THANKS.

The many letters and words of sympathy received by us during the past week will remain a sweet memory of a trying hour. We can only thank the friends collectively for their kind words, and we assure them of the great gratitude we feel for these words of gold. The boy that is gone was worthy of anything good that could be said of him.

Electricity on the Farms

ARTICLE NO. 4

We have said that every farmer in Ontario could have electricity on his farm—if he could afford to pay the price. We have also said that in many cases it will be found profitable.

It matters not what firm supplies the power—the Hydro-Electric, the Niagara Power Development, or whatever concern is in the business ; so long as electricity can be cheaply and economically supplied

The Sun has no brief for anybody in the power business—it is only concerned with throwing light on the situation, and discovering what there is for its readers in the possibilities af "farm electricity."

How can a man discover what electric service would cost him? It is a simple matter where the Hydro Electric Commission is concerned, for it is already actively engaged in supplying electricity to Ontario farmers.

Would-be users petition the Municipal Council for power, and the petition is forwarded to the Commission. An estimate is made of the cost of a system covering the needs.

The Commission then works out a scale of prices covering the cost. When this is done, the, Township Council calls a public meeting where the plan is discussed and laid before the people.

Petitioners are given contracts to sign, and any others who wish may contract for the service. If sufficient contracts have been signed to warrant construction, the Township Council may enter into a contract with the Commission for building of the lines. This can be done without a vote of the people.

The Commission builds all main transmission lines, but the township pays for all transformers, lightning arresters, secondary lines, and services for a distance up to 120 feet from the main line, and also meters. Debentures are issued to cover these costs, and are retired by the revenue from the system.

The Township operates the system, collecting bills from consumers, etc. This work can be done by some village in the township, if desired.

The least power that can be contracted for is one h.p., but it is generally found better to have a 2 h.p service, which permits the use of electricity up to 5 h.p. on the same wiring.

This is a brief outline of the scheme. Where fully understood it appeals strongly to the people, if it can be supplied at a reasonable rate.

Not every farmer in a township could have electricity—not even half probably—but it is paid for entirely by the users, and does not cost the non-consumer a cent.

Their credit is given, through the Township, but against their credit stand signed contracts with a service charge up to $3 a month per user, sufficient to cover the cost of investment if no current was used at all.

These contracts go with the farm automatically in case of sale, and are regarded as a sort of a mortgage covering the same period as the debenture issue. Unlike a mortgage, however, they are regarded as assets to the farm.

That "get-out and get under" stunts are not entirely out of date with cars was exemplified recently. A number from Owen Sound were motoring to the village last Sunday evening when "something went wrong" and the car balked. Several fresh starts were made and at last the car arrived in the village, but it groaned and creaked crashed woefully and at last came to a full stop on the street. Various adjustments were made in vain and finally the benzine buggy was propelled by man power onto the grass at the side of Mr. John McDonald's residence and left for the night. The travellers returned to Owen Sound in a buggy. The trip from the Sound to Chatsworth consumed two hours and one of the motorists swears (he probably swore a lot of other things too) that he pushed the car most of the way. The twenty odd horse power in the car proved insufficient to carry the travellers, but the one horse power between the shafts of the buggy did the trick. The car was a Ford of uncertain age.—Chats. The regular meeting of the Maxwell branch of the Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. S. Osborne on July 15.

One morning about six o'clock Mr. J. McKenna of the 5th line of Tecumseth, looked out towards the barn and beheld in the yard a real live, full grown fox which appeared to be pondering, perhaps being puzzled in the matter of making a choice as to which of his prey would furnish the more luxurious breakfast. Realizing the fact that the early visitor was dangerously near two prize chickens, Mr. McKenna lost no time in sounding an alarm and immediately the family dog rushed from his sleeping quarters in the driving shed, only a few feet distant, and pounced upon the intruder. Mr. McKenna hurried to the scene of the conflict and delivered a vicious kick at reynard that landed on the jaw of his faithful canine, which lost his hold, and the fox made a hasty retreat, but owing to injuries, was unable to strike his gait, and was soon overtaken and killed by his pursuer—the dog Twelve dollars was realized for the pelt of the fox.—Beeton World.
