Mrs. DeSavigny and granddaughter, Betty DeSavigny, and Wm. Little of Owen Sound, visited at George Moore's.

Mrs. W. Irwin, who was on the sick list, is improving.

We read the other day an item telling about the work our grandmothers did. One thing particularly we noticed, it said, "They dressed ten children every morning." How foolish of them! Mostly every mother of the present day, having ten children, would have the oldest ones taught to dress themselves as well as some of the younger ones. And is there any wonder the present generation are unable to do so much when they were pampered that way.

It's nearly time to advertise for another rain.

Walkerton

Andrew Himmelspach, the indigent who left the Grey House of Refuge and sought the more appetizing bill-of-fare served at the Old People's Haven in Bruce, but who wasn't eligible to get his nose into the Bruce feed bag owing to the misfortion of not having been a previous resident of the county, was ticketed by the town back to Grey, Monday, on completing a term of thirty days in the local jail for vagrancy.

Mr. Henry Spitzig, a young Greenock farmer, residing near Chepstow, while driving with a younger brother to church on Sunday morning last, lost control of his horses which started in to stage a real live runaway. In pulling up the steed the driver slid off the seat and his knee propped against the dashboard when the horse, which had been newly shod, kicked and split his left knee open below the cap. He was picked off the road, where he had been thrown in the runaway which followed, and taken to his home, where a Walkerton doctor rushed in an auto to attend to his injuries The mishap will lay him aside for some time.—Herald and Times.

George Thompson, one of the enterprising young farmers of Mono, purchased a thoroughbred Tamworth sow at the Ex. two weeks ago for $175. The animal took first prize and championship at the fair. Mr. Thompson intends going into high-grade stock in the future.

Kimberley Budget

Extremely cool weather of late and about as dry as ever.

Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro Commission, was a caller in our burg one day last week. He was over looking the new transmission line to Collingwood.

Squire Stuart visited friends in Thornbury recently and while there attended the North Grey Liberal convention at Meaford and heard Hon. George P. Graham deliver addresses on the political questions of the day.

Andrew and Leonard Fawcett and Hadden Hutchinson made a business trip to Thornbury on Saturday last.

This is a great year for wild grapes along the banks of the old Beaver. We know where there are single vines from which ten or twelve baskets can be picked.

A. E. Myles gave a corn roast to the young people of the neighborhood on Saturday evening last. A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a gold ring by Kimberley C.O.F. to Private Arthur Walters of the 147th Battalion, and a suitable address. Art replied in a few well chosen words.

Miss Jean Graham of Eugenia visited during the past week at Geo. Proctor's.

Mrs. Stanley Wallace of Collingwood is visiting at Donald Wallace's.

John Ferguson of Thornbury is visiting with friends in this vicinity.

Ceylon Chat

Mrs. James Radley left Monday to visit her daughter in Toronto.

Mr. Silverthorn and daughter of Owen Sound have been visitors at E. Sargent's the past week.

Fred Chislett of Shelburne is visiting his parents.

The hum of the thresher is heard once more.

Durham

On Thursday night of last week sorrow came suddenly to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lawrence of Egremont, when death claimed their son, Goldwin, at the age of 22 years, after an illness of two days.

Mr. Thos. M. Reid, who has been incapacitated for some time, is doing his bit. He has been amusing himself knitting, and a lady of the Red Cross tells he has presented them with sixteen pairs of well knitted socx for the soldiers. His industry deserves commendation, and to him the employment will make the time pass more pleasantly.

Last issue we referred to a couple of pumps that disappeared from John Mckechnie's store house on Saddler street and gave the thief, as we thought him, till Monday night to return the goods. The paper came out on Thursday afternoon and the pumps were back in place Friday morning. We don't know who took them, but he evidently wasn't a theif, but a charitably disposed decorative artist, as the pumps were painted a different color. And no bill has been sent in for the painting.—Chronicle

The Canadian Hydrographic Survey steamer La Canadienne was wrecked in Lake Superior, the crew escaping safely to land.

Feversham Items

Lieut. Chester McKinnon, who enlisted in Regina, also his cousin, Private Sam Taylor, of the S. P. S., Toronto, are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Neil McKinnon.

Mrs. John McDonald was called to Creemore last week to see her sister, Miss Pearen, who is seriously ill.

Mrs. Rosanne Ewing, who suffered a slight stroke of paralysis recently, is making satisfactory progress.

Alex. Murphy, who received cuts and bruises when his horse took fright and ran away a few weeks ago, is able to be around again.

Mrs. Spence having sold her property and the practice of her husband, the late Dr. Spence, in Thessalon, has moved to our village for the present.

The schools re-opened last week. Miss Nellie Taylor as principal and Miss Brown of Lindsay, as assistant, have charge of the village school. Miss McDonald of Strathroy, is at the Blind Line school and Miss Scilley of Wareham, at the Eighth Line school At present the north town line school is unprovided for.

Rev. Jas. Phimister, of Alliston, a former pastor here, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Weir. On Sunday evening Mr. Phimister preached in the Methodist church here when a full house welcomed him, many being present from adjoining appointments. His discourse was most interesting and helpful.

Mr. William Edwards is on a visit to friends in Regina. His brother, Christopher Edwards, formerly of Singhampton, now in training at Camp Hughes, expects to go overseas in a few weeks.—Bulletin.

Like unto last year, says the Barrie Advance, the sale of lots at Port McNicoll, for taxes, is again before the public, with the difference there is nearly three times as many lots advertised for sale. It is doubtful if any tax sale of lands in Ontario has reached the proportions of this coming sale. The inability of the township of Tay, in which the village of Port McNicoll is situated, to collect the taxes on this property, has placed the finances of the township in a serious condition, and it was for relief that the township appealed to the county council at the June session. If any further evidence were necessary to convince the legislators of this provice of the need of legislation which will put a stop to wildcat real estate promotions, the tax sale of Port McNicoll property would seem to offer the necessary evidence.

Subscriptions to the Canadian war loan already exceed $75,000,000.
