WALLET SAVES HIM FROM JAP BULLET

JOHN DESCRIBES TRUE CHRISTIANS.—1 John

PRINTED TEXT, 1 John 2: 1-6; 3 : 13-18; 4 : 15-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanseth us from all sin. 1 John 1 : 7.

Memory Verse: I will sing unto Jehovah. Exodus 15 : 1.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time.—We do not know exactly when John wrote this epistle, but probably between A.D. 85 and 95.

Place. No doubt this epistle was written from Ephesus.

Fellowship With God

"My little children, these things write I unto you that ye may not sin. And if any man sin, we have an Advocate with The Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. And he is the propitiation for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the whole world." It is important to bear in mind that propitiation means the removal of God's righteous judgment against sin by means of sacrifice.

Objects Of Love

"And hereby we know that we know him, if we keep his commandments. He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily hath the love of God been perfected. Hereby we know that we are in him." Having assured his readers that God has made every provision for cleansing from sin, and that there is a divine way of perfectly restoring the child of God who has committed the sin, the Apostle immediately proceeds to show his readers how absolutely essential it is for believers to keep God's commandments. The words 'love of God' may include His love to us and ours to Him, because our love is always inspired and prompted by Him, and the perfection of love means its completion in life; it has reached its goal in the one who is thus obedient to the Word of God.

Love Our Brethren

"He that saith he abideth in him ought himself also to walk even as he walked." From a general admonition to obey the commandments of God, the apostle becomes specific in telling us to obey the commandment to love our brethren. Love is the desire on the part of the one loving to do everything possible for the good of the one loved at whatever cost or sacrifice, joyfully and voluntarily.

Ways of Death and Life

"Marvel not, brethren, if the world hateth you. We know that we have pasesd out of death into life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him." Here we have in broad contrast the way of the world which is death, and the way of God which is life. It is the way of the world to hate; and so to hate as to murder. It is the way of God to love, and so to love as to lay down life to save. The wicked one, in whom the world lies, hates the brethren. His hatred fastens on the godly. The Holy One loves. His love fastens on the lost. Whoever heard of the wicked one laying down his life to secure the accomplishment of his object?

Test of Brother-love

"Hereby know we love, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren." We have obtained the knowledge of what love is in the concrete example of Christ's vicarious death. "But whoso hath the world's goods, and beholdeth his brother in need, and shutteth up his compassion from him, how doth the love of God abide in him? My little children, let us not love in word, neither with the tongue; but in deed and truth." If we are unwilling to help our brother in his need it is impossible that God's love is dwelling in us. It is not the utterance of some great or profound truth or the accomplishment of some wonderful deed, but the quiet, simple help of a needy brother that beyond all else demonstrates our possession of the love of God. Not what we say, however, true; not what we feel; not what we think; but what we do in genuine, practical, self-sacrificing activity, is the sole proof and test of our brother-love.

Victory Over The World

"Whosover shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God abideth in him, and he in God. And we know and have believed the love which God hath in us. Herein is love made perfect with us, that we may have boldness in the day of judgments; because as he is, even so are we in the world." This love is that which God and we may have in common, that there may be mutual indwelling of us in God and of God, in us.

Previously the Apostle has told us we are not to love the world, that the world passes away, that the world will hate us. Now he concludes with a bold declaration concerning the secret of victory over the world. The world is simply humanity without God, and all that humanity does and thinks without God. The world is given to pleasure, thoughts of self, the acquisition of wealth and power, of doing all things for one's own advancement. The world may be attractive and alluring and will appeal, certainly, to unregenerated human nature, but the world never satisfies. The world can only bring death, and, generally, disillusionment, and a sense of wasted effort. Now, says the Apostle, victory over the world is to be found in faith in Jesus Christ. Faith in Christ delivers us from the fascination and the deceptions and the false teachings of the world, centering our life in Him instead of in self, in spiritual things that abide instead of visible things that pass away.

How Would You Solve This One?

"We are allowed to raise chickens but the problem is to feed them," said Leslie Howard on a BBC broadcast. "The ration is almost nothing and is based on the number of people in the household, who have to give up their normal egg rations in order to feed the chickens to produce the eggs that they were going to—you know."

RADIO REPORTER By REX FROST

"Will Mary elope with her friend Alice's husband? . . . Will Dr. Jones save the life of Phyllis's six weeks old baby? . . . Will Bert Smithers find his wife's love letters? Tune in again tomorrow afternoon at this same time for another episode (or as an announcer once said by mistake, 'epiDOSE') in the thrilling serial "Love Can Be Lovely". And remember that you can still wash the dishes and have pink fingernails by using "Sunnysuds" the world's superlatively wonderful soap flakes."

