Andrew McCauley Instantly Killed

Terribly sudden was the call that came to Mr. Andrew McCauley, cattle buyer and shipper of this place, on Saturday evening last. While driving home along the Collingwood gravel his horse ran away, and at Phillips' corner turned sharply south on the town line, pitching Mr. McCauley out of the buggy. When picked up a few moments afterward by Mr. Martin Phillips and his son, who witnessed the disaster, life was extinct. The horse ran as far as Mr. H. Holman's on the 4th line, where it was stopped. One line was broken, evidently in an effort to stop the animal, but it is not known how far it ran or what started it. The accident occurred just after dark.

The remains were brought home the same evening and interment took place Monday afternoon in Flesherton cemetery. The deceased gentleman was born in this county and was 52 years of age. The terrible accident sent a thrill of horror through this community, where Mr. McCauley was well known, having been in the business here for many years. He leaves a widow and three sons and two daughters to mourn his untimely end, and these are recipients of much sympathy in their hour of trial. The sons are Jack of Walkerton, Howie and Roy at home. and the daughters are Mr. W. Meldrum and Miss Jessie in Manitoba.

Walkerton

The bursting of a blood-vessel in the stomach of Mr. Philip Kastner of Dunkeld on Saturday afternoon, caused the blood to rush so profusely from his mouth, that he nearly bled to death before a Walkerton physician could be secured and the hemorrhage stopped.

William Forsythe, treasurer of the local lodge of the Woodmen of the World, and who was charged with embezzling the society's funds to the extent of $205.37, pleaded guilty of the crime when arraigned before Magistrate Tolton in the police court here on Monday last. He was remanded to jail, but was later released on bail of $300 being furnished that he would appear before the Sessions here on Dec. 8th for trial.

Theodore Anderson, who a few weeks ago assumed the principalship of the Chepstow separate school, created something of a sensation there on the afternoon of Friday, Sept. 18th, when he is stated to have punished a pupil named Frank Meagher, son of Mr. John Meagher, in a manner that terminated in the lad's collar bone being broken and a deep gash inflicted in his forehead that required several stitches to close. As a result of the occurrence Mr. Anderson has resigned from the principalship of the school and another has been placed on the job.

Seven prominent men of Chesley, including a constable, were hailed before Magistrate Tolton in Walkerton on Thursday last, charged with forcibly entering the factory of the Chesley Furniture Co. on Monday, Sept. 14th, for the alleged purpose of taking possession of some goods to satisfy their claims. Manager Durst refused to admit them, and the magistrate held that they were violating the law by breaking the lock on the door and forcibly entering. He therefore decided against them and the septette were sent up to a higher court for trial. David Robertson is acting for the prosecution in the affair and C. J. Mickle of Chesley for the defendants.

His horse taking fright at an incoming G. T. R. train about 7 o'clock on Monday morning last, Joe Abell the Jew, had the chagrin of seeing the steed run away with a load of chickens he was about to ship. Coming down the grade from the station, the frightened beast attempted to turn west at the first corner, but collided with a telephone pole at this point, capsized the rig and dumped the chickens onto the ground, where some of the fowl were killed and others escaped over the country from the wreck. The horse, with the two front wheels in tow, continued its flight westward, when it was captured by some workmen on their way to the Knechtel factory. We understand that Mr. Abell hasn't recovered all the escaped fowls yet, which would indicate that the birds are still on the go.—Herald and Times.

The weight of snow crushing the roofs two motor garages at Calgary to fall in occasioned $35,000 damage.

Sunday School Convention Held

Sunday school workers stormed Flesherton on Thursday last, with the Presbyterian church as their objective. It was the occasion of the East Grey Association's annual convention and visitors came from all the townships of the riding to receive inspiration and a new vision for their work of the coming year. Preston G. Orwig of Toronto was the main speaker. A young man, fired with enthusiasm for Sunday School work, his addresses were warmly received and proved helpful.

Lunch and tea were served in the basement of the church by the ladies of the three Flesherton Sunday Schools, and the delegates "camped" in the church for the three sessions of the day.

"Efficiency" was the Keynote of the addresses by Mr. Orwig, and more particularly of his opening one which had to deal with "Standards and what they mean." He declared that there were high and low standards with no in between position. This applied to the 1,800,000 Sunday School teachers of the continent as much as to anything else. In driving along the road the condition of the various farms spoke of the standard of efficiency set by the owners.

Coming down to the question of Sunday schools, Mr. Orwig declared that the school which just pegs along as it did 10 years ago, and for no other reason than that, never gets anywhere. It is a poor business concern. For instance in an Owen Sound church a class of boys had been put down by the furnace, and when you put them in the environment of a boiler factory they will make a noise like one. He would give even a class of boys the best possible equipment—and if they took an axe to the piano there must be something wrong with the axe, the speaker enigmatically declared.

