OTTAWA NEWS LETTER

HEALTH BILL WOULD AID RURAL PARTS

Vastly improved medical, hospital and nursing services for farm areas, villages and towns is one of the prime objects of the Dominion Government's Health Insurance Bill, Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health, told the Dominion-Province Health Conference here. Due to lack of doctors, nurses, hospitals and public health services in rural districts, sickness and death rates are much higher in the country than in urban centres, Mr. MacKenzie stated. Less than six per cent of rural communities have fulltime medical health officers, surveys show.

"Our people can enjoy full and vigorous health only if adequate facilities for preventive and curative medical care of the highest standard are readily available to all, irrespective of geographic location kenzie advised provincial ministers and financial status," Mr. Mac- and deputy ministers gathered to consider the bill.

The Dominion Health Minister made it plain that one main purpose of the plan is to expand hospital, medical and dental services in rural aeras . He suggested to the provinces that doctors and other professional people engaged under the scheme to serve the public be paid on a salary basis in rural sections to ensure as good service for people on farms and in villages and towns, as for those living in cities.

SCHEME TO COST $250,000,000 YEARLY

Of the $250,000,000 annual cost of complete medical service to all, it is expected that $150,000,000 will be met by contributions of insured persons and that the Dominion will pay the balance of $100,000,000. Provinces would thus have to pay only cost of those unable to pay the stipulated nominal charges.

In this regard the impression is strong here that cost of the scheme to individuals will be reduced below the amounts originally proposed. Financial details will be settled at a general Dominion-Provincial conference later. Individual provinces, having authority under the B. N. A. act over health, can join in the scheme or not, as they wish. But most have indicated their intention to participate.

CANADA TO DEVELOP NORTHERN OIL FIELDS

Exploration and development of oil fields in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon will continue with Dominion Government encouragement, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources, told Parliament.

At the height of the Japanese in- Alaska.
vasion threat in 1942, the United States was given the right to develop the fields around Fort Norman, to provide gasoline and oil for Canadian and United States forces along the Pacific Coast and in

The U. S. spent $134,000,000 and uncovered a proven field of 4,500 acres, with an estimated reserve of 60,000,000 barrels of crude oil. Now that the Japanese menace has been largely removed, the United States is discontinuing its operations.

Imperial Oil, Ltd., who did the drilling and production for the United States, has agreed to continue the work at its own expense. The Dominion Government will get one-third interest in all oil and developments and 10 per cent of the net profits and can cancel the Imperial permits at any time.

New territory will be opened up to all concerns desiring to explore and the Dominion will get substantial royalties and the right to repossess such oil fields if deemed in the public interest.

Canada now imports 85 per cent of its oil and Mr. Crerar said it is important to every Canadian that the Dominion develop its own resources. The $85.000,000 refinery and pipe lines built by the United States must be offered to the Dominion Government after the war and if not taken by it sold only to such interests as the Dominion may approved.

"Swearing!" bellowed the father. "I'll teach him to swear!" He dashed up the stairs and midway, stubbed his toe, stumbled and crashed his chin on the step.

When the atmosphere cleared a little, Johnny's mother said sweetly, "No more now, dear. You've given him enough for one lesson."
