In 1911 the poultry and eggs sold off Canadian farms were worth between $31,000,000 and $32,000,000. It is estimated that the egg production alone in Canada for 1915 was worth $30,000,000. This is two and a half times the value of the whole fruit crop of Canada, six times the value of all the sheep, and half the value of all the cattle produced.

Walkerton

It's a long way to Salonika, as Mr. C. W. Cryderman learned last week when he undertook to wire to the Canadian Military Hospital there regarding the condition of his son, Sergt. Wilbur Cryderman, who is seriously ill with cholera. It just cost Mr. Cryderman 36c a word or about $7.00 for the message, but considering that the distance covered is nearly half-way round the world the charge is not too exorbitant. It is questionable if a longer distance despatch has ever gone out of Walkerton. After eight days a reply came back announcing that Wilbur was out of danger, a fact that banished anxiety and lifted a load from his parents here.

Leaving his barn in a safe condition about eight o'clock on Tuesday evening last, Mr. George Lippert, son of Mr. Jos. Lippert of Walkerton, and who resides on a farm about two miles west of Chepstow, was startled out of his sleep about 11 o'clock at night by a reflection on his window, and looking out beheld the structure in flames With the aid of the neighbors, who gathered to the scene, he succeeded in saving a pig, whish was the only animal in the barn, and about all of his implements, but a crop of 40 tons of hay, 15 loads of straw, 3 loads of timothy and 8 loads of wheat were entirely consumed, together with the building, on the latter of which there was no insurance, although the crop is partially insured. The cause of the fire, which started on the barn floor, is a mystery.

A sad fatality occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Beckberger, 1½ miles south of Cargill, on Monday noon, when their 3 year old daughter, Margaret, fell into an open cistern and was drowned. Just how long the child was in the water is unknown, as no one saw the mishap.

Paralyzed in body and busted in fortune, Andrew Himmelspach was a physical and financial wreck when Chief Ferguson gathered him in as a vagrant here on Saturday last. He had been in the Grey House of Refuge for seven yrs., but hearing of the fat table that the Bruce shelter set he coveted a place around Walkerton's free festive board, and landed hither in full sail and high hopes. On Chief Ferguson fell the sadness of letting him into the secret that none but the sons of Bruce could rest their feet under the groaning tables at the charity food plant. Although he had relatives in Carlsruhe, with whom he stayed en route to town, yet their influence as tax-payers couldn't catch him a place on the free food farm here. Confinement in the jail was the only available scheme known, and for no more serious crime than poverty he put on striped clothes and went into the cells with the loud pattern brigade on Saturday. He will serve thirty days for vagrancy, according to the decree of Magistrate Tolton, and on being released will probably be ticketed back to Grey's Free Grubbery at Markdale.—Bruce Herald and Times

It is stated that 500 women of Grey county are doing the farm work because their husbands and sons have enlisted in the 147th Batt.