Yes man. Everybody at some time or other has become intrigued with what have become commonly known as "soap operas", those five a week emotional dramas of life in the city or the great open spaces . . . Dished up over a network of stations every afternoon or early evening to intrigue madame with domestic love, tragedy, suspense, speculation and soap. Nearly everyone criticises the "soap operas." Nearly everyone listens to them. Everyone pokes fun at them. Recently a survey was made in the State of Iowa, U.S.A. to find out who listens to this type of program. Apparently the "soap opera" is more listened to in the rural sections than the cities and towns. The majority of women who listen are in the age group from 21 to 35. The survey in one city indicated that 53% of housewives interviewed tune in to these serial programmes with some degree of regularity. Nearly one-half of these ladies expressed the opinion that there are two many "soap operas" on the air. There's one thing about it . . . with some sixty different serial stories on the air in North America, a large proportion of them sponsored by soap manufacturers, there's enough subtle propaganda going out on the short waves to get the goat of the enemy countries of Europe. In Germany, Italy, and the occupied zones of the continent . . . to get a piece of soap you've got to have an AAAAA priority. It might be a good idea to start beaming "Life can be beautiful" etc. etc. etc. across the Atlantic in German and Italian. Between blitzes of enemy cities, a little soft soap of this kind might have quite psychological effect.

Everyone likes a military band. One of the hardy perennials of martial music made its customary summer time debut last Sunday across the airwaves of the CBC national network. The band of His Majesty's Canadian Grenadier Guards under the baton of Capt. J. J. Gagnier has always been cheered along the airways by thousands of band music lovers. The tunes chosen by Capt. Gagnier seem to cover a very wide range in form and mood to suit every taste in the wide coverage of his audience. The Guards bandstand will come to your living room every Sunday evening at 7.30 during the summer months.

An example of the power of radio. So impressed was a listener with Watson Thomson's discussion of the plight of the Jews in Europe given Easter Sunday over the CBC national network that he forwarded Mr. Thomson a cheque for $1,000. The donor's letter remarked that never before in his whole life had he donated money to such a charitable cause, but that he was so impressed by the talk that he could not help himself. The donation has been turned over to the Canadian Jewish Refugee Committee.

Here are three programmes which will be of particular appeal to members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. Monday June 7th, Wednesday June 9th and Friday June 11th, 6.05 p.m., station CBY Toronto. These programmes will bring brief previews of what the I.O.D.E. hope to realise when the little pink Rose Day tags are fluttering in every buttonhole on Rose Day, Saturday, June 12th. Its interesting to recall that it was Alexandra, Princess of Denmark, and the very much beloved consort of Edward VII who first established Rose Day in Great Britain. Queen Alexandra lent her name to the day in June upon which the pretty little pink blossoms made by the crippled children of the London Hospital Orphanage were sold to raise funds for their needs. Today the inspiring project so graciously initiated by Queen Alexandria is reflected in the Child Welfare Services of the I.O.D.E. Radio is proud to play its part in broadcasting a series of messages which it is hoped will inspire warm hearted citizens to give generously, that happiness and health may be brought to many Canadian children.

New Automatic Pilot Developed

Device Operates Under Any Conditions of Flight

A new form of automatic pilot, consisting of a series of hydraulic servo-motors which can operate the flying control surfaces of an aircraft, has recently been developed in Britain, to save pilots from crashing through loss of consciousness. The device operates on the ailerons, elevator and rudder of a machine so as to bring it out on an even keel from a dive, steep turn or any high-speed maneuvre which might cause a pilot to lose consciousness. The great difference between this device and the normal automatic pilot is that the latter only functions when the aircraft is flying straight and level, while the former operates under any conditions of flight. It can be switched on or off by means of a ring attached to the control column. When the pilot's hands are on the control column it is automatically swiched off; when his grasp is relaxed it automatically takes control and brings the aircraft to a level position.

To Repair Engines In S. Pacific Zone

Engine overhaul bases equal in capacity to any naval plane repair stations in the United States are being established by the South Pacific Force.

The program, directed by Rear Admiral Osborne B. Hardison, is designed to eliminate the time-costly shipment of engines from South Pacific combat areas back to the United States or Pearl Harbor for overhaul and major repair.

The bases will take care of approximately 75 per cent. of all Navy and Marine plane engine overhauls in this area.

"Yes" Or "No" It's Still Resistance

A Swedish correspondent who has recently been in Copenhagen speaks of the great attraction which this city still possesses even though the smile is now only a mask under which grief and disquiet can be traced.

He speaks also of the tough character of Danish resistance and adds the following comparison between Norwegian and Danish character: "The Norwegian says No, and doesn't do it. The Dane says Yes, and doesn't do it either."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

ANSWER: It would be safer to shoot the lioness, for the male probably would then flee. If you shot the lion, the lioness most likely would charge.

NEXT: Unlevel sea level.

Nazi Shaves Up

A Dutch underground newspaper reports that Holland barbers are charging five cents above the normal price to shave Nazis "because their faces are longer these days," the Netherlands news agency said recently.
