A couple of auto loads attended the Collingwood fair on Friday. We believe restrictions were relaxed for the occasion. At least we have heard of no blue papers being served as yet.

Mrs. W. Buskin and daughter, Miss Reta, accompanied by Mr. J. LeGard and sister, Miss Etta, motored to Collingwood on Wednesday, where the latter is spending a week with friends.

Will the party who sent the Advance a postal note from Maxwell on August 14, last kindly communicate with us, as the note was not filled out and cannot be cashed.

A motor load of citizens went over to the Durham fair on Friday last and pronounce it unusually poor with a very large crowd. This is a combination that pays the society all right—for the time being.

Walkerton has four hotels and the License Commission is now asked to issue two more. The four in the past have made things lively for the police. What will it be like when a couple more are added? Subscribe for a Walkerton paper and be entertained.

Mr. John Davis of Washington state arrived on Saturday to visit old friends here. Mr. Davis went west from Flesherton about ten years ago and has evidently prospered since becoming a naturalized citizen of Uncle Sam. His many friends here were delighted to see him.

The Harvest Home Services of the Eugenia Methodist Church will be held on Sunday, October 10th. Rev. W. W. Wallace, B. D., of Markdale, will preach at 11 a. m. and 7 p m. He recently wrote off his Universal French and enters Toronto University October 1 to take his second year Political Science. He later proposes taking up law.

Mr. W. L. Clark, "Author, lecturer, traveller, teacher," is giving nightly talks which are well attended, in the Methodist church. On Sunday he spoke three times. He is an original and pungent speaker with a fund of personal experiences and telling delivery that compels the attention of an audience as few speakers can do. As a social worker among the young he is especially successful. Everybody should hear Mr. Clark.

Holloway--Sargeant

Among the brightest of fall weddings was that which was held at Boyne Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W J. Stewart, Wednesday evening, September 22nd, when Miss Mabel Holloway, of Flesherton, was united in marriage with Mr. James Sasgeant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sargeant, of Ceylon, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. McVicar, and Miss Amanda Stewart played the wedding march. The bride, who was given away by Mr. W. J. Stewart, was attended by little Miss Mamie McTavish as flower girl. The groom's gift to the bride was a locket and chain.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served and later Mr. and Mrs. Sargeant left for a short wedding trip to Port Dover, the bride travelling in a gray broadcloth suit with plush hat to match.

The young couple will take up their residence at Ceylon, where the best wishes of the community go with them.

Owen Sound

Mr. Rowan Beaton, of the local Merchants' Bank staff, has a pair of candlesticks with an interesting history. Several years ago, while in London, Ont., Mr. Beaton was fortunate enough to secure part of a beam from an old sunken British gunboat, the "Henry Myers," which went to the bottom in 1812. The boat was built of the very best of oak and laid at the bottom of the River Thames for one hundred years. From the beam, which he had taken from the wreck, Mr. Beaton had manufactured a couple of candlesticks, which are as solid as ever any oak was and which he prizes highly.

There can be no complaint of shirking or slackness in connection with the manner in which the young men of Owen Sound and Grey County are coming forward and offering their services to the Grey County Company now being organized. About one hundred and fifty have now sighed on. If the seventy or more now drilling are included in the company it will be nearly complete. Col. Oldham was in town last night and passed fourteen recruits. Quite a number have been examined and passed in Meaford, Thornbury and other places, and are ready to come at once when orders to commence drilling are received. The delay in receiving uniforms and equipment is here, as elsewhere, the one serious drawback.—Advertiser.

Bryan, the Blatherskite

They say that this war has already proved the graveyard of several supposedly great soldiers' reputations; but we fancy that there is no necessity to limit the statement to soldiers. To illustrate: Before the war began there were more of us rather inclined to take William Jennings Bryan seriously. Of course we knew he had his limitations and weaknesses, but we thought perhaps they could be overlooked, and that we might, without too much reserve, call him a statesman. But we think that there are not many men left to lay who would risk their reputation by giving him any such title. If most of us were temped to speak out our mind we would name him political shyster and blatherskite, and not even of any specially new type at that. And now comes the report from Washington that a movement is under way to send Mr. Bryan to Europe on a mission of peace to the warring nations, and the report is accompanied by the statement that "in all Europe in belligerent or neutral countries there is no American held in more esteem than Mr. Bryan. Surely the man who was responsible for that is a great joker. But if he really does think that much of the silver tongued orator he had better keep him at home. If the war isn't stopped till Mr. Bryan stops it we are due to have a good deal of fighting yet.—Guardian.
