The Mt. Forest Confederate tells of a little girl who captured a trout twelve inches in length. Pooh ! pooh ! that's nothing. Chas. Richardson, druggist here, caught one measuring 16½ inches. It girthed 10 inches and weighed two pounds one ounce. Another gentleman caught one a little over three pounds in the same swimming hole. Come again Mt. Forest.

Mr. Jos. Oliver received a telegram last week stating that his son, James, who belonged to the 147 Greys, had been wounded but remained on duty. This would evidently mean that the wound was a slight one. The telegram did not say where the accident occurred, but it was not thought "Jimmy" had left England. He was still in England May 13.

For the benefit of friends and relatives of men of the 248th Batt. it is pointed out that letters addressed to the men, in care of the 248th O. S. Batt., Army Post Office, London, will reach them alright, if the man's rank, number and initials or Christian name be given in the address. The battalion arrived at Halifax last Tuesday, according to word received here that day. How long they will be retained there is not known.

Three unfortunate young Kimberley men got mixed up with a consignment of that which confuses the brain and on Friday last Inspector Beckett of Owen Sound had them on the carpet before Reeve McKenzie of Artemesia and Magistrate McMullen. There was a general plea of guilty and fines were imposed of $200 in one case and $10 each in the others. The court was held at Kimberley.

About one o'clock Wednesday morning of last week the general store of J. A. Mutchmore, Glen Huron, was burned to the ground together with all the contents. The family, living over the store, had a very narrow escape, escaping only in their night clothes. It is not known how the fire originated. There was an insurance of $6000, divided between several companies.

A large congregation attended the Presbyterian church on Sunday when the pastor, Rev. Mr. McVicar, preached from 1 Cor. 1. 1-31, a sermon in memory of the late Chas. McMullen who was recently killed in France. The church was draped with black and flags. The deceased young man had been a member of the Sabbath school and was a young man of many sterling qualities. He had lived in Toronto for the past ten years.

Mr. John Campaign of Chicago, who has been visiting here, is quite enthusiastic over the prospect for the United States helping the Allies in cleaning up the Huns. He says a large detachment of the regular American army has already landed in England and will be on the firing line in a few days. From what he tells us Uncle Sam appears to be controlling the rebellious foreign element in a very satisfactory manner, and many a loud mouthed German citizen of Chicago has been made to walk the plank and disappear from society for the balance of the war.

Married in England

Mr. Tom Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davis, was recently married in England. An English newspaper to hand gives the following account :

In the presence of a large number of friends a pretty and interesting wedding took place at the Congregational church, Ramsgate, on Sunday, when Sergt. T. E. Davis and Miss M. Winifrid Hawkes were united in the holy bonds af matrimony by the Rev. Duxbury Woods.

The bride was charmingly dressed in a nigger brown coat frock with cream colored silk hat and carried a large bouquet of flowers. The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Mr. Albert Hawkes and Mrs. Hawkes of Crescent Terrace and Albert Road, Ramsgate.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, Grey county, Ont., Canada. He was one of the first Canadians to enlist on the outbreak of the war and fought with the 1st Canadian Division in France for almost a year, when he was severely wounded. The happy couple were the recipients of many useful and beautiful presents. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and bridegroom amid showers of confetti and the hearty good wishes of their numerous friends started on their honeymoon tour.

In Memoriam

In sad, but loving memory of my dear husband, Edgar Hutchinson, who was killed in action in France on June 2, 1916.

He sleeps beside his comrades,
In a hollowed grave unknown ;
But his name is written in letters of love,
In the hearts he left at home.

God knows how much I miss him,
He counts the tears I shed,
And whispers "Hush, he only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead."

—WIFE.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Isaac Quinn, an aged man, of the 8th of Egremont, was found at the stable, unconscious, and almost bled to death with two very bad gashes in his head. It is supposed that he had been kicked by the horses that he had been letting out.—Confederate.

