Nixon—Dingwall

A quiet wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dingwall, when their oldest daughter, Edith Elizabeth was united in marriage to Mr. Richard Nixon of Owen Sound. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Leece, Priceville, under an arch of autumn leaves banked with ferns. The bride who was given away by her father was dressed in silk Garbardine, trimmed with satin, and wore a beautiful necklet, gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of white bridal roses. After the ceremony a dainty meal was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Nixon left on the night train for their home in Owen Sound. Many good wishes follow them for their happiness and prosperity.

Creemore

Clifford Akitt started for Avening Sunday morning on a necessary errand on horseback. The horse ran away and he was thrown off but happily escaped without a broken bone, though badly shaken.

G.T.R. agent, Galbraith, at Glen Huron, was riding down hill on a bicycle on Sunday, when the front axle broke and he was thrown violently in the ditch, where he lay unconscious for some time before being found.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gozzard, Sunnidale, had a rather exciting time for a while on Sunday night they are not likely to forget for some time. With their family of four children and another lady they were driving towards home and as they went to cross the iron bridge over the river about a mile below Glencairn, one of the horses shied which turned the democract so abruptly that the whole party were dumped out on the edge of the bridge. Mrs. Gozzard was carrying baby in her arms and before she realized what had happened it dropped out of the shawl in which it was wrapped into about four feet of water under the bridge. Fortunately the current is not swift just there, and the child's clothing kept it afloat until it was rescued, not much the worse for its involuntary bath.—Star.

Mr. Thomas Conron was home for a few days. He has been away for a few month ssailing, being first mate on one of the lake steamers.

Portlaw

About half past five on Sunday morning the alarm was passed around that Mr. Thomas Sherwood's barn was on fire. There was a general rush to the scene but help was of little avail as the building was a mass of flames when the fire was first discovered. Mr. Sherwood succeeded in getting out one horse, but three others perished. The barn contained all the season's hay and straw and a quantity of grain, a new cutter, harness and a large number of fowl. There is a small insurance on the building but the loss is a severe one for Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood, who have the sympathy of the community in their misfortune. The cause of the fire is shrouded in mystery. Mr. Sherwood had just received word of the death of his mother in Collingwood.

Mrs. S. Wauchope, Mr. and Mrs. Porritt and son, Jack, and Mrs. Nicholson of Bolton, motored up last week and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sheardown. Little Miss Freda Porritt, who had visited for two weeks, accompanied them home.

Mr. Wesley Jamieson and his friend, Mr. Glenn, of Toronto, visited the former's brother, W. G. Jamieson.

The patriotic contributions of oats and potatoes has been taken up in this part with great enthusiasm, and the response has been very spontaneous.

Markdale

Mr. J. B. Thibaudeau received on Monday morning a wire message from his brother P. H. Thibaudeau, of Stettler, Alta; with the sad news of the tragic death of his three-year-old daughter, which took place on Sunday in a burning stable.

A pretty wedding took place in Christ Church on Tuesday morning, Oct. 27th, at six o' clock, when Miss Mabel Tuck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Tuck, Markdale, was united in marriage to Mr. Oswald M. McKenzie, of Port Arthur, Rev. J. H. Hosford, B. A., Rector of Christ Church, officiating. The bride who was neatly attired in a blue suit with black military hat, was given away by her father. The wedding March was played by Mr. J. H. Dundas, and during the signing of the register Miss Bertha Matthews sang very sweetly "O Perfect Love". The bride and groom were unattended.

A handsome Studebake car just three weeks out from the factory, came to grief near Markdale on Sunday, and the automobile party, who hailed from Owen Sound, were compelled to take noon train Monday back to the County Capital. We understand the repairs will cost in the neighborhood of $75, and altogether it will prove an expensive Sunday outing.—Standard.

I. Goldstein an Orangeville junk dealer had $50 silently removed from his pants pockets one night, while he slept on. He has no idea who took the shekels.

Died Suddenly Near Markdale

Mr. W. G. Pickell, of Markdale, an old resident of Artemesia, died from the result of heart failure on Monday last. He was driving to a farm in Euphrasia on some business and when passing through a bush a fallen tree barred his way. Mr. Pickell got out of his buggy to remove the tree and it is supposed the exertion was too much for him. On arriving at his destination, the farmer who was ploughing near the road, noticed him leaning over the fence and thinking that he was tying his horse he kept on ploughing, but on turning to look again he noticed him fall to the ground, and upon reaching his side he found life extinct. Mr. Pickell was well and favorably known here having resided on his farm near here and the sympathy of the entire community is extended to his sorrowing wife and family of whom there are three sons and two daughters.

Walkerton

Three sons of Mr. David Robertson K. C., here, have enlisted as civil engineers for the front. Roy Robertson has already crossed the ocean with the first Canadian Contingent, and his two brothers, Hed and Arthur, will follow shortly with the second overseas army. All are graduates of the S. P. S., Toronto, and will be engaged in throwing bridges across streams and otherwise assisting the movement of the army. As there is a big scarcity of engineers, three from one family is a most notable and valuable contribution.

While coming home from hunting on Saturday night, Tony Wagner and Angle Yaeck were run into by a wagon traveling at a reckless rate in the opposite direction. As a result of the collision, which occurred in front of Mr. Wm. Richardson's on the South Line, a wheel was ripped of the rig, and they were left straded on the road, while the driver of the wagon whipped up his horses and vamoosed in the dark without waiting to see extent of damage or the seriousness of the injury done

A man who was caught stealing apples in Mr. Henry Dippel's orchard near the G. T. R. station here on Sunday afternoon, rushed off with the big sack he was filling and attempted to conceal himself elsewhere in the yard in imitation of Mother Eve who, we are told, hid in the garden and was ashamed at what she had done to the first apple tree. But while Eve was ordered to come forth, her descendant in Walkerton was allowed to go forth, for the owner of the orchard here states that he might have had for the asking the apples that he sinned over by stealing.

William Craig, a Government inspector from Ottawa, arrived in Walkerton on Thursday and in company with Chief Constable Ferguson drove into North Brant to investigate a story circulated about a German farmer in that vicinity, who on being approached for a contribution of oats for the British army is alleged to have made a statement to the affect that he would sooner contribute money to buy dynamite to blow up the British fleet. On being quizzed about the alleged utterance by the official on Thursday the farmer denied making any such statement and declared the yarn circulared about him was false.

Mr. J. Pleskey who bought from Mr. A. J. Smith the general store here lately conducted by Mr. J. B. Reynolds, and who was to give as part payment on the transaction some Toronto real estate, instructed his lawyer not to hand over the deeds of the Toronto property until some difficulty between him and Smith had been satisfactorily settled. Smith and Reynolds, it seems, called at the lawyer's office for the deeds, and while the lawyer was phoning to Mr. Pleskey in Walkerton about the matter, it is alleged the the papers were taken off his desk. Mr. Pleskey thereupon laid a charge against Smith and Reynolds, and which was to the effect that they had stolen certain deeds and documents, which were in the custody of Ernest W. Dillon, member of solicitors. Smith admitted taking the papers, and told the firm they might take whatever proceedings they liked to recover them. He alged that he only took those to which he was entitled. Mr. Frost stated that he told Smith that he could not come into the office and pick up papers and walk off with them, and Smith said, "I have them and I'll keep them. They are mine." The case came up for trial in Toronto on Tuesday last, when, we learn, the papers in dispute were ordered to be returned to Pleskey.—Bruce Herald and Times.
