PLUGGING FOR VICTORY

Nose plugs in 500-pound aerial bombs in a Canadian plant are tightened by a girl employee before being shipped abroad as "Bundles for Berlin."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON 39
JOSEPH: AN EXAMPLE OF FORGIVENESS
Genesis 45-50
PRINTED TEXT
Genesis 45:1-15; 47:11, 12

GOLDEN TEXT.—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you. Ephesians 4:32.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time. — According to most chronologists, Jacob went down with his family into Egypt 1715 B.C. Jacob died 1698 B.C. Joseph died 1643 B.C.

Place. — Joseph's residence in Egypt was at Zoan, the capital of the kingdom at that time, located in the eastern part of the Nile delta. Goshen was in the eastern part of Egypt, north of the southern extremity of the delta. Hebron was two hundred miles northeast of Zoan.

Joseph Reveals Himself

1. "Then Joseph could not refrain himself before all them that stood by him; and he cried, Cause every man to go out from me. And there stood no man with him, while Joseph made himself known unto his brethren." Delicacy forbids the presence of strangers at this unrestrained outburst of tender emotion among the brothers. Besides, the workings of conscience, bringing up the recollections of the past, and the errors are not to be unveiled to the public eye.

2. "And he wept aloud: and the Egyptians heard, and the house of Pharaoh heard. 3. And Joseph said unto his brethren, I am Joseph; doth my father yet live? And his brethren could not answer him; for they were troubled at his presence. 4. And Joseph said unto his brethren, Come near to me, I pray you. And they came near. And he said, I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt." Joseph had controlled his feeling in many a trying situation but now he 'wept aloud.' It is his love for his brethren making its way through all his ability to do without them that breaks him down before them, a man conquered by his own love, and unable to control it. It compels him to make himself known, and to possess himself of its objects, those unconscious brethren.

Living Near To God

5. "And now be not grieved, nor angry with yourselves, that ye sold me hither: for God did send me before you to preserve life. 6. For these two years hath the famine been in the land: and there are yet five years, in which there shall be neither plowing nor harvest. 7. And God sent me before you to preserve you a remnant in the earth, and to save you alive by a great deliverance. 8. So now it was not you that sent me hither, but God: and he hath made me a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and ruler over all the land of Egypt." A tragedy in the lives of many who rise from obscurity to places of great power, influence, and wealth, or fame, is that they forget God. They neglect their own prayer life. With increasing frequency, they are absent from divine worship on the Lord's day, and their language becomes more and more the language of the world, with words of praise and thanksgiving and supplication to God less and less manifest. Fortunately this had not happened to Joseph. In the very height of his power, he bears testimony in all of his utterances to the goodness and power and sovereignty of God. Notice carefully that it is Joseph who had suffered and had for years been obedient to God, who recognized the hand of God in all that had taken place — it was not these brothers, whose lives were calloused by brutality and heartlessness. It is the one who lives near to God who recognizes the overrulings of God.

Thoughts Of His Father

9. "Haste ye, and go up to my father, and say unto him, Thus saith thy son Joseph, God hath made me lord of all Egypt: come down unto me, tarry not; 10. and thou shalt dwell in the land of Goshen, and thou shalt be near unto me, thou, and thy children, and thy children's children, and thy flocks, and thy herds, and all that thou hast: 11. and there will I nourish thee; for there are yet five years of famine; lest thou come to poverty, thou, and thy household and all that thou hast. 12. And, behold, your eyes see, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that speaketh unto you. 13. And ye shall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that ye have seen: and ye shall haste and bring down my father hither." Joseph's first thought after this precious reconciliation had been accomplished, was of his father. He knew it was in the program of God, not that he, Joseph, should at this time go back to Canaan, but that his father, with his great family, should come down to him. He also knew, undoubtedly having made such an arrangement with Pharaoh, that Jacob's family should, in this change of residence, abide in the land of Goshen, where they would find abundant provision for all of their needs.

The Cup of Forgiveness

14. "And he fell upon his brother Benjamin's neck, and wept; and Benjamin wept upon his neck. 15. And he kissed all his brethren, and wept upon them: and after that his brethren talked with him." More than natural sweetness and placability must have gone to the making of such a temper of forgiveness. He must have been living near the Fountain of all mercy to have had so full a cup of it to offer.

Joy In Helping Others

11. "And Joseph placed his father and his brethren, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of Rameses, as Pharaoh had commanded. 12. And Joseph nourished his father, and his brethren, and all his father's household, with bread, according to their families." The land of Rameses in this verse is almost always taken as another name for the land of Goshen. What a contrast between Joseph's treatment of his brethren, and their treatment of him years before! They had thrown him into a pit, expecting nothing less than death to follow: he was rescuing them from death by famine and making possible their very existence. It would seem that Joseph, noble of character, servant of God, indefatigable in work, high in favor, found his greatest joy in doing something for others. This should be the mark of every true believer, as it was a great characteristic of our Lord, Who went about doing good.

Tires Treated To Make Them Last

The theory that "we might as well use our tires; they'll rot anyway," is rebutted by tire makers.

