A unique Hallowe'en party was held at the Methodist parsonage last week, when Mrs. Joseph Clinton was made a life member of the Women's Missionary Society. A Ford car was upturned in a ditch a mile north of the village Monday morning. The four occupants escaped uninjured but the car was badly damaged and will require a new front axle, windshield and ribs for the top. The remains were brought to McTavish's garage for repairs.

Hallowe'en passed off on Wednesday of last week with the usual bald headed, ringboned, spavined and jaundiced jokes that pass for fun in the brains of some youngsters. Next morning the square was littered with a heterogenous mass of broken down vehicles, boxes and other truck—the same familiar sight that we have gazed on annually since the year one of this community. There was no damage to property, however, which was a redeeming feature and augurs well for the hope that in future even the decrepid vehicles will be left to rot undisturbed in the stableyard. It is time Hallowe'en was forgotten. It does not mean anything and its results are unsightly and unpleasant to citizens,

During the year 1918 the Farmer's Sun promises to be more profitable and interesting to those engaged in agriculture than at any time during the past twenty six years of its production. "News and Views of the Farm," by W. L. Smith, for twenty years one of the Sun's editors, will continue this most pleasing and profitable part of the paper. The farm markets will be given extra and special attention by Mr. Crane and Mr. Thurston, while many others will contribute from week to week, topics of interest to those actively engaged in farm work. One dollar to 1st January, 1919, is a small price for the Sun, a paper that has so long and faithfully served the farming interests. You cannot do better than subscribe at once.

A German farmer in the north end of Bruce county, who last year refused to allow horses to stand in his stable while the owners were in attendance at a Red Cross box social, is now being repaid for his miserly deed by having his entire crop of grain standing in the barn unthreshed, as he can get neither machine nor men to assist him.

The Star Wonders, Too

From the Toronto Star

At least six aeroplanes lost their way at different times during October in flying from Camp Borden to Toronto and landed in the district around Dundalk and Flesherton. The Advance marvels that men flying by compass can go astray like this, but they do. The curious thing is that they veer in the same direction, and decide to light always in pretty much the same district. In selecting pupils for flying much attention is given to ascertaining their sense of equilibrium, but it would seem that the sense of direction is important, too.

Maj. Jaffray Eaton Killed

Major Jaffray Eaton of the 147th, Grey Battalion, and who has beed serving as a subaltern in the Fourth Can. Mounted Infantry, fell in action last week as the Canadians smashed forwards towards Paaschendale Ridge a week ago last Friday. The young soldier—he was just 32 years old—was the only child of Mrs. Christopher Eaton of Owen Sound and grandson of the late Senator Robert Jaffray. His widowed mother is in England, whither she went at the time of the departure overseas of the 147th Battalion, in which her son served, to open tea and reading rooms for soldiers of Grey county, in Loudon, and to visit the hospitals and minister to the wounded, and to keep these boys in touch with their homes in Canada.
