The Fenelon Falls Gazette

Saturday, June 13th, 1885.

Mr. Gladstone Resigns.

In the British House of Commons on Tuesday last the Government was defeated on the second reading of the budget, which was rejected by a vote of 264 to 252, and to obtain this slender majority of a dozen—and not even a baker's dozen at that—there was a temporary union of incongruous elements which have scarcely more affinity for each other than oil and water. Mr. Gladstone acquired a great deal of ephemeral unpopularity by refusing to let England go to war with Russia while there was a possibility of avoiding it; and now the adverse vote he sustained is the result of his determination to impose an additional duty on spirits instead of on tea in order to raise the money needed to meet the war expenditures. Of course he was right in both cases and knew it; and when the "grand old man" knows he is right neither vote nor votes will turn him. As the premier was not defeated on a direct matter of confidence motion, it was thought possible that he might not resign; but after mature deliberation he decided to do so, and the Tories and Parliaments, who shouted with joy when they found themselves masters of the situation, are already beginning to have doubts whether the situation may not prove to be master of them. It was all very well as long as the incongruous elements had the object of ousting the Government in view, but that object having been attained, discord is sure to prevail, and this is so well known that the Tories have no hope of being able to hold the reins of power even should they venture to assume them. Under the circumstances it is possible that they may decline to do so, and Mr. Gladstone may, if he will, remain in office for some time to come; but, on the other hand, he may refuse, and not without reason, to resume the herculean labour from which he now has the opportunity of releasing himself. At the best a man in his position has "a hard row to hoe," and it has been made harder by the differences and dissensions amongst his followers, many of whom would have kicked over the traces long ago, but for the marvellous tact and ability of their leader.

The latest news regarding the situation is to the effect that the Tories will, if they have the opportunity, form a Government, with Lord Salisbury at its head; but it is rumoured that the queen wishes Mr. Gladstone to remain in office. It is also said that the Premier foresaw the result of the vote and took no steps to prevent it, and that he has got his opponents into a bad fix by allowing them to gain an apparent victory.

Good News From the North-West.

There is good news from the North-West, but it arrived so many days ago that all or nearly all our readers have probably heard it by this time. Mrs. Delaney and Mrs. Gowanlock, whose supposed dreadful fate caused such a thrill of horror throughout the Dominion, are alive and well, and are rapidly recovering from the effects of the inevitable hardships of their two months' captivity amongst the Indians. Two provoking circumstances connected with the rebellion have been, firstly, the difficulty of obtaining news, and, secondly, the redundancy and conflicting nature of the news when it did arrive, and with reference to Mrs. Delaney and Mrs. Gowanlock the accounts vary so much that we are uncertain whether they escaped or were rescued, and whether they had nearly fifty companions or only about fifteen when they reached Strathcona station on the 5th inst. However, it doesn't matter much; the ladies reached Battleford a few days later, and will soon be home with their friends, with something to talk about for a year to come. From the time they were captured, after the murder of their husbands at Frog Lake, they have been roaming about with Big Bear's band; but owing to the influence of the half-breeds, particularly two named Pritchard and Nolan, they suffered no ill-treatment or indignities, though they had to endure great hardships and mental anguish. Mr. and Mrs. Mann and their children are still in the hands of the Indians, but when Mrs. Delaney and Mrs. Gowanlock last saw them they were well, and will probably soon be given up or rescued.

On the 3rd inst. Captain Steele with seventy mounted scouts and police had an encounter with Big Bear and about 250 Indians, and, by executing a clever flank movement, succeeded in driving them across a creek, but did not like to follow on account of the smallness of his force. None of the whites were killed, and the three wounded are all recovering, though one of them was shot through the lungs. A late despatch says that Big Bear's braves are breaking up into several bands and retreating northward, and that Gen. Middleton is in hot pursuit with two hundred mounted men.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

(Communicated.)

Wesley said he never saw a young man but he respected him, because of the good he might do in the world years after he (Wesley) was in his grave. If young men would only pause and think of the grand possibilities that are within their grasp, of what they might achieve for the right, surely it would have an influence for the good on their conduct. It is an old saying and a true one that we shall all pay for learning. But the young might gain wisdom without paying so dearly for it if they would profit by the experience of their elders. How many of us in looking back over the past years of our life would do things so differently if we only had those years to live over again? How many enterprises that have proved failures might have been successes if we had only listened to the advice of our friends? But we would go our own way and only see our error when too late. To the young man just starting out in life how bright the world looks! Everything seems to be surrounded with the rainbow of hope. He has glorious dreams of the future. He never thinks of failures. He is just like a ship starting out on a voyage over an unknown sea. She may be supposed to be prepared for the voyage. The sea may be calm with a bright sun overhead, and everything seem to promise a prosperous voyage; but those that are watching her start know that there will be storms, that there will be dangers to be encountered on every hand. And you, young men, about to start on the voyage of life quite inexperienced in the dangers that you will meet with, let me warn you, and O pray listen to the voice of warning. There is nothing that will so surely make a shipwreck of your brightest hopes, that will blight your best prospects and ruin you for time and eternity as the drinking customs of our land. You will meet with temptation on every hand. Wine will be offered you as a refreshment at the homes of your friends, but it is a mistake to think that it will do you any good. At last it will turn you into a serpent and sting like an adder. You will be invited to take the social glass by some of your companions, but be true to yourself, be brave enough to refuse, do not think it looks manly to be able to drink, do not let those who patronize the bar-room be the men whom you would emulate; but let it be those that are perhaps scoffed at in the saloon, but are the true and noble of our land.

