THE MIXING BOWL

BY Anne Allan HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello, Homemakers! What constitutes true economy in buying foods? Is it simply a matter of looking for bargain price tags on everything? Is it taking the tired head of lettuce, the wilted celery in order to save the difference in cost between them and prime produce? Of course, it isn't.

You can afford good quality if you are wise and eat more of what you pay for. Buy those plump, golden oranges and that three-rib roast, but use every last bit of them. Orange peel makes a good sweet pickle and a beef bone is the soul of a soup!

It is all in knowing how. You have to know how to salvage the vitamin value that lies in the outside lettuce leaves. You should know how to capitalize on the flavor hiding in the celery tops that the less skilful cook throws out. And you need good recipes like these:

SWEET PICKLED ORANGE PEEL

Cut in pieces 1½ lbs. orange peel; cover with water. Cook 15 mins. Drain. Boil together 3 cups sugar, 2 cups vinegar and 2 tbsps. whole pickling spices for 5 mins. Add peel; Cook, stirring occasionally, 1¼ hrs. Makes 3 pints.

BEEF BONE SOUP

Cover leftover roast beef bones and scraps with water. Cover; simmer 1 hour; remove bones. Add 1 cup diced carrot, ¼ cup chopped onion, salt, pepper. Cover. Simmer 45 mins. Add 1¼ cups cooked or canned tomatoes; heat. Garnish with lemon. Serves 4.

GREEN LEAF SALAD

Wash outside lettuce leaves; place in saucepan. Add boiling water to ⅓ depth of leaves. Cover, cook 10 minutes. Drain. Chill. Chop; add French dressing. Pack into oiled individual moulds; chill. Unmould; garnish with hard-cooked eggs and watercress.

CREAMED PEAS WITH CELERY TOPS

Melt 3 tbsps. butter; add ¼ cup flour. Gradually add 2 cups milk; cook over hot water, stirring, until thick. Add 2 cups cooked or canned peas, ½ cup chopped celery leaves. Season with salt and pepper. Garnish with toast points. Serves 4 to 6.

TAKE A TIP

1. Tea is orange pekoe, probably to you. Did you know that you should say peck-o, not peek-o, and that the word is an index of size of the tea leaves, not of flavor?
2. Oranges are usually navel (navel) oranges at this time of year. They are easily segmented and easily served whole instead of juiced. They are best for marmalade, too. The Valencias we buy during the summer are more juicy.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

Mrs. N. C. says: Dish towels, hung straight after washing and then dried, are more absorbant if they are NOT ironed.

Mr. N. J. says: Old corks will protect the points of scissors, ice picks, etc.

Mrs. G. E. suggests: BAKED SPARERIBS —

3 to 4 lbs. spareribs, ½ lb. prunes, salt pepper, flour.

Select two sections of spareribs. Soak prunes in cold water overnight or for several hours, and drain. Put the sections of spareribs together with the prunes between and tie to hold in place. Season the meat with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Place it on a rack in an open roasting pan and sear in a hot oven, 450F until lightly browned. Reduce the heat to moderate (325 F.) and continue cooking for about an hour longer or until the meat is tender. Baste occasionally with the drippings in the pan.

The formation of an international commission to co-ordinate fishing regulations in Canada and the United States has been urged with a view to halting the depletion of the fish supply.
