A heavy rain fell Monday evening, refreshing everything after the continued spell of drought and intense heat. Haying, which has been a bountiful crop, is about over and nearly everyone has their wheat gathered in; but owing to the past conditions of the weather, the grain is ripening up too fast and will be poorly filled.

The berry pickers find the fruit to be drying on the bushes and hence the crop has been almost a failure unless in very shaded pieces.

The funeral of the late William Trotter of Kimberley, who passed away in Collingwood G. & E. Hospital on Friday last, took place to New England cemetery on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended. The community's sympathy goes out to Mrs. Trotter in her deep sorrow and bereavement.

A League was formerly held here, but owing to removals, etc., and perhaps lack of interest it passed out; Rev. Lane has revived it once more and with renewed interest the members are beginning anew.

Who hath not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts,
That hath not here an end."

A deep gloom was cast over the community on Friday last, when it became known that Wm. Trotter, a resident of this part, had passed away. Deceased had been at the Collingwood hospital for some twelve weeks suffering from blood poisoning in the knee. He was of a kind disposition, a good neighbor and will be much missed in the community.
