OWEN SOUND - ONTARIO

Possible extension of the Government railway system to include the National Transcontinental Railway was foreshadowed in discussion of a far-reaching resolution introduced by Hon. Frank Cochrane in the Commons.

A Belgian soldier, who escaped from his German captors, tramped all the way across Germany to Switzerland and then to Genoa. He tramped in all for 57 days and covered 750 miles. While in Germany he posed as a Swiss laborer who was both deaf and dumb. When he arrived at Genoa the Belgian consul took him in hand and provided him with the means of getting back to France and thence to the Belgian army.

In spite of the exercise of medical skill and the performance of an unusual operation in an endeavor to save her life, Miss Aradine Connell, daughter of Mr. W. Connell, 921 Seventh St. East, Owen Sound, passed away on Wednesday of last week. It will be remembered that a few weeks ago a transfusion of blood from father to daughter took place, the young girl being subject to frequent spells of bleeding at the nose which were gradually sapping her life away. It was thought that the operation had proved successful as for a time the bleeding ceased but it commenced again and on Sunday a second transfusion of blood from the father was made, but in a vain effort to save her life. Miss Connell was thirteen years of age and was born in Holland township.

Thos. Speers, aged 18, son of Isaac Speers, Ivy, was the victim of a serious accident on Wednesday morning, March 17th. A sawing outfit driven by a portable steam engine was in operation at the Speers home, when the governor belt broke and allowed the engine to race at top speed. It is said that the man feeding the saw pressed a stick heavily against it to slow up the engine. Whether or not this is so, the reporter could not learn positively. At any rate, the saw flew to pieces and Thomas Speers, who had been removing the blocks from the saw, received some of the flying portions in the hands. His left hand was almost completely cut off just below the wrist and the right was cut fully one third across. The unfortunate man was taken to Barrie hospital, where it was found that the left hand could not be saved and amputation was performed. The right hand will probably be saved, but it is doubtful if Mr Speers will ever regain the complete use of it.—Free Press.

Presentation of Medals

The 34th Annual Presentation of medals and prizes took place at the Northern Business College, Owen Sound, on Wednesday afternoon. The College has had its usual good attendance and the contests were very keen. The judging was done by Town Treasurer A. F. Armstrong and Mr. W. P. Telford, Manager of the Grey and Bruce Loan Co. In many instances they had considerable difficulty in reaching a decision and the work was a credit to the students and to their instructors. The presentation, made by the Principal. C. A. Fleming, F.C.A., and members of staff were as follows:—

Specimens of Writing—O Cory, E Stephens, L Perkins, J C Knowles.

Rapid Writing—R Ross, B Smith, L Perkins, J C Knowles.

Greatest Improvement in Writing—W J Morgan, R Benedict, G Ledingham, J H Sinclair.

Spelling, Final Test—D Durie, A Stark, L Perkins, J Armstrong.

Spelling, Weekly Record—A Stark, J Maynard, D Drurie, O Corry.

Rapid Calculations—L Perkins, J Munro, G Ledingham, R Ross, J C Knowles, G White, S McDougall.

Best Kept Set of Commercial Books—L Perkins, O Corry, J Armstrong, J C Knowles.

Letter Copying—J Maynard, I Dunn, C McGirr, M Minor.

Specializing.

During the short seven years of her life little Florence Louise had become duly impressed with the prevalence of specialists in the medical profession. One day, returned from a visit to a small playmate, she calmly announced: "Rena swallowed a button."

"Are you not worried about her?" she was asked.

"Oh, she will get along all right," Florence Louise complacently replied. "They sent for a regular button doctor."—Judge.

A Marine View.

Driven to it by stern necessity, the old sailor had taken the job of running an elevator.

"'Vast there, my hearty!" he said to the fat man who was stepping toward the side of the car. "I'll have to ask ye to stand amidships. This craft has a heavy list to port."

Breaking It Gently.

Sweet Girl (affectionately)—Father, you wouldn't like me to leave you, would you? Papa (fondly)—Indeed, I would not, my darling. Sweet Girl—Well, then, father, I'll marry Archie Stoneybroke. He is quite willing to live here.—London Telegraph.

College Life.

"Has your son been to college long enough to learn the ropes?"

"Oh, yes, indeed; long enough to know that the ropes mean strings on his dad. You ought to see the letters he writes home for money."—Florida Times Union.

Wasted Effort.

Smith—H. Peck went on a silence strike the other day, but it did no good. Thomas—Why not? Smith—Mrs. H. Peck wouldn't stop talking long enough to notice it.—Judge.

Your Pocket or the Middlemen's?

Between what you pay the dealer and what you get in fence, there's at least 50% "selling-expense." Which can't add one cent to value—but does add several cents per rod to cost. You put that several cents per rod in the "middleman's" pocket, when you buy fence through the dealer. You put that saving in your own pocket when you buy

Because you buy direct from factory to farm. You pay us only a single small profit over and above the actual cost. You save the 50% "selling expense," in the shape of highest quality fence.

When you're offered "other" fence at Page prices—bear this fact in mind. You must pay the selling-expense." So that fence, sold through the dealer at Page prices or less,—must be of lower quality, to make up the "selling expense."
