VOL 33 No. 31 Flesherton, Ont., Thursday February 19, 1914 W. H. THURSTON EDITOR and PhO

He Was Watched And Addressed

On Thursdry evening of last week about sixty citizens of Flesherton visited the beautiful home of Mr. Geo. Mitchell in town to do honor to one of our former citizens, Mr. John Boyd, now of Markdale. Mr. Boyd was presented with an address accompanied by a handsome solid gold watch suitably inscribed, by the citizens, as a farewell recognition of his valuable services while living here. Mr. Mitchell acted as Master of ceremonies and called on Mr. R. G. Holland to read the following address :

Mr. John Boyd.

Dear Sir,—It is needless to say your removal from Flesherton has been deeply regretted by your numerous friends, who have felt it to be a great loss to the village. The responsible position of trust in which you were placed by your fellow citizens were unmistakeable evidence of the esteem in which you were held and of the confidence of the public in your integrity and business ability. During your years of commercial activity here your time was not wholly devoted to your own interests, but sacrifice was made for the interests of the village and that which tended to the welfare of the community generally. Your business enterprise and commendable public spirit was noted and appreciated by your fellow citizens, who at this time desire to express to you their high appreciation of all your services in a public capacity, and also of the position you filled in the social life of the place. As a ticken of our esteem and as an added link in the chain of our friendship, we present to you this watch, together with our hearty good wishes for the happiness and prosperity of yourself and family in your new home.

Signed by the committee on behalf of the citizens—Jos. Blackburn, George Mitchell, Thos. Blakeley, R. G. Holland, W. Buskin, W. H. Thurston.

W.H. Thurston made the presentation.

Mr. Boyd expressed his gratitude and surprise at the handsome gift given him, and felt that it was somewhat undeserved. He had a warm place in his heart for Flesherton and its people. He had practically grown up here, in a business way at least, and would always have kindly memories of his life here.

After Mr. Boyd's address a lagre number of citizens were called upon for short addresses. These were interspersed with violin music by Miss Hulse and a trio by Messrs. Murray, Sullivan and Holland, after which a dainty luncheon of cake, pie, sandwiches and coffee was served. The gathering dispersed about 11 o'clock feeling that a very enjoyable evening had been their lot.

What Liquor Will Do

Tom Rutledge, a resident on Zina St., imbibed not wisely but too well Saturday night. When he got home shortly after midnight he was fighting drunk and proceeded to turn his wife and children out of the house. A neighbor summoned Nightwatchman Dawson and Constable Marshall. The officers pacified the man and finally persuaded him to go to bed. About 3 o'clock Sunday morning he kicked up another racket forcing his wife to leave the house in her nightdress and stockings. The woman summoned the offices, who went to the house with the intention of arresting Rutledge and taking him to the town lock-up. The man, who was only partially dressed, consented to accompany the officers, but getting an opportunity bolted out of a side door and after consigning Marshall and Dawson to a place where the thermometer never drops below zero vanished into the darkness. The night was stormy and bitterly cold and Rutledge was bareheaded, barefooted and clad only in his shirt and trousers. The officers started in hot pursuit, but the fleeing man quickly distanced them. They followed him to the West Broadway railway crossing, nearly a mile distant, where they lost the trail and after a fruitless search were obliged to return to town empty handed. About 3 30 Rutledge aroused David Sawyers just west of the railway crossing and on the strength of a trumped up story about his team running away obtained shelter for the remainder of the night. Early on Sunday a telephone message informed the officers of his whereabouts and they succeeded in arresting him without any further difficulty. Strange to say his feet were not frozen and he does not seem any the worse after his mad escapade. Police Magistrate Pattullo remanded Rutledge until Saturday and yesterday granted him his liberty on bail.