And above all things don't put yourself in the way of temptation; shun the bar-room with its flashing lights as you would the most deadly plague, for it is like the false lights kindled by the wreckers, to lure ships to their destruction on the rocks, to profit by their ruin. There is not one of you wants to become a drunkard, you never intend to become that, but are you sure you will not? Did any of the drunkards you know intend to be one? It is the nature of intoxicating liquors for one glass to create an appetite for another, and therefore the only safety is in total abstinence. Did you ever know any young man who learned to drink make a success? You know it insures defeat. Then why do you drink? Some of you work hard in the winter's cold and summer's heat, and give your money to support an hotel keeper standing behind the bar doing nothing. They ride in carriages, while you will have to walk if you begin putting your money into their pockets instead of keeping it in your own. Young men who would not give five cents to any charitable purpose will spend dollars in treating and in the billiard room, that is so very convenient to the bar-room. Billiard playing is another device of Satan which I would warn you of. The laws of our land refuse to license a gambling house, but I cannot see the difference between it and a billiard room; it is just a bait to allure the victim into the trap. But the main thing to resist temptation is religion; it will prove an anchor to your soul whilst sailing over life's troubled sea. Young men, the future of our country depends on you. Again I would ask you to be true to God, to yourself and your country.

A Great Storm.

We thought the storm at Fenelon Falls last Sunday night was a very severe one; but it appears to have been the mere forerunner of one which raged with terrific violence at other places, particularly at Port Hope, where—where we are assured by an eye-witness of undoubted veracity—the sidewalks had large drifts left in them and some of them were actually broken by the hailstones, many of which were of such immense size that our informant declared he believed a blow from one of them might have proved fatal. Street lamps were smashed by the dozen and windows were left unbroken in the west side of the market-house. A large building on Cavan Street was set on fire by the lightning and burned together with nearly the whole of the three occupants' property. At Garden Hill, a few miles from Port Hope, there was a storm on Sunday morning, and during its continuance a farmer named Samuel Bryan was struck and killed by lightning and his hired man knocked senseless. The storm at night appears to have been extremely violent at St. Thomas, where a woman was killed, a man struck, though not fatally, and a great deal of damage done; indeed, the destruction of property in several localities was very considerable. At the Falls we had no hail and the rain was not quite heavy enough to do much harm; but the storm was a severe one and the thunder and lightning almost terrific.

Illustrated War News.

The tenth number of the Canadian Pictorial and Illustrated War News is before us. It contains the following illustrations:—

"Brigade Funerals of Lieut. Fitch and Private Moor, Royal Grenadiers" (scenes from sketches by our own artist, and instantaneous photographs by Mr. Fred Timms); "How the Royal Grenadiers got their Dinner before Batocoe" (from a sketch by our special artist, Mr. F. W. Curzon); "Mr. Lamour's Portable Rifle Pits in Action" (from photographs taken at Stratford, Ont.); "Big Bear, the last of the Rebels" (from a photograph); "The 38th Battalion (Dufferin Rifles) of Brantford" (from a photograph by Park & Co.) Also a fine two-page Supplement showing Sundry Sketches from the Front, by Mr. F. W. Curzon.

The paper sells at 15 cents per copy, obtainable from local booksellers and from the office of publication.

ARRESTED.—On the evening of Friday, the 31st inst., three river drivers in the employ of Messrs. Greene & Ellis were arrested in this village on suspicion of having stolen a traveller's trunk from the Kinnmount station a few days ago, and taken before Mr. Dickson, who ordered them to be released, as there was no evidence against them.

FINED.—Last Saturday evening Jas. Lyle, of Kinnmount, and Thomas McGovern, of Norland, were put in the lock-up here by Constable Neilson for being drunk and disorderly on the main street. On Saturday night Lyle was taken before Jas. Dickson, J. P., who inflicted a fine of $1 and costs, and on Monday morning McGovern, who had badly misconducted himself, was fined $5 and costs by the same magistrate.

