Intended for Last Week

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hill has been brightened by the arrival of a little boy.

A very successful social was held on Tuesday evening of last week at Mr. Irish's home, Centre Line, under the auspices of the Red Cross society. There was a big crowd, a big time and a good round sum realized.

The Orangemen of the Fourth Line lodge celebrated the Fifth of November by a scrub hunt. Messrs. Harry Fisher and Wilfred Plantt were the captains. Fortune favored the first named. In the evening a sumptuous fowl supper and a good time were enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Pedlar.

Misses Agnes and Mabel Henderson of Flesherton were the guests of friends on the Centre Line lately.

Mr. Thomas Taylor completed, some time ago, the concrete work of Mt. Zion church shed and is engaged on the contract for the superstructure. It is intended to have an assembly hall in th upper storey, and when completed to have a building that will be a credit to all interested in it. It appears to have been decided that nothing is too good for Mount Zion.

This Week's Items

The death of Mrs. David W. Jamieson which took place on Wednesday, Nov.17 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. McMaster, Eugenia, although not an entire surprise, has brought sadness to her many friends of this locality where she had spent many years of her life, and by her kindly inoffensive nature had won the esteem of all who were fortunate in making her acquaintance. In early years she had yielded to the call to a higher life and had since been a faithful member of the Methodist church. At the funeral on Friday last Rev. Mr. Madden preached from Mathew 11 chapter and the last three verses. Rev. Mr. Dudgeon assisted in the service. The text had been selected by deceased as was also the hymns, and the service was carried out in accordance with her wishes. The surviving members of the family are Mrs. R. McMaster Eugenia, John H., David J., Edward and Wesley of Toronto and William G. of Portlaw. They were all at her bedside for some days prior to her decease to pay their last tribute of affection to a worthy mother. It is only a month since Mr. Jamieson died so that the family has had their full share of trouble. This tribute to Mrs. Jamieson is from one who knew her well, knew her as a good neighbour, a faithful friend and a consistant christian woman.

Miss Pearl Watson left for Toronto last week. She will be missed very much by the young people of the neighborhood and Mount Zion choir.

The Red Cross Society purpose holding a candy social on Friday evening of this week at the Plantt brothers home, fourth line.

Miss McKay visited at her home in Owen Sound over Sunday.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks' 1916 Almanac

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks' 1916 Almanac is by far the finest, largest and best ever before printed. The Hicks storm and weather forecasts for 1915 have again proven their truth and value, and this splendid almanac for 1916 should find its way straight into every home and office in America. The Rev. Irl R. Hicks' Magazine, Word and Works, and his unique Almanac should always go together, both for only one dollar a year. The Almanac alone is 35c, postpaid. Send to Word and Works Publishing Company, 3401, Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Singhampton

On Tuesday evening a meeting was held here to organize a company of Home Guards. Some thirty-five men were present and joined the Company. The officers are as follows : President, Rev. F. J. Bunt ; Vice-President, Robert Edwards ; Treasurer, A. C. Branch ; Corporal, E. Neff : Lieutenants, Rev. F. J. Bunt and W. L. Taylor ; Honorary Captain, Rev. E. A. Slemin ; Executive, Norman Neff, Walter Sheard, Clifford Gibson, Wm. McKinnon. For the present at least the men will drill in the rink.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Jamieson were called to Vellore in Vaughan township this week to attend the funeral of the latter's sister, Mrs. Alex. Cameron. The deceased was a daughter of William Crisp of Honeywood and was in her 52nd year. Besides her husband she is survived by several children.—Bulletin.

Canada's Live Stock Industry

In competing for the markets of the world there is no branch of industry that exceeds in importance that of live stock breeding and raising. Paraphrasing the old Jingo cry, we have the land, we have the will and we have the climate. What is needed is the means, and ever more means, and simultaneously the ways of marketing. However divergent in views and theories people may be, it cannot be denied that they are all united in a common effort to improve both agricultural and industrial conditions. In helping the one the other is being aided. The interests are inextricably involved. If either is especially prosperous both ultimately must be, although one may feel the benefits of extra demand and high prices before the other.

In the past few years especially, all the provincial governments as well as the federal government, have bent all their energies towards the improvement and extension of agriculture. While a deal of scientific effort has been devoted to the cultivation of the land and improvement of productions of the soil, sight has not been lost of the needs and necessities of that other branch of inestimable worth — livestock — meaning thereby horses, cattle, sheep and swine. In the latter direction pure bred animals have recently been placed in various districts where their services were previously difficult to obtain, the registration of pedigrees has been nationalized, systematized and subsidized, grants towards greatly liberalizing the premiums at exhibitions have been made, a special branch has been established in connection with the Experimental Farm system at Ottawa to investigate the cause of disease, to give counsel to breeders and to control outbreaks of infectious or contagious ailments, judges and lecturers have been appointed, free of cost, cold storage facilities have been arranged and refrigerator cars equipped and paid for, grants have been made under the tremendously beneficial Agricultural Instruction Act with its ten million dollar attachment, for the encouragement of veterinary education and research, and everything possible has been done for the development and increase of co-operation.

Important and valuable as are and have been the efforts above enumerated in the interests of live stock breeding, the devotion of the federal department and the provincial departments has been by no means limited to them. In fact, as far as human ken can travel little has been left undone. But one of the greatest lines of endeavor has yet to be mentioned, namely the improvement of marketing and transportation facilities. While this object has never been lost sight of, constant attention having been bestowed upon it in various ways, it remained for the present Dominion Minister of Agriculture to take the matter boldly into his own hands and, with the assistance of a capable staff, to devise a policy calculated to lead to definite, distinct and permanent advancement. Without inquiry and investigation nothing can be methodically and satisfactorily accomplished. With this principle in view a marketing commission was appointed, the duties of which were to ascertain advantageous points of sale and to effect and bring about the most convenient and economical arrangement for disposal, shipment and carriage to destination. It was in following this policy negotiations were carried on for the purchase by the British government of six and a half million pounds of meat canned in Canada.

Owing to high freight rates, disturbance in shipping and scarcity of boats, unwonted difficulties have recently been experienced in exportation and even in handling across the continent. It is towards remedying these and placing matters in a much better light and on a greatly improved footing that the commission has been created. In many ways there is evidence that this is being accomplished, although undoubtedly there are obstacles to overcome that will continually be cropping up. A commission of influential, widely known and experienced business men has also been appointed to go into the whole subject and to report upon the most advisable measures to be taken for the advancement of farming, breeding and raising, shipping and selling and financing and for the aggregate prosperity of the country.

Mrs. Daniel Knechtel, wife of the president of the Knechtel Furniture Co. and of the Hanover Portland Cement Co., died at her home in Hanover on Thursday night of heart failure preceded by a paralytic stroke. She was 69 years of age.

A lost 2 year-old steer owned by Archie Ceaser, Markdale, was found in a bog in the swamp, having become fast among logs. The animal, though two weeks without food, was able to get out when extricated and walk to the barn, which was half a mile, and is doing well.

Three hundred liquor licenses probably will be wiped out by the Ontario Licence Board after the new year.
