Plan to make an exhibit at the Flesherton fair. If it is to be a success, the co-operation of all is needed; each one to do their part. You may not have such a great amount to enter, but it is the little from this, that and the other one, that helps the society. Let this be the best year yet. Make your plans now.

What kind of a pull has the T. Eaton Company with the postal authorities? For the past year they have been plastering the country with their catalogues at six cents for postage. The Simpson Company for a similar catalogue, but weighing four ounces less, has to pay fourteen cents for postage. The Eaton book if sent from Flesherton to Toronto would cost sixteen cents. Find the nigger.

Mrs. Little, 389 14th St. West, Owen Sound, received a telegram from London, England, informing her that Lieut. W. T. Little, R.A.M.C., had arrived in Bombay, August 28, and admitted to Tay Mahal Hospital there, ill with enteric fever. The telegram, which is signed by the Secretary of the War Office, also states that Little is nevertheless doing well.

An Owen Sound dog got his nose filled with porcupine quills last week, and the animal was destroyed. We do it differently here. One of Dr. Murray's hound also tackled a porcupine and came home with his nose looking like an animated miltary clothes brush. The Dr. applied an anaesthetic and removed the quills and the dogs nose, though still tender, has about healed up.

The public and high schools opened on Tuesday. The public schools in this vicinity are mostly "named" by Flesherton girls, as follows: Orange Valley, Maud Boyd; Ceylon, Kate Wilcox; Proton Station, Adda Wright; Rock Mills, Dell Thurston; and Port Law, Hazel Shunk. May they all achieve the highest degree of pedagogic success.

Mrs. M. K. Richardson

Mrs. Matthew K. Richardson passed away at her home here on Thursday morning last in her 86th year, after six years of confinement to the house from partial paralysis. She was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, and came to Canada with her parents when a small girl, settling first on Bay Quinte, later coming to Thornbury, where they lived for a couple of years. While there Mrs. Richardson, then Miss McFarland, rode on horseback to Owen Sound, wrote on her examination and returned home with a teacher's certificate. She taught the old Ball school near Epping for a year—in fact was its first teacher. Dr. Ball of Toronto, was her pupil. This was over 60 years ago when this country was decidedly in the rough. She had seen the county grow from its primeval state to its present condition. Her parents moved from Thornbury to Toronto, where she met and married Mr. M. K. Richardson and came with him to Flesherton over 50 years ago. At the same time her brother, the late W.J.McFarland, settled in Cornabus, now Markdale. Since she was stricken six years ago she has been tenderly cared for by her daughter, Miss Maud Richardson, and her devoted husband. Her faculties remained unimpaired to the end, and her transition was calm and peaceful, as passing from wakefulness to sweet sleep. All her married life and before she had been a member of the Methodist church and died strong in the faith that death held for her greater riches than did life. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon from the church where she worshipped. Rev.McVicar of the Presbyterian church officiated by request in absence of the pastor, who, however, came up from Toronto to be present, returning by evening train. The sermon was based on a favorite hymn of the deceased lady, "How Sweet the Name of Jesus sounds in a believers ears." Her pastor also spoke a few words in warm praise of the many virtues possessed by the deceased lady. The pall bearers were her sons and sons-in-law: Dr. E. K. Richardson of Toronto, and George of the 147th Battalion. Hon. I. B. Lucas, Dr. Webster, Toronto; Frank Tait of Palmerston, and her nephew, C. N. Richardson, Flesherton. The floral tributes were lavish in the extreme, and very beautiful. Some of those present from a distance were, Dr. Jamieson, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, Mr. Telfer and Mr. Grant of Durham, James McLachlan of Owen Sound, and Mrs. T. Hanbury, Dundalk. A number of Markdale citizens were also present. Besides the sons mentioned above there are four daughters—Miss Maud at home, Mrs. (Dr.) Webster of Toronto, Mrs. Frank Tait of Palmerston and Mrs. I. B. Lucas. One daughter—Edith—died a few years ago. Much sympathy is extended to her aged partner, who feels his loss very keenly, but who realizes with joy that it will not be long until reunion comes.

Right You Are

"In Grey County five hundred women are working in the fields to take the place of their husbands and sons who enlisted," says an exchange. Probably. But there are hundreds of eligible young fellows in Grey County who have not enlisted and could be spared without necessitating outdoor work by mothers or wives or sisters.—Burks Falls Arrow.

Loaded Up For Dry Time

Joe Goetz, must have expected to cross a desert on September 15 because, he laid in a big supply, it was just possible that he would not reach an oasis even in three years, so he provided against this contingency says Wiarton Echo. But License Inspector Reany had suspicions that Joe had more booze on his premises than the law allowed for private consumption so on Tuesday he phoned Constable Ward that he would like him to come down to Hepworth at once, and when he got there the Inspector gave him a warrant to search Joe's butcher shop and residence, and the result was, that Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard was bare. Rob found the stuff that made Milwauke famous in every corner. There were bottles in the refrigerator, there was a five gallon keg not even marked "whiskey" nor "for private use", there was a demijohn about half full of rye whiskey, about six cases of porter also a bottle of gin bottle of Scotch whiskey, port wine, ect. Joe evidently believes that variety is the spice of life, and is not struck upon any particular brand.

The trial came off before Messrs Atcheson and Sutherland on Thursday and the court was packed with farmers who had driven for miles to hear the case. The Magistrates could scarcely think that Joe needed that much for his own use, and fined him $300 and costs.
