Specifications For A Man

To respect my country, my profession, and myself. To be honest and fair with my fellow men, as I expect them to be with me. To be a loyal citizen. To speak of my country with praise and act always as a trustworthy custodian of its good name. To be a man whose name carries prestage with it wherever it goes.

To base my expectations of a reward on a solid foundation of service rendered. To be willing to pay the price of success in honest effort. To look upon my work as an opportunity to be seized with joy and to be made the most of, not as a painful drudgery to be reluctantly endured.

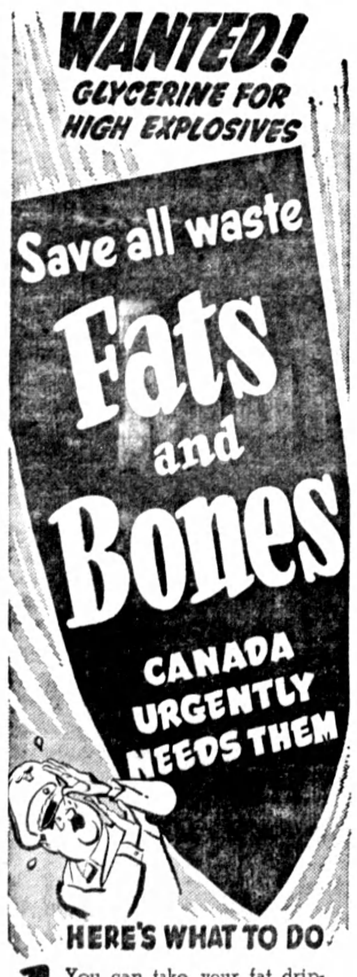
To remember that success lies within my own self and in my own courage and determination. To expect difficulties and force my way through them. To turn hard experience into capital for future struggles.

To believe my profession heart and soul. To carry an air of optimism in the presence of those I meet. To dispel all temper with cheerfulness, kill doubts with strong convictions, and reduce action with an agreeable personality.

To find time to do every needful thing by not letting time find me doing nothing. To hoard days as a miser does pounds. To make every hour bring me dividends in increased knowledge and healthful recreation. To keep my future unencumbered with debts. To save as well as earn.

To steer clear of dissipation and guard my health of body and peace of mind as a most precious stock in trade.

Finally, to take a good grip on the joys of life. To play the game like a man. To fight against nothing as hard as my own weakness and endeavor to give it strength. To be a gentleman, so I may be courteous to man, faithful to friends, and true to God.—The London Freemason.



HERE'S WHAT TO DO

1 You can take your fat drippings, scrap fat and bones to your meat dealer. He will pay you the established price for the dripping and the scrap fat. If you wish, you can turn this money over to your local Voluntary Salvage Committee or Registered Local War Charity, or—

2 You can donate your fat dripping, scrap fat and bones to your local Voluntary Salvage Committee if they collect them in your community, or—

3 You can continue to place out your Fats and Bones for collection by your Street Cleaning Department where such a system is in effect.

KIMBERLEY

The W. A. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. L. Morwood with seventeen members present. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. E. Morwood in the absence of the president. The Easter missionary offering amounted to $9.95. It was decided to hold a bazaar in May; date to be set at the next meeting.

This week there are some changes taking place in this community. Mr. and Mrs. Carman Haines are moving to the home of Mr. G. Haines and Mr. and Mrs. G. Haines to the home of Carman. Mr. and Mrs. S. Haines are moving to a new home on the East Mountain.

Mrs. Jas. Lawrence, who has been with her daughter, Mrs. J. Taylor, returned to her home on Monday. She was accompanied by Miss Dunita of Oshawa.

The Badminton Club met Wednesday night and after a few friendly games Mr. and Mrs. Stan. Haines were presented with some gifts prior to their leaving for their new home on East Mountain.

Mr. Vernon Lougheed has left to take a position on a farm of the King Paving Co.

Miss Lois Weber is spending a week with Kimberley friends.

A number of girls made a successful drive on Saturday by holding a tag day for boxes for our soldiers, sponsored by the W.I.

Collective Tyranny

To the Editor:

Now that the battle is over, and the Collective Bargaining Bill is as good as passed, it might be well for the workers to consider how they are affected by it. Not that they can do anything about it; but in order that they might know what position they are in, what is expected of them, and what will happen to them if they transgress. This applies to all who work for wages or salary. The editor of a newspaper is covered as much as the reporter, the stenographer, the salesman, the mechanic or the jack of all trades. The only workers exempt are farm hands, domestics, policemen and Hydro employees.

Anyone listening to the representations of the union leaders before the Committee would have thought that the purpose of the legislation was to bring the ill-disposed and unfair employer to his sense, and compel him to respect the rights of labour. But when one examines their requests in detail, most of which have been embodied in the bill, one is forced to the conclusion that the noisy attack on the employers was only a smoke screen to conceal the real objective. That objective was, not to put the employer in a straight jacket, but to deliver the worker, bound and gagged into the hands of the union.

Consider a few of the things the bill does to the workers. It gives union officials power:

1. To deprive the worker of the right to make a bargain with his employer.
2. To deprive the worker of the right to join with other workers of his choice, and bargain collectively with their employer.
3. To force the worker to join the union to which 51 per cent of his fellows belong.
4. To force the worker to submit to any agreement the 51 per cent may choose to make for him.
5. To force the employer to dismiss any worker who fails to join the union.
6. To force the employer to deduct money from the workers' wages and hand it over to the union with or without the worker's consent.
7. To deny the worker the right to work at his trade or vocation, save by the grace of union officials.
8. To deny the worker any effective control over the officials of the union to which he is forced to contribute.

All these things can be done to the working man under this bill, in spite of the fact that, according to Gallup poll, 80 per cent of the people of Canada believe that every worker should be free to join a union, or refrain from joining a union, as he sees fit, and 72 per cent of union members hold the same view.

Some employers think they are being unfairly dealt with by this bill. Perhaps they are; but the real crime is being committed by those who claim to be his frends; and in this bill, the employers are being forced to become the instrument of that crime.

HOW MUCH Did You Save LAST YEAR?

One of these days a man will call on you to talk to you about saving money. The caller will be one of your neighbors, or a man from your nearest town who is likely well known to you.

He is asking you to save money when he asks you to buy a Victory Bond. He is not asking you to give money to anybody or anything.

You save money when you buy a Victory Bond . . . and you lend your money to Canada to help win the war. The money you save is yours. You will get it back later on, and have it to do anything you wish with it. And Canada will pay you 3 % interest on your savings every year until the loan is paid back to you.

TAKE A FEW MINUTES TO FIGURE OUT HOW YOU ARE GETTING ALONG

This is something that every man should do now and then.

You will see how you are getting along by comparing savings with earnings. It's what you save that counts.

Perhaps you will say you saved all you could. Did you? Remember you are asking yourself questions. You are not getting figures to show anyone but yourself. Can you figure out how you can save more?

A sure way to save money is to save it in small sums—as you get it. Victory Bonds—which can be paid for in small instalments covering a six-months' period—provide a convenient method of carrying out a savings programme. Your Victory Bond salesman will tell you all particulars.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half-yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest.

A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.