Tires bought in the last few years are treated with an antioxident that will preserve them for five or six years with only 10 to 15 per cent deterioration.

'Ten years ago they would have dried up and cracked.

RADIO REPORTER

DIALING WITH DAVE:

ERIC WILD

Meet Eric Wild, dynamic young Canadian orchestra leader, who again batons one of Canada's top-flite, nationally heard, variety programs. Last season's Blended Rhythm show is back on the network again, including CKOC in Hamilton, each Tuesday night at 8.30. This year, the show has a somewhat new format, with Canada's number one comedian Master of Ceremonies, Alan Young, at the helm of the program. With Charles Jordan as tenor soloist, with a nifty vocal group, Eric Wild's music, and the feature 'Song of the Month' parade of Canadian penned popular tunes, this Tuesday night Variety show, will again be high in favor with Canadian radio listeners!

This is the way Dale Evans eased into radio: The beautiful singing starlet who joined the Charlie McCarthy program this year (Sundays, 8.00 p.m. CKOC-CBC National Network), worked as a stenographer in an insurance office in Dallas. She sang at her work. So the company launched a program over a local station and Dale became talent. When she went to Chicago, she became the soloist with Anson Weeks's band, and for two and a half years was heard on various programs. She has been in Hollywood a year, and now becomes soloist on one of network radio's top programs, sharing honors with Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy, Don Ameche an Ray Noble's orchestra!

Listening dynamite is picked into a new Sunday on CKOC program, "Calling All Cars" which takes the place previously occupied by Academy Award, 6.15-6.45 p.m. each Sunday. These are stories on the theme "Crime Does Not Pay", and brings to CKOC a weekly half hour transcription of one of radio's greatest and most successful network programs. Produced by Columbia, and using stories actually dramatized from Nationl Police Files, "Calling All Cars' is a punchy, entertaining thirty minute salute on the side of law. Give it a listen — for listening dynamite!

Last Saturday the Good Deed Radio Club came back on the air. Again Claude Knapman, Wilfred Machin, Les Somerville and all the guiding forces of the show are at the helm, to make this year's series of programs, more than ever, Ontario's great 'Show of Shows' for the children in every home. Every Saturday morning at 9.45, the Good Deeders theme song says the show is 'on the air' — and throughout each show, the talent of youth, the ideas of youth, the promises of youth all join to bring to every one really fine listening. Much will be done as in past years for the spirit of the Good Deed Membership — and much fun, both on and off the air, will characterize the year's activities of the Good Deed Club!

Returning soon to Canadian airlanes — Fred Allen and his great show. Date is Oct. 4th — the hour 9.30 p.m. Watch for it!

Hit Parade leaders are Irving Berlin tunes from "Holiday Inn" and "This is the Army." "Be Careful it's My Heart" and "Stage Door Canteen" are the two big favorites of the moment. The eight weekly hits are heard Sunday at 1.30 on CKOC's Hit Parade!

London Buses To Have Daily Rest

Some buses in London will soon be having a mid-day rest in order to save fuel and petrol.

The London Transport Board has not finally picked on parking places, but with the decreased traffic since July 1, when all pleasure motoring was stopped, there should be no difficulty. The buses will be parked from 9 to 4 o'clock and the change is estimated to save two million traffic miles a year, as well as petrol and tires.

SCOUTING . . .

The war has brought about a big demand in England for horse chestnuts, more commonly known as "Conkers" to boys over there. About 1,000 tons are required for medicinal purposes, and the Ministry of Supply has sought the assistance of Great Britain's Boy Scouts in the drive. In addition to chestnuts the boys are collecting for the war effort nettles, foxglove and raspberry leaves, sphagnum moss, meadow saffron, and 1,500 tons of rose hips. These have been major projects at many British Boy Scout camps this past summer.

"I have already heard of the excellent work done by the Malta Boy Scouts, and they have been most helpful to me lately" General Lord Gort, Commander of the Malta garrison, wrote the Chief Scout, Lord Somers, in accepting the office of Patron and Chief Scout for the island of Malta.

The value of Boy Scout training is emphasized in statements by two prominent men in recent weeks. Postmaster General Frank C. Walker of the United States said: "I cannot commend too highly the outstanding accomplishments that have been attained by the Boy Scouts in the past 32 years. The Boy Scouts of America might well be termed the most potent instrumentalities of good citizenship in America." The Mayor of Richmond, England, had this to say: "If every boy and girl would join the Boy Scouts or Girl Guides when young, there would not be so many cases of young people coming before the magistrates."

With the opening of fall activities, Canadian Boy Scouts are planning to specialize in activities to fit them for "Commando" work, should the war continue until they are old enough to enlist. At a recent Commando course for Scouts at the Montreal District Camp at Tamaracouta, special instruction was given in these arts, and it is interesting to note that all the instruction came from Lord Baden-Powell's original book, "Scouting for Boys," the training proving applicable to present commando training. The Boy Scout Founder was of course one of the first "Commando" leaders in the Boer War, although the term "Commando" was used in that war, not by the British, but by the Boers.
