Walkerton

Ernest Boyle, aged 19, of Southampton was sentenced in Walkerton the other day by Judge Klein to three months in the county jail for breaking into the G. T. R. station at Southampton on Oct. 24th. and damaging the cash drawer. Detective Hodge, of the G. T. R. secret service, investigated the affair and succeeded in ferreting out the intruder and placing him in the toils.

William Caradyce, familiary known as the "Summer Coon", and who is more of a prodical son than a wandering Jew, struck town on Thursday night and wanted to go to jail. After vainly looking for Chief Ferguson to do the job, he ran foul on Nightwatchman Swanston, who after hearing his story, struck an attitude and arrested him in the name of the King. He was escorted before Magistate Tolton, who gave him thirty days in the cells for vagrancy.

A Paisleyite was discovered by Chief Ferguson stretched out on the sidewalk in front of Reichenbach's jewlery store here on Friday night, and on being removed to the lock-up was found to be in a paralayzed state of intoxication. The stranger, who came from a local option district, was drier than a long sermon when he reached here, and the way he lubricated his works with booze when he got next to a real thirst-counter, laid him out like a dead soldier on the pavement. After severl hours of retreat in the lock-up, he regained his feet and was allowed to locomotor away again, after a free lecture from the Chief.

Magistrates McIntosh of Southampton and Sutherland of Amabel, on information of Inspector Raney of North Bruce, had before them Charles Dubrick of Tara, on Tuesday last, for having 5 gallons of whiskey sent to him by Randal & Roos of Berlin. The whiskey was found in the express office at Tara addressed to Dubrick, who is a bartender in Tara, which is under local option. Dubrick did not claim the booze, and as there was no evidence to convict him, the case was dismissed, and the booze was confiscated. On the suggestion of Judge Klein, who was in Tara on the day of the trial, the two J. P.'s ordered that the whiskey be sent to Bruce Hospitel at Walkerton instead of being poured down the street gutter as is sometimes done.

William Exham, a 19-year-old Irish man, brought the shadow of dishonor to that part of the Emerald Isle from which he came, by robbing his employer, Maurice Crawford, a farmer near Tara, of $120.00, which he stole from a bureau drawer on the 14th of July last. The culprit departed with his plunder and went elsewhere to work. He was finally apprehended by a knight of the baton, and appearing before a Tara magistrate last week pleaded guilty to the theft and was sent to the Walkerton jail on Friday to await the disposition of his case by the Judge. The prisoner a few hours after his arrival here, was ushered into the presence of Judge Klein, who remanded him to the cells for a week to allow time to enquire into his previous conduct and character before passing sentence on the accused.

A. C. Davey of the Columbus Oil Co. an American concern, was fined $40 and costs by Magistrate Tolton on Monday afternoon for selling coal oil from the G. T. R. station, here, without a license. The charge was laid by Chief Ferguson under the Transient Traders Act, which prohibits outsiders from selling in Walkerton without a license. D. Robertson, K. C., appeared for the prosecution while Davey handled his own case. A number of witnesses testified that they had bought coal oil from Davey on Friday and Saturday last, and on strength of this evidence the court imposed the above fine. Two representatives from the Columbus Oil Co. recently canvassed the rural districts around here disposing of kerosene, lubricating oils and axle grease, and also a large tin to keep the oil in. That the Company have been up against it in other places is shown by the fact a fine of $50 was imposed on one of their agents for selling recently at Alliston, while two charges have been laid against Davey in Simcoe county for alleged breach of the Hawkers' and Pedlars' By-law.—Bruce Herald and Times.

The Free Press warns farmers of S. Grey and Wellington to be on the look out for any strangers or talkative men and apparently having good financial backings who wants to buy 300 acres in a block for himself and two sons. He slips in about meal time in the evening and thus often gets board and bed for the night while he discusses farms and terms. He names a lawyer in Mt. Forest as if well acquainted, who will draw up the papers. The game seems to be that he makes free with valuables, searches pockets of garments in the room and occasionally slips away before others are up. Several victims in Minto kept it quiet for a while but the facts came out so look out. He is of under size, heavy mustache, speaks fluently, is posted on the war, having as he says two daughters in the Red Cross Society at the front Some think he is a German spy.

Insane in House of Refuge

Owing to certain rumours to the effect that persons of weak mind were being sent from the Ayslum to the County House of Refuge, thus infringing upon the rights of inmates, Owen Sound Council sent a committee to investigate. This committee was composed of Mayor McQuaker, Dr. Hershey and councilor Willsby accompanied by Miss Notter, deaconess of the King's Daughters. These came from the county town last Wednesday, and were joined here by Reeve Ennis and Dr. Ego, the House of Refuge physician. They went through "Home" and found everything that had any bearing on the management of the building in excellent shape, nothing with the least objection could be found.

There evidently should be further provision made for the mildly demented other than in either the ayslums or in the House of Refuge. It is not right that those who are neither very insane or violent should be sent to associate with those who are quite insane. Neither is it right that those who are only mildly insane should be sent to associate with those poor old people whose misfortune is that they are so poor that they have to go to the house of refuge. There should be something between the house of refuge and the insane asylum for the slightly demented.

The mayor is of the impression that what they saw at the Markdale house of refuge is quite sufficient reason for them making the strongest representations to the provincial government. Five of those who are in the house of refuge he says are demented, and only one of those who have been sent back. The others all remained there. The superintendent says that though they are never obstreperous when he is there they sometimes create considerable disturbance when he is away from them. This is what is so trying on those who are entirely sane, it is held —Standard.

A County Sale of Cattle?

A pamphlet has been issued giving an idea as to the extent of agricultural operations in the County of Grey. It contains a list of the breeders of pure bred stock. There may be some names omitted but if so these names should be sent to the Secretary of the Board of Agriculture.

There is a feeling amongst the cattle men of the County of Grey that an auction sale of pure bred cattle should be held in the County. To this sale should be contributed only first class animals and the sale should be held at some point near the centre of the County. Already one man has signified his intention of contributing six animals if the sale is held. The advantage would be that if a good number of animals were offered for sale at one time and place it would bring in buyers from a distance and thus bigger and better prices would result. It would be a good way to get rid of our surplus stock. What do the breeders think about this? Are they in favor of the plan? If there are a goodly number in favor of the plan and a good few animals contributed the Grey County Board of Agriculture will make all arrangements for conducting the sale. Will those interested in this whether for or against, write to the Secretary of the Board and let their views be known. The Secretary is T. H. Binnie, Priceville, Ont., R. R No. 2.

A pecular combination has been discovered by somebody in the name of the two leading Generals in the Allies' forces. You may read across or take each side of the dividing line.