ACCIDENT.—Last Tuesday Mr. Geo. Nie, head miller in the North Star Roller Mill in this village, had his left hand caught and badly squeezed by one of the flat chains used to drive the machinery. The accident, though not very serious, was a painful one, three small holes being punched in the back of the hand, and the fingers so compressed that they swelled to nearly double their natural size soon after being released. Mr. Nie is still around the mill doing what he can; but for some days, at least, his right hand will be the only useful one.

A NEW R. C. PARISH.—On Friday last week Fenelon Falls was visited by Bishop Janot, of Peterborough, who delivered a lecture in the R. C. church in the evening, and another next morning before his departure for Victoria Road, where he formed a new parish, of which Father McClosky is to have charge. The territory embraced by the new parish has hitherto been served by the priests residing at Fenelon Falls, but the distances to be travelled were so great that the bishop thought it advisable to station one at Victoria Road, and he has accordingly done so. Father McClosky, who has been Father McEvay's coadjutor for the past sixteen months, is popular with all who know him, and many besides the Catholics will be sorry to lose him.

Every mother thinks her blessed baby the best. Just arrived, another choice lot of baby carriages.

JOS. HEARD.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.—The Rev. C. W. Watch and Mr. Joseph McFarlane, lay delegate, returned home last Tuesday after a week's attendance at the Methodist Church conference at Port Hope, Mr. John Cullis, the lay delegate from Fenelon, remaining away a day or two longer to visit some friends. By referring to the published list of stations, we learn that the Rev. Mr. Watch is to remain at the Falls another term and is to be assisted by the Rev. N. D. Drew. His late assistant, Rev. J. H. Oke, was ordained on Sunday last and appointed to the station at Coe Hill in the Madoc district. The Rev. T. P. Steel and Alex. L. Adam are to be stationed at Bobayzeon, Rev. Hiram Fuzze at Kinnmount, Rev. Thomas McKee and J. H. Gault at Cobocook, and Rev. W. J. Sanders at Minden.

NEW BOATS.—Two valuable additions have just been made to the fleet of boats owned in Fenelon Falls. Mr. R. Macdonald has imported a beautiful four-oared cedar skiff made by John Carley, of Barrie, who is said to be one of the very best boat builders in the province. It cost $45, is eighteen feet long, and instead of being painted is varnished inside and out. Mr. J. J. Brandon has a cedar canoe made by Wm. English, of Peterborough, who confines himself exclusively to canoes, and in his own line has no successful rival. It cost $30, is sixteen and a half feet long, thirty-two inches beam, and will carry eight persons in fair weather. The outside is painted drab, the interior cream-color, and for lightness and elegance, combined with strength, appears to be all that the severest critic could possibly desire.

THE R. C. PICNIC.—Wednesday last being a delightful day, Father McEvay's picnic at Bobayzeon was a grand success, but we have not yet heard how many were present nor the amount realized. The crowd was simply immense, there being one boat load of people from Bridgton and three from Lindsay (where a hundred were left behind for want of room), while those who drove to the ground from the country around were so numerous that a great many teams had to be tied up in the woods, as every stable and shed in the village was crowded. The day was passed in the usual manner, and among the sports was a match at baseball between Peterborough and Lindsay, the latter winning by 15 to 5. Mr. Isaac Tripp, of Fenelon Falls, had the good luck to win the $25 in gold given by Capt. Lane to be drawn for by ticket holders. The proceeds of the picnic, which must have been very large, will go into the church fund.

Riel's Narrow Escape.

Astley, who for weeks was a prisoner in Batocoe, and who was the victim of Riel's constant and cruel treatment, was, upon his liberation by the volunteers, very determined in his expressions to be revenged upon the rebel insurgent for the indignities and cruelties heaped upon him during his captivity. At Batocoe one day, just before the start for Prince Albert was commenced, Astley went to the entrance of the guard room, where Riel was confined, and asked the guard to allow him to see Riel for a moment, stating that he desired to see him in reference to some personal matters. His request was refused, which so aroused Astley that he became very unruly and was put under arrest, but was subsequently released. He had on his person a revolver and carried a formidable-looking stick, which he doubtless intended using upon Riel if he could have secured access to the guard room.

Times Are Changed.

The Edmonton Bulletin says: "Time was, and not very long ago either, when the fact of a man being a British subject was sufficient passport through the Indian country of the Northwest, especially on the Saskatchewan, while on the contrary everything belonging to or savoring of the United States was looked upon with distrust and dislike. But times are sadly changed. Some weeks ago eight Indians paid a visit to Edmonton place, a mail station on the Edmonton and Calgary trail between Wolf creek and Blind river. They were in warlike array, and Barnett feared trouble from them. On their arrival one of the first questions they asked him was if he was a ke-che-mo-ke-man (long knife, or Yankee). He replied that he was. They then said that they would not injure him, as they had no quarrel with the Yankees. It was only the mo-ne-as-uk (greeneyes, Canadians) they were after. And again when the Indians were raiding the Hudson Bay store at Battle river, Mr. Taylor, who was in charge, asked them if they intended to raid Colman's (or I. G. Barker's) store near by. The Indians replied, No; that Colman's goods were from the States and they would not injure them on that account. Knowing the Indian policy that has been pursued by the United States government, what must that of Canada have been to have produced such a change of sentiment in the Indian mind in a few years?"

