Several young men from a neighboring town are in the habit of motoring down to Flesherton of an evening and making themselves conspicuous by what they would call singing, ogling the young ladies as they pass and conducting themselves like inmates let loose from Orillia or Hamilton asylums. These young men, we are informed, are all eligible for enlistment and have been approached time and again by recruiting officers but declined. They prefer ease and safety. If they knew just how they are looked upon by everybody here they would take to the back roads and sideroads. We saw one of these yellow imbeciles doff his hat to a young lady the other evening—a stranger in town—and she gave him the cold stare with a vengeance, which was right and proper. Such fools should have their position made clear and unmistakable to them.

Booze Seller Jumps Train

On Saturday night an amusing incident took place on the C.P.R. up train from Toronto. An Orangeville man and his wife occupied a seat in the day coach and quite a number of soldiers were also on the train.

The soldiers seemed to take a sudden liking to the Orangeville man and every little while one of the boys in khaki would come up and put a flea in his ear. Our brave citizen would arise and follow the sodger lad, apparently to remove the flea. It was soon noticed that some of the defenders of our country were rapidly brimming over with good humor and their tongues flapping like the rags about a beggar on a windy day.

Some officers on the train couldn't understand what the cause of it was. They could find no trace of German gas, sausage or saurkraut on board, but they soon began to smell rat and it was not long until the cat was out of the bag. It appears, to make a short story long, the Orangeville man decided to combine pleasure with business and he made a little liquor store out of himself. With a valise crammed to gunwale (please excuse this nautical term on a railway train) with quart bottles of the family disturber, the Orangeville man was doing a land office business at $2 per. An officer caught the perambulating spirit merchant right in the act and threatened to have him arrested. The train had just left Mono Road and the dispenser of red-eye gave a snort of surprise, ran through the train and jumped off, leaving the remainder of his stock to the marines. And up to the hour of going to press nothing more has been heard of him.—Orangeville Sun.

Killed in Normanby

The uncertainty of life was once more manifested in this vicinity on Saturday last when Michael Himmelspach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Himmelspach, a stalwart young yeoman of the soil, passed away as the result of injuries received by being run over by a wagon load of stone. The young man was engaged teaming stone on his father's farm when the accident occurred. He was seated on a sheepskin covering a board on top of the waggon load of stone, and his feet were resting on the double-trees. On going down a steep grade, the board slipped, and the young man fell down on his stomach in front of the waggon, the wheels passing over his back. The team did not attempt to run away, and after the wheels had passed over him Michael got up and started after the team. He walked about 40 feet when he sank to the ground. His father was in Hanover at the time, and his mother, a lady of 70 years of age who was alone on the place at the time was unable to help him into the house. She ran to the nearest neighbor, but there were no men there either, and it was sometime before she could get aid. However she eventually got assistance, and the young fellow was removed to his bed on an improvised stretcher. Drs. Mearns and Stalker were got on the telephone and arrived at the home shortly after, but medical skill was of no avail, and he passed away about 1 o'clock, probably from shock. The accident occurred about 10 o'clock. Deceased was a strapping young fellow, of genial disposition, and had many friends who are shocked at his sudden taking off. He was only 23 years and 10 months old. He was conscious to the end.—Hanover Post.

W. I. District Meeting

The Annual District meeting of Centre Grey Women's Institute was held in Eugenia on June 15. Delegates from Flesherton were, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Blakely, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. McTavish, Mrs. McVicar and Mrs. Hawken. The W.I. and Red Cross have done wonderful work during 1915 and 1916. Officers for ensuing year are as follows: President, Mrs. Buchanan, Ravenna; 1st Vice, Mrs. McIntyre, Dundalk; Sec., Mrs. B. A. Carruthers, Kimberley; Auditors, Mrs. Myles, Kimberley, Mrs. Hawken, Flesherton. The next District meeting will be held in Rocklyn.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Centre Grey Farmers Institute was held at Eugenia on the 13th inst. Quite a number of Institute officers and directors were in attendance, also a good number of directors appointed by the different townships and agricultural societies according to the new regulations by the department to form Boards of Agriculture in each electoral district.

After the reports of the various committees and winding up the business of the Institute for the past year, the directors proceeded and elected officers for the coming year for what will be known as Centre Grey Board of Agriculture: Pres., Bruce Hamilton, Collingwood township; Vice-Pres., Mr. Wm Inkster, Osprey; Sec. Treas., J. I. Graham. Auditors—George Warling and George Wright. The meeting was larger than usual, harmonious and enthusiastic.

The tax rate in Meaford for 1916 will probably be 35 mills, although the rate has not been set by the council. From rumors afloat we learn that 35 mills will not cover their requirements and some members of the board are dancing a jig because they have so many debts contracted last year to look after and provide for. Things never will be any different until a different system of management is inaugurated and as long as the ratepayers sanction the same old trail they cannot do other than expect to pay the long price.—Express.

HARVESTING
THE CORN CROP

The day of the sickle is past, at least for cutting corn on farms where any material quantisy is grown. With the increased acreage planted each year to corn, a Corn Binder was a necessity. It was invented, tried out, experimented with and changed, till now it is as perfect a piece of farm machinery as the gram binder—and just as necessary. With it you cut your crop at the proper time, you handle it in less time than five or six men could do with the sickle; and you get it into your silo without loss of any of its feeding value—and remember that's what counts with the condition of your cattle in the Spring.

Frost & Wood Corn Binder

has proven its ability to give its owner better satisfaction than they can get with any other.

WORTH REMEMBERING That

1.—A Frost & Wood Corn Binder will do the work of six or seven men-quicker and better.

2.—It saves many a sore back and tired body.

3.—No crop that can be cut by hand will stick it.

4.—In time, labor and value of the crop saved, it pays an enormous dividend on the capital invested.

5.—Bundles of uniform size-easy to handle-are delivered.

6.—Sheaf carrier lays bundles out of the way of the horses feet on next round.

7.—If you grow corn for ensilage and want to harvest it promptly and without loss of feeding value, get a Frost & Wood Corn Binder. It will do the job for you.
