DON'T FENCE ME IN — I DON'T LIKE IT

Barbed wire fence causes only slight delay to this Yank infantryman, as reinforcements move up across muddy, snow-covered country-side in the Bastogne sector. Infantrymen shown here are part of General Patton's Third Army forces which relieved the enemy-surrounded Belgian city.

VIMY . . . CANADIAN FRONT LINE . . . 1917

Hon. John Bracken, (fourth from left) and his party are seen here in the official Canadian front line of 1917 on Vimy Ridge, where Canadians of a quarter of a century ago covered themselves with glory. Notice old fashioned sand bag reinforced trench.

WINTER ON THE GREAT LAKES

If you think it's cold, look at icy fingers formed on deck of new 5090-ton Coast Guard ice breaker Machinaw. Bundled up in heavy clothes, chief boatswain's mate examines ice formations as vessel heads for port after trial run through heavy winter weather on Lake Huron.

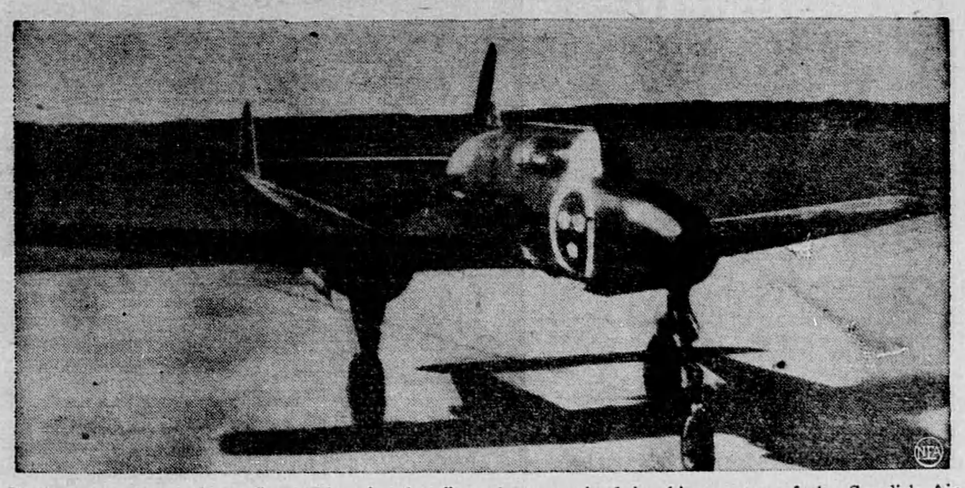
KEEPING COMMUNICATIONS OPEN IN BELGIUM

Lines of communication must be kept open day and night in modern warfare regardless of shell fire or weather and the photograph on the left shows a post-hole digger in action drilling holes for telephone poles. At right Canadian signalmen are seen stringing telephone wire to a main control pole. They are Lorne Foster, Port Hope, Ont; John Welsh, Bowmanville, Ont., and Ken Ney, Stratford. They serve with a Canadian Railway and Telegraph Company of the Canadian Army in Belgium.

FROM SMALLEST TO LARGEST

Posing before a Cornell elementary air force trainer and a Lancaster wing these workers at Fleet Aircraft, Fort Erie, have just been presented with pins as five and ten-year veterans. They have seen their plant turn out hundreds upon hundreds of trim little Cornells on which R.C.A.F. airmen have received their first flight training. The Cornell is the smallest plane used by our air forces in Canada. Now they're working on the great Lancaster program, helping to build the largest bomber built in the British Empire.

SWEDES' NEW PLANE HAS LOTS OF 'PUSH'



Radiophoto above, from Stockholm, is the first photo received in this country of the Swedish Air Forces's newest fighter plane, which is a radical departure from conventional types. A low-wing twin-boom model with retractable tricycle landing gear, it gives the pilot greater visibility by having the motor at his back. It is a "pusher" type, with propeller at rear between tail booms.

KEEPS ON EDGE

Ben Rocklin, Chicago's one-man commando knife factory, proudly displays one of his eight-inch, double-edged "Jap stickers," He estimates that he has turned out 6000 of them, from salvaged steel, since the war began.

ENVOY TO TURKEY

Edwin C. Wilson above, 51-year-old career diplomat, has been named U. S. ambassador to Turkey by President Roosevelt. One time ambassador to Panama, he has been serving in the State Department Office of Special Political Affairs.

WHY LO IS LOW

Even Lo, the poor wooden Indian above, who serves a San Francisco tobacco store, feels the pinch of the cigaret shortage. But apparently he still can get cigars.