Archbishop Tache at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, June 8.—Archbishop Tache arrived in Ottawa this evening from Winnipeg via Toronto. In conversation with your correspondent his grace contrasted his present rapid journey of three days from Winnipeg with his slow progress forty years ago with evident satisfaction. His grace conversed freely about matters connected with the Northwest troubles, but of course not with a view to publication. I was particularly impressed with one statement made by his grace, which can be given without any breach of good manners. On my asking what were the causes, proximate and remote, that, in his opinion, led to the recent revolt of Riel and his fellow halfbreeds, he said that one idea had possessed the halfbreeds from the time of Wolsey's proclamation, namely, that they had been branded as cowards, unwilling to fight. This statement had rankled in their hearts, and they felt it during all these years. It was upon that feeling that Riel had worked most successfully during his harangues to his halfbreed friends. A proud and sensitive race, they were willing to do anything to wipe out what they deemed a stain on their reputation. Gabriel Dumont was a man prosperous in life, yet he had gone into the rebellion. His grace thought another reason which contributed to the revolt was the statement made by a Hudson Bay agent in the region of the trouble that the answer of the government to the claims of the halfbreeds would be five hundred soldiers to teach them to keep quiet. The halfbreeds thought after that they would have to fight. Of course a number of other causes, in his grace's opinion, contributed, but these I mention, and especially the first, are causes which have not yet been given in the course of the many discussions that have taken place.

The Afghan frontier convention between England and Russia is ready for signature. Russian officials assert the delay is due to Earl Granville asking for fresh explanations concerning points already accepted by Russia. A village in northern Hungary containing 400 houses was recently destroyed by an incendiary fire, and 1,000 people were rendered destitute. The enraged people discovered the culprit and roasted him to death over a bonfire. The Princess of Wales is endeavouring to bring about a meeting between the Prince of Wales and the Czar at Copenhagen. The Princess hopes that permanent peace will be secured through the meeting. The little town of Lafayette, Chambers Co., Ala., is taking on airs. A horn is blown at 6 o'clock in the afternoon as a signal for the closing of stores, and a few minutes thereafter scarcely a soul is seen on the streets. The boys play baseball from six o'clock until dark. The family of H. B. Harper, of Wilcox county, Alabama, have been poisoned by a colored cook. A pound of arsenic was found in her pocket when arrested. It is feared three children will die. The cook had trouble with Harper a month ago.

It is reported that two British spies have been arrested at Rega, on the Baltic Sea, having in their possession plans of Russian defenses of the port.

One of the most singular combinations of names is that of a lawyer in London who is called "Thomas Jolly Death." He is said to be a jolly good fellow, but "death" on fees.

An 11-year-old New York boy fell out of a second story window upon a woman who was passing, and generously offered to let her jump on him by way of compensating her for her injuries and indignation.

Much anxiety is expressed in Kansas over the disastrous reports regarding the condition of the wheat crop in that state. The best wheat in many instances will be a total failure on account of the hessian fly and chinch bug. Many wheat fields that up to ten days ago promised a half crop are now heading out cheat. This is the worst failure in wheat that Kansas ever experienced. The crop is estimated at 13,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels, or 35,000,000 less than last year. Corn now is the only hope for Kansas this year.

"Why! What's the matter?" "Lady! With face developed in a roll of hot clothes! Oh! I'm crazy with that Neuralgia that continually troubles me!" "Well, how foolish! Why don't you go to Wm. E. Ellis's Drug Store, Fenelon Falls, and get a bottle of Fluid Lightning? It cures me in less than the time of minute. I always keep a bottle in the house. It only costs 25 cents."

James Brayley, Hamilton, says: "I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure, and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisiana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value; we have plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was as bad with Bilious Fever and indigestion as I think any one could be. I have taken three bottles and am nearly well, and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I am better than I ever expected to be. Free trial bottles at Wm. E. Ellis's Drug Store, Fenelon Falls."

If you should be so unfortunate as to Burn, Scald or Wound yourself in any way, the proper thing to keep clean and heal it is McGregor & Parker's Carbolic Ointment. On having and be sure you get McGregor & Parker's Carbolic Ointment. Price, 25 cents. Wm. E. Ellis, Druggist, Fenelon Falls, has the genuine.
