Mrs. Jamieson has received a telegram from Quebec stating that her son, Bert, had landed there Sunday evening and had to report at Porcupine where he enlisted, before coming home.

The recruiting committee succeeded in securing six names here as a result of the fair day campaign. Only three were accepted by the examining physician, however, namely Fred Bellamy, Charley Adams and Thomas Chard. In addition three have been secured from Eugenia, all of whom passed the examining physician—Johnston Howard, Ern. Morgan and — Holmes.

The Methodist church was crowded to capacity at morning and evening services Sunday, when Rev. I. R. Dean of Toronto preached. Both congregations were favored also with several quartetts by Messrs. Norris and son, Galbraith and R. Henderson of Toronto. The singing of these gentlemen was very highly appreciated. Mr. Dean is conducting services in the church every night this week.

Flesherton has now sent twelve of her best young men to the fighting line, which we claim is a much better percentage than most places of a similar size can boast. The roll of honor is as follows: Bert Jamieson (now on his way home an invalid from gas poisoning), Thos. Davis, Fred Lever, Emerson Bellamy, Fred Bellamy, Joe LeGard, Charley Adams, W. Wilcock, Elwyn Jamieson, T. Chard, Austin McMullen and Arnold Thurston. May they all return safely home with Victoria Crosses and commissions.

The 21st Annual Convention of the East Grey Sunday School Association met in the Methodist Church, Heathcote, on Sept. 27 and 28. On Monday evening a devotional session was held. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Spencer of Meaford, and Rev. Mr. Laidlaw of Heathcote. On Tuesday morning after the reading of reports and minutes a profitable discussion arose on problems of teaching. In the afternoon Mr. W. L. Clark of the Moral and Social Reform League, gave a forceful address on "The Youth of Our Land." Mr. Miller of Thornbury handled exhaustively the subject "Sunday School Missions." A discussion which arose on child conversion was promptly closed by the chairman. The session closed on Tuesday evening with addresses on "Fascination of Bible Study' and "The Stature of the Child," by Dr. Moore of Clarksburg, and Rev. Dr. Cook of Meaford.

A group of enthusiastic young girls, captained by Mrs. Thurston, flagged the people on fair day, thereby stopping them in their mad career long enough to hand over a few pennies on behalf of the Children's Aid for this county. The regiment of canvassers succeeded in securing over forty dollars for this benevolent cause. Little Evada Wilson, a small bit of a girl but a live wire, collected $5.85 herself, and Ina Laidlaw and Lilian Dudgeon secured $15 between them. This sum was a delight to the canvassers and an honor to the people who gave their mite. The corps were, however, surprised to find some prominent citizens who refused to donate even ten cents to this cause, They did not plead poverty or extenuating circumstances but gave a decided no or refused to say anything. May their children never come to want. The executive of the Children's Aid Society wish us to thank all who assisted in making Flag Day in Flesherton such a grand success; the collectors who gave up their own pleasure to help the unfortunate children; and all who contributed money.

Great Britain, with an eye to economy, would have the nation rise at dawn and go to bed with the birds, thus saving millions now spent for light and fuel in the hours between evening and midnight. It would simply revive an ancient custom. In Charles II's time plays were performed by daylight; and Samuel Pepys records, as a matter of course, that at five o'clock in the morning he made a purchase at a bookshop.

Colquette - Dougherty

One of Guelph's pretty autumn weddings took place yesterday, when Alice Ethel, daughter of the late Alexander and of Mrs. Dougherty, was married to Richard Daniel Colquette, B. S. A. of Peterboro', son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Colquette of Feversham, by the Rev. Wilfrid Gaetz of the Norfolk Street Methodist Church. It was a house wedding, and there were no attendants, her brother, Mr. William G. Dougherty, giving away the girlish bride, who wore ivory silk crepe de chine, pearl-trimmed, and a bridal veil caught with orange blossoms. Mr. John Hockin, the bride's cousin, played the wedding march, and Prof. Charles Kelly sang. There was a reception after the ceremony, when about seventy five guests paid homage to the new-made matron. Later Mr. and Mrs. Colquette left for Peterboro', the bride wearing a tailored suit of brown cloth, and a brown hat trimmed with ostrich tips.—Globe of Thursday.
