but not forever,
In the lone and silent grave ;
Blessed be the Lord that taketh,
Blessed be the Lord that gave.

In the Bright Eternal City,
Death can never, never come ;
In His own good time He'll call us,
From our rest to Home sweet Home.

Distribution of Seed Grain And Potatoes

By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution of superior sorts of grain and potatoes will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers. The samples for general distribution will consist of spring wheat (5 lbs.), white oats (5 lbs.), barley (5 lbs.), and field peas (5 lbs.). These will be sent out from Ottawa. A distribution of potatoes (in 3 lb. samples) will be carried on from several of the experimental farms, the Central Farm at Ottawa supplying only the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. All samples will be sent free by mail.

Applicants must give particulars in regard to the soil on their farms, and some account of their experience with such kinds of grain (or potatoes) as they have grown, so that a promising sort for their conditions may be selected.

Each application must be seperate and must be signed by the applicant. Only one sample of grain and one of potatoes can be sent to each farm. Applications of any kind of printed form cannot be accepted. If two or more samples are asked for in the same letter only one will be sent.

As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early ; but the applications will not necessarily be filled in the exact order in which they are received. Preference will always be given to the most thoughtful and explicit requests. Applications received after the end of January will probably be too late.

All applications for grain (and applications from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec for potatoes) should be addressed to the Dominion Cerealist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Such applications require no postage. If otherwise addressed, delay and disappointment may occur.

Applications for potatoes, from farmers in any other province should be addressed (postage prepaid) to the Superintendent of the nearest Branch Experimental Farm in that province.

Mighton Escapes

Somewhere in the wilds and bleak wastes of Northern Ontario, Thomas Mighton, formerly of Bentinck, is breathing the air of liberty once more. He made a remarkable escape from County Constable Cook of Ceylon, as that officer was bringing him from Winnipeg to stand trial for the two brutal assaults made on his wife on Feb. 16 and Aug. 1 of this year.

As reported in last week's Review, Constable Cook was expected to arrive shortly with his man. The trip from the West had been safely accomplished as far as Dryden, a small town, some miles distance from the Soo and here it appears that the official went involuntarily to sleep, having had no rest for the previous days or nights.

The prisoner although handcuffed saw his opportunity and immediately prepared to take French leave. The bracelets must have been a size too large, for these he slipped off and then made his way to the exit. Although it is said that the train was speeding 30 miles an hour he took a risk and jumped from the platform. Whether he received any injuries from the hazardous leap is problematical but the possible existence of snow banks may have saved him. What the constable's feelings were when he awoke from that ill-timed nap can be imagined. However pursuit was futile and home he came.

The officer was in town on Saturday, reporting the result of his mission.

Previous to this the three Mighton children who were taken by their father when he escaped to the West, were brought back to town and are now living with their mother here. This was accomplished through the help of the Children's Aid Society in Owen Sound.

When the news of Mighton's escape reached town, the feeling of chagrin and disappointment did not generally exist, rather the majority of citizens seemed to see a humorous vein in the whole episode and several of the "I-told-you-so" class jokingly declared that Mighton deserved his freedem if he had the nerve to make the leap from the train. Durham of late has been experiencing too many exciting chapters from the book of thrills to let this adventure of Mighton's arouse any especial interest.

A curious coincidence in connection with the carrying of the by-laws for Hydro-Electric Power in Fergus and Elora on the 3rd inst appeared in the Globe of the 4th inst, when it was recorded in its summary of news that both places had carried the by-laws and in the same issue one of the items of news copied from its issue of the same date in 1873, exactly 50 years before date of golden jubilee, says "The telegraph has been extended to Fergus and Elora, and offices are now open at both those flourishing villages." It must have been within a year or two afterwards that the line was run up the Owen Sound road. The writer remembers the event well, for Mr. John Muir, the teacher at the time in the Cumnock school, set it as a subject for composition. The working out of that short essay on a live, practical subject, was a little education in itself, though, doubtless the result did not amount to much.—Mt. Forest Confederate.

The happiest man in the world is the common, every-day chap, who makes his own living, pays his bills, and has the respect of his neighbors. He saves a little money as he goes along but he doesn't try to get a corner on the local output as he is a slave to neither ambition nor society. He never expects to wear out the seat of his pants in the Senate and when he slides into his pants in the morning he never wastes any time trying to pick out the right tint of socks, suspenders and neckties that will blend with the general effect. He wears a "biled" shirt when he feels like it, and when his pet corn begins to jump he whips out his jack knife and cuts a four inch gash in the side of his boot and nothing is said about it in the papers. He has an appetite like a cyclone, and never has to sit up nights to poultice his conscience. He believes in the doctrine of live and let live. When he encounters one of the needy he doesn't stutter with his pocketbook. The plain plug of a man is a happy man because he is satisfied and doesn't spend the better half of his life yearning for something about four sizes too big for him.—Bolton Enterprise.

The boy who has the freedom of the street after nightfall, without business or permission is cultivating a very dangerous habit. Any place where a boy has no business is a very dangerous place for him whether it is on the street, in the store or elsewhere. A boy that is all right likes his home, friends, books or newspaper in preference to the class found on the streets, without business. Business men of all kinds look upon the boy loafer as a dead beat of the future. —Creemore Star.

Harry Carter, deputy-reeve of Tecumseth, sold last week to R. J. Coleman, of Cookstown, 153 bushels of alsike clover, the product of nineteen acres, and received for the same $1,300.
