The result of the Junior Matriculation examinations was published on Saturday, from which we learn that three candidates from Flesherton high school passed their full matriculation, viz., Ina V. Laidlaw, D. McVicar and D. E. Wilson. Miss Laidlaw is a Lions Head pupil and also secures the medal for highest marks in third form. She was an industrious student and now reaps her reward. The Advance tenders her congratulations. Two other pupils passed their partial matric., L. M. Dudgeon and Artie Wright.

At the meeting of Prince Lodge, A. F. & A. M., on Friday evening a resolution was adopted conveying the sympathy of the lodge to Mrs. W. J. McFarland and family in their bereavement by the recent death of Mr. McFarland, who was one of the charter members and a Past Masters of the lodge, with which he had been connected for twenty-five years.

A citizen of Ceylon was up before Magistrates McMullen and McTavish Monday evening charged with damaging the dignity of the law by swallowing too much tanglefoot whereby he became slightly off equilibrium. Several people swore to the effect that his balance was not exactly accurate, pointing to a too free use of that which inebriates, and the magistrates had no option but to tack on a fine of twenty and costs.

Miss Gladys Dudgeon got into difficulty one day last week while picking berries when she ran into a colony of bumble bees who resented her intrusion on their feeding ground. They employed unfair weapons, with the result that Gladys' face presented a sadly demoralized condition, and her arm was very sore. Her introduction to the business end of a healthy colony of bumble bees was most painful and she will carry the memory of it for some time.

The Guns Were Buried

A letter was received last week giving further particulars of the action in which Lieut. A. M. Thurston of Flesherton was killed in Flanders on June 26 last. The letter was written by a young man who was in close touch with him for some months. The young man who writes is only 17 years of age and enlisted early in the war, when only 15 years of age. In his letter this young soldier writes ;

"I always went with him in the trenches as his servant for about four months, but left him when I got my leave. On the night he was killed we were ordered to bombard the German front line. Lieut. Thurston was in command, and was observing. He came down to the gun and gave the range, and then went back to observe. He had just left the gun when a German trench mortar shell landed and buried the gun crew. All gune were out of action when he was killed, and nobody knew anything had happened to him. One of the boys found him and his servant lying in the trench. They had been killed instantly.

"You cannot realize what a night it was before the guns went out of action. It was so hot that the charges were blowing up in the guns. He was never more happy than when we were fighting. Once when we were in a bad hole last winter, he just threw off his coat and went to it with the boys, and he always made the Huns stop first. His battery was the fighting battery, and everybody knew about the——Battery.

Clinton Editor Dead

Clinton, August 13.—W. J. Mitchell, editor and proprietor of the Clinton News-Record, died suddenly in Victoria Hospital, London, to-day. He has suffered for some time from throat trouble, and it was only on Wednesday last that he went to London for treatment, but the end came unexpectedly this morning owing to the giving way of a blood vessel. He was in the prime of life, unmarried, and his relations live at Hanover. For about 20 years he has conducted the News-Record, which is acknowledged to be one of the cleanest and best local papers in Ontario. He was a prominent Conservative and a member of the A.F. & A.M. Society. At one time Mr. Mitchell was proprietor of the Durham Chronicle.

A Bad Soldier

Harry King, a member of the 153rd Battalion, who is off on furlough, was on Saturday arrested at Brampton on suspicion of having stolen a valuable horse and buggy which he endeavored to sell to Albert Kee, a livery proprietor in that town for $75. The outfit belonged to Sam White, liveryman, of Orangeville, from whom King had hired it on Friday afternoon. The Brampton liveryman, suspecting the horse and rig offered him was Mr. White's, telephoned him of his suspicions, and King's arrest followed. The prisoner was brought before P. M. Pattullo in Orangeville on Monday afternoon and pleaded guilty.

He is but eighteen years of age, and was committed to Mimico Industrial School at the age of eleven as incorrigible, having been a ward of the Children's Aid Society in the county of Brant. He has been paroled five times, and escaped once and his record is described as being bad. He enlisted with the 164 Battalion at Oakville in June, but deserted, and subsequently enlisted with the 153rd Battalion at Mount Forest.

The Magistrate decided to adjourn the case one week and notify the military authorities. If not wanted by them, King will be sent to the Jail Farm for the full term of two years.—Shelburne Free Press.

Gave Circus With Car

Lyman Chapman, a farmer of Williams, brought his neighbor to Strathroy, Thursday, and while Chapman was in a store on Front street, the car and the neighbor put on an interesting performance which ended in the wreck of the car James McQueen, the neighbor, had no experience with cars, so that when he accidentaly stepped on the self-starting lever he did not know what the consequence would be. The car had been left in high gear and when the engine started it almost lifted the car off the road at a speed approaching 25 miles an hour. McQueen could not stop the car, but hung to the wheel, cork-screwing at high speed through the street. Finally the machine skidded and crashed through the front door of James Northcott's residence, knocking out the door frame. Several windows also were broken in the house. The car was almost a complete wreck but Mr. McQueen escaped.

Money Not Everything

We often compare the wages paid upon this continent with those paid in Europe, and think that when we have done this we have demonstrated very clearly that the working man is much better off on this side of the Atlantic. But a Pittsburgh Belgian puts a new phase on the matter. He says: "In Belgium I had my little home in the country, surrounded by green fields, and everything was pleasant. In Belgium my children respected their parents, kissed the hands of my wife and myself, and addressed us as 'father' and 'mother.' I had my friends. We had our fete days, and life was pleasant. In this country I receive three times the wage. I live in a dark flat in the dirty city of Pittsburgh. My children treat me with contempt they call my wife 'mom' and me 'pop.' I have my friends, but I must meet them in saloons reeking of beer and liquors; my sole amusements is limited to moving pictures; I have none of the pleasures of life; therefore I will go back to Belgium." Evidently we have still something to learn. Money is not everything in the life of men.

F. G. KARSTEDT

A young man, who ought to enlist, received a deserved rebuke from a young lady he was calling on lately. The young lady was knitting a pair of sox and the young man in order to make conversation remarked that it was nice to see her knitting socks for the soldiers at the front. These socks are not for a soldier, he was told. Then when he enquired, he was told they were to be presented to himself as soon as completed, "to keep your cold feet warm."

Word has been received in Meaford of the death of Howard Telford, a nephew of Mrs. (Dr.) Bennet and Mrs. R. B. Gray, of Meaford, who was killed in action, somewhere in France, on July 19th.
