Rationing helps the FARMER
HERE'S HOW!

• Rationing assures everyone a fair share of scarce foods. Without rationing, farmers might get all the butter they need; they might not get sugar. City dwellers might get sugar but no butter.

• Rationing helps to keep prices steady.

• Rationing has assured farmers sufficient ammunition to protect their crops and livestock.

• Rationing makes it possible for farmers to get coupons to feed harvesters and other transient farm workers.

The FARMER helps Rationing
HERE'S HOW!

• By collecting and turning in the coupons acquired against the use and sale of butter and the sale of honey and rationed maple products.

• By writing to the Local Ration Boards for application form RB-77 as SOON as they know definitely that transient labour rations will be needed to feed extra help hired for periods of less than two weeks.

Rationing is not intended to add unnecessarily to the burden of Canadian farmers who, faced with shortages of labour, materials and machinery, have continued to respond to repeated calls for greater production.

It is a protection against waste . . . shortages . . . inflation.