If the Sunday School workers present at the convention all went home and applied efficiency to their work the school would be fifty per cent. better in a year than it it now. He challenged them to apply the methods of a modern efficiency expert to Sunday school work. For instance it had been found that sixteen motions were made in laying a single brick. Investigation by an efficiency expert reduced that number to 6; while in the Baldwin locomotive works three locomotives a day used to be turned out. After an efficiency expert had eliminated waste the number was increased to six with the same equipment and workers. Sunday school workers should also eliminate the unnecessary work.

In another address he spoke on "The Teachers Seven Day Opportunity", pointing out how the teacher should come in touch with the scholars during the week and so cement the ties between them. Mr. Orwig told of a church official who left an important business meeting to play a game of carpet ball with his Sunday school class, realizing the importance of it.

The hour of Sunday School might be said to be "abnormal", said the speaker, "It is a lull in the activities of the week. The big opportunity is out in the midweek between Sunday and Sunday". He challenged workers and parents to think in terms of the boy, to get down past the Sunday afternoon hour and give thought to the daily activities of the scholar and take an interest in every phase of their life.

"The Teen Age Teacher" was the subject of Mr. Orwig's third address. The teacher was not to be merely a sign post, but rather a guide, to go along. The characteristic of hero worship in boys made it necessary for the successful teacher to be also a leader. He must help the boys to "find themselves". The speaker declared that if the teacher could not reach the boys there was something wrong with the teacher. To be successful the teacher of scholars of this age must establish a point of contact in the hobbies and sports and give a conception of the manly Christ.

Patriotic Concert A Great Success

Close to $150 has been raised through the patriotic concert for the Women's Institute war fund. The event took place last week. The occasion was one of thrilling enthusiasm and patriotic fervor. A large audience packed the High School Auditorium until "standing room only" was available and responded instantly to the appeals of the speakers. Round after round of applause repeatedly interrupted the addresses.

Rev. A. McVicar gave the most notable address, thrilling with appeal to the hearts of the hearers. In the midst of the proud reference to the valor of the British soldiers and the sons of the empire from the Canadians to the Ghekwar of Baroda and his men, the speaker advised that Canadians stop and think of the mothers of the Germans, who are wishing for peace as fervently as those of this land.

Rev. R. C. Kerr's address was a dispassionate application of the war and its conditions to the world welfare, while Rev. Jas. Dudgeon recalled the fact that those who remain at home and keep the wheels of commerce moving provide the necessary materials to prolong the war until victory comes to rest on the Allies' banners and right prevails.

M. K. Richardson gave a masterly review of the events leading up to the war, reviewing the minor incidents which had brought the trouble to a head as a result of the long years of militarism indulged in by the great European powers and led by Germany.

Patriotism flamed high when Mrs. Albert Webster of Toronto gave appropriate selections. The first one was "The Eve of Waterloo," being the vivid sketch of the famous scene of a hundred years ago. Then the thrilling account of the battle of "The Revenge" was also given by Mrs. Webster. These two famous poetic masterpieces which have immortalized the courage of British fighters on land and sea were rendered with wonderful power and pathos.

The musical portion of the program was well rendered. A number of patriotic selections were given by a male chorus with the audience spontaneously breaking into the chorus, and at the close rising to sing the chorus of Rule Britannia.

"The March of the Cameron Men" as a trio by Mrs. Jos. Blackburn, Miss Maude Richardson and Miss Zilla Trimble, was enthusiastically received, and a solo by Mrs. M. E. Wright was splendidly sung.

Durham

We regret to learn of the misfortune of Mrs. Christopher Williams, who had a leg broken and was otherwise injured by a fall a few days ago. The old lady is about 85 years of age, but smart for woman of her years.

Constable Pettigrew, through the influence of Mr. J. P. Telford, was appointed a full-fledged County Constable on Monday by the Judge at Owen Sound. He has now full power to exercise the duties of office in any part of the County of Grey. We congratulate Mr. Pettigrew on his elevation, and hope a better state of law and order may result from it.

While driving home from the Fair on Friday evening, a buggy driven by W. Wiggins and containing Messrs. Robert and James McLean, was turned too short at one of the down town corners, with the result that the occupants were all thrown out and more or less injured. Robt. McLean escaped with a few minor bruises, but his brother was rather seriously hurt about the head and had one cheek bone fractured.

Reginald Pinkerton, who was committed to Owen Sound jail on or about the 25th of July, and who broke loose from the town trap on the night before he was to be delivered up, and has since been a fugitive from justice, was re-arrested in Markdale a few days ago, and on Tuesday was taken to Owen Sound, where he will spend the next three months. On his way there he was under the chaperonage of County Constable Pettigrew. We regret the young lad's conduct is deserving of such punishment and sincerely hope his short period of confinement may cause a vast moral improvement and a better and more useful life.—Chronicle.