A Soldier Philosopher

A letter from Pte. Wm. Davis, who belonged to the 147th Battalion, recently received from France, says in part :

We are having grand weather here this last two weeks. The country has dried up fine and the grass is growing green and the birds are singing in the trees. We are all lying out in the sun in an old orchard.

Nearly all our fellows are here now. A big draft just come in the other night. Fred Bellamy and Dick Wilcock are both here and Pat Beattie is with the 5th C. M.R's. Do you remember my speaking of Stonewall Jackson that I went to school with ? I met him last night. He is a brigade signaller. You spoke obout me taking care of myself. Well, I am certainly looking after No. 1, but you know that don't make a fellow bomb proof. It is just a game of chance. After what I've came through so far one one would think I was bomb proof ; but still I might get it five miles back on a working party. That fellow you have the picture of with me at Niagara was ying talking to me on a bank in a little village five miles back of the lines and they landed one over and hit Cranney in the eye and smashed my rifle which was lying between us, so it wasn't worth taking home. So I took his and all was O.K. It does not bother me in the least. I think if its coming to me I'll get it and if not I won't, so there is no use in worrying. One thing which cheers me is to know that things are alright at home, that's what has worried me for the past 14 months. I am sitting on a bank smoking a ten-cent cigar, the first one since I came to France. I have not got any Fritzy souvenirs yet. The morning we went over the top I was too busy to get any souvenirs, but I may land some the next trip up.

Worst Roads in Ontario

There are few roads in the County of Grey that are dangerous to travel upon but there is one stretch between the towns of Meaford and Thornbury that is about as bad a piece of road as exists anywhere. The township council of the township of Collingwood have been warned repeatedly that this part of the road is in a dangerous condition and yet they have neglected to do one thing towards fixing it up. There will be an accident there within a very short time if the road is used and the township will come in for a good sized bill of damages. It is now practically imposaible as a motor road and there is more than a chance that the township council will be prosecuted for maintaining a nuisance. The business men of Thornbury and Meaford are aroused and there is a probability of an action being taken in the courts. —O. S. Sun.

A Female Fiend

Sunderland, Ont., May 31.—Pte. Herb Callocutt of Brock township died from the effects of poison administered him while suffering from a minor wound in a hospital in France. The poison was applied to his wound by a German girl in disguise, according to a letter received by his father.

The lad's father, F. R. Callocutt, is a farmer living near Wilfred. He received a message from Ottawa some weeks ago that his son was slightly wounded, but not seriously. Following this a second message announced his death in a hospital in France. Simultaneously a letter was received from the son stating that his wound was very slight, and he expected to soon be in the lines. Ottawa had no further information to offer, and the parents were naturally perplexed, until a letter arrived last week from a doctor in charge of the hospital giving an explanation of the untimely death of the young soldier.

He said Pte. Callocutt was admitted to the hospital suffering from a slight wound, but was poisoned by a German girl who had successfully disguised herself as an allied nurse. Her identity was detected by a wounded officer, to whom she also administered poison by placing it in the wound. He at once knew he had been poisoned and called the doctor, which led to the Hun's conviction. She admitted having poisoned between one hundred and [illegible]

The Split Log Drag

Good Roads conventions are excellent. Much information and many helpful suggestions are to be obtained from attending them. Unfortunately very few path-masters attend them. We all hope that eventually. good roads, with proper surface and under-draining and foundation will become general. Meanwhile it would be well for us to exercise proper care that should be given to many existing earth roads.

While travelling through Dundas county in the middle of April, it was distinctly noticeable that the roads upon which the split log drag had been used were in decidedly better condition than the undragged roads. Do not wait until the road is to be constructed Do something to keep it in good shape. If the split log drag is used in the spring or after rains, earth roads can be very much improved. Instead of having a road full of holes and ruts an earth road can be kept smooth and in much better condition than many of the undragged roads of the present day. The cost is small but the improvement is great.—F.C.N.
