A Strange Phenomenon

A peculiar phenomenon, supposed to be of electrical origin, was seen about 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, March 10, on the Prince of Wales Road north of Primrose. The particulars are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. McDowell, who live on lot 5 on the east side of the road, were in Shelburne spending the evening. Their son, Oliver, lives on the old Paul farm on the other side of the road. In the evening he went down to do up the chores for his father and put on a fire, so things would be comfortable when they returned home. The lane from the residence to the road was so badly filled in with snow during the winter that a road was made through the field and one pannel was taken out of the Crabbe fence to make a gateway to the road. A cedar rail was stuck in the snow at each side of the opening in the fence as a guide for anyone driving in after dark. These rails were wired to the fence posts to keep them in place. It will be remembered by our readers that the night was very stormy, in fact a regular blizzard, with a couple of flashes of lightning, one accompanied by thunder. When Oliver McDowell had completed his work he started for his home, going by the road in the field. Through the thickly falling snow he noticed two lights at the road that appeared like lanterns and almost instantly there was a flash of lightning. When he reached the road, to his surprise there was a light burning on the top end of each rail. He took hold of the rail and shook it, but it did not affect the light, neither did he receive any shock from coming in contact with it. The lights were similar, the blazes being about six inches in length and about one inch in diameter and of a circular nature and made a sizzing noise. The lower part of the flame was white and the upper tips of each a bluish purple. Shortly after he got to the road there was another flash of lightning accompanied by a clap of thunder. The night was quite dark and stormy and Oliver soon passed out of range of the lights. They were not burning when his parents returned later in the evening. Mr. McDowell says he examined the ends of both rails since and there is no indication of any combustion having taken place. Will some of our scientific experts please explain this peculiar phenomenon?—Shelburne Free Press.

N. W. Campbell Dead

N. W. Campbell, B. A., public school inspector for South Grey, died suddenly at his home in Durham on Sunday last, while getting ready for church. Mr. Campbell had been school inspector for the past thirty years. He was born in Normanby township, of Scotch parentage about sixty years ago. His circle of acquaintances in this county was very wide and all who knew him will deeply regret his departure. As an inspector he was exceedingly popular and in fact was a friend of humanity in its widest sense. His death is a distinct loss to his home town and the inspectorate over which he had charge. The funeral took place at Durham on Tuesday afternoon and was very largely attended. The deceased gentleman leaves behind a widow, two sons and one daughter. One son has gone overseas in the flying corps.
