THE MIXING BOWL

BY Anne Allan
HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello Folks! In the park, down by the river, or in your own back yard, move out under the sky for an occasional picnic. For there's ease and good fellowship found in eating outdoors that just cannot happen inside four walls.

If it's possible to have a small fire, take weiners, corn and coffee. The boy scout of today or yesteryear will enjoy helping in this cooking venture. He can build the fire while the picnic cloth is spread out and the limited supply of dishes arranged within everyone's reach. The rest of meal can be oldfationed potato salad, cucumber sticks, small tomatoes, the bottles of mustard, salt and pepper and the dessert of fat ginger cookies and fresh peaches. You may forget the sugar, but a bottle of cream for the coffee is a treat.

By the way we suggest you leave on the inner husks of the corn and peel them back far enough to rub off the silk and pull back over the corn—then weiners and corn can go in same black iron pot.

Here are some more picnic ideas:

1. Bologna heated in spicy tomato sauce, sliced thick and served on toasted buns with corn niblets.

2. Hamburgers are a natural picnic feast. Make them into patties at home, carry between layers of waxed paper.

3. Stuffed eggs have many variations. Try deviling them by an old recipe. Mix yolks of 4 eggs, ¼ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. mustard, ¼ tsp. cayenne, 1tsp. vinegar and 1tbsp. salad dressing. Fill halves and stick together again. Vary by adding prepared horseradish, minced meat, and parsley.

4. Apples onions, and potatoes, taste better cooked outdoors for a a change.

5. Man-sized sandwiches and pickles.

6. Favourite squares of marble-cake—there's no worry about crumbs or tarts. Fresh fruit is always welcome.

7. Scalloped potatoes in an oven proof dish with mushroom soup should be wrapped in several thicknesses of newspaper and carried wherever you picnic to stay hot.

8. After peeling tomatoes, pack them in a wide mouthed jar and chill in electric refrigerator. Wrap the jar in paper to keep tomatoes cool.

9. Macaroni Salad: Cook one 9 oz. pkg. elbow macaroni till it's done, hold under cold water a moment, then drain. Add 1 chopped sweet pickle, 1 chopped onion, 1 diced cucumber soaked in French dressing, 3 sliced hard-boiled eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Toss together with salad dressing and chill. Serves 4

10. If it's not too late for fried chicken—there's nothing better in an open skillet.

11. Don't forget to put out the picnic fire by pouring on water and scraping it aside, then pouring on more water. Trace any sparks and put out any smoldering smudge.

12. Leave the park area as you would want to see it when you found the setting.

Requested Recipes

PICKLED WHOLE BEETS

Cut leaves off 2 lbs. tender young beets, leaving 1 inch of stems and root end. Wash thoroughly. Cook, covered, in boiling water until just tender, about 35 min. Dip in cold water; peel. Pack in hot jars. Combine ½ cup vinegar, ¾ cup light or dark corn syrup, 1 cup water and 2 tsps. salt. Heat to boiling. Pour over beets, filling jars to ½ in. from top. Process 30 min. in boiling water bath. Makes 3 pints.

WATERMELON PICKLES

2 lbs. watermelon rind, 3½ cups sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups water, 1 lemon, thinly sliced, 2 tbsps. cinnamon bark, 1 tbsp. whole cloves.

Trim dark green and pink parts of rind; cut rind in 1-inch cubes. Soak overnight in salt water;—¼ cup salt to 1 quart water; drain; rinse and cover with cold water. Cook just tender; drain. Combine sugar vinegar, water, lemon, and spices tied in a bag. Simmer 10 min. Remove spice bag; add watermelon rind. Simmer until clear. Fill hot, sterilized jars to ½ inch from top. Seal. Makes 3 pints.

DILLY GREEN TOMATO PICKLES

Select small, firm green tomatoes. Leave stems on. Pack in sterilized quart jars. To each quart add 1 clove garlic, 1 stalk celery and 1 green hot pepper. Combine 2 qts. water, 1 qt. vinegar, 1 cup salt. Cook 5 cins. Fill jars to ½ in. from top. Add 1 head dill to each jar. Seal

WINTER FEEDING OF BEEF CATTLE

At the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current, Sask., intensive investigations have been made into the winter feeding of live stock. With prospects of a limited supply of roughage this coming winter, many farms are wondering what amount of feed will be necessary to maintain beef cattle through the winter.

The investigations of the Station on winter feeding have provided the following information: To maintain beef cattle in normal thrifty growing condition, it requires from 8 to 10 lbs. of hay per day for a calf; 12 to 14 pounds for a yearling, and 16 to 18 pounds for a mature cow or a two-year old. The feeding period, if no pasture is available, varies from 125 to 150 days, depending on winter conditions. On the foregoing basis, it is a simple matter to estimate the supply of hay required. If the cattle are in poor condition to enter the winter, the amount fed should be increased accordingly.

In the case of a dairy cow, or where the beef cow is also fed for the farm milk supply, a satisfactory ration is two pounds of dry roughage for every 100 pounds of the animal's live weight, and concentrates at the rate of one pound for every three to four pounds of milk produced. Alfalfa hay and clover hay fit in very well with the cereal grains, and grain hays are more satisfactory with higher protein foods suc as bran and oilcake.

Of the grain hays, all have approximately the same feeding value for the maintenance of beef cattle. Spring rye cut in the early dough stage has given good results. Some question has arisen as to wheat hay being too strong a feed for cattle, but no bad results have been found and it is considered one of the best feeds for wintering. It is important, says the Station, that plans should be made now to conserve suitable roughages for winter feeding from every possible source.
