A funny episode happened in Shelburne last week. One of our popular young men had purchased a new buggy and of course his girl had to have the first ride in it. That is where the funny part comes into the story. He drove to the young lady's home. She was already waiting for him and was dressed in the latest style with the now fashionable tight shirt. When she attempted to get into the buggy they found that more expansion in the dress was necessary or she could not make the grade. A chair was then secured but still the step to the chair was too high. After procuring a small box to step up on the chair she managed to get into the buggy. The affair caused considerable amusement to some onlookers across the street.—Free Press.

Creditors of Defriz & Woodman, Limited, Alliston, who went into liquidation about a year ago, received one and one half cents on the dollar.

Have Made Good In North Country

Some weeks ago The Advance made reference to a find made by the Jamieson Bros.,—Ed. and George—sons of Mrs. J. Jamieson of Flesherton, in the north country. These young men have been up there for the past six or seven years quietly digging along, working and prospecting. During the past couple of years they have located several claims in the Porcupine district, and one of these claims has recently been sold for a big figure, according to the Porcupine Herald of May 28. The young men retain a five per cent. interest in the company to be formed. The sale price was $150,000, monthly payments, and all to be paid within nine months. Added to this the young men own two other claims which they believe to be richer than those disposed of. The Advance warmly congratulates the young men on their good fortune.

The Herald item, referred to above, reads as follows:

"A deal was completed on Saturday last between the Mond Nickel Company of Sudbury and the owners of the Jamieson claims in Robb Township for the sale of the claims. The price involved is $150,000 and a five per cent non-assessible interest in the company that will be formed to operate this property. The reputation of the Mond people is practically a guarantee that a very short time will see active developments being pushed on these claims. The owners decline to state the actual cash payment just now, but it is understood that a substantial amount will be paid in a few more days and the balance will come in not inconsiderable monthly instalments."

Died in Well

Stewart McCulloch, a man 78 years of age, who had been missing from his home in Waldemar for a few days, was found Friday evening at the bottom of a 40-foot well, down which he had apparently fallen accidentally. James Courteny, who lives next door, missing the old gentleman from around the house, and being attracted by a piece of binder twine blowing around the top of the well, went over to investigate, and finally found the old man at the foot of the well. The old gentleman had fastened a lantern to the string and lowered it into the well; and then getting two short ladders and strapping them together he lowered these. It is surmised he missed his footing at the bottom rung and fell to the bottom into four feet of water, death coming from cold and exposure or possibly heart failure, as his head was not below water. The well is a narrow affair and the body was found in a half standing position, the head and lower part of the body resting on either side of the well casing. The lantern had burned itself out, so the accident likely occurred Wednesday.

Coroner Berwick was notified and decided there was no need of an inquest.—Grand Valley Star.
