80 Per Cent. or Nothing

An exchange says: The Armenian residents of Guelph had a meeting a few nights ago. They met with the canvassert from the Victoria Loan committee. They had the message interpreted to them. They were given to understand how much interest the government was willing te pay. Then the Armenians made the astounding announcement that they wished to lend their money to the government, but they did not want to take any inetrest on it.

The Wm. Davies Co. heard the call of their country—it seems to have been very loud and very insistent in the year 1916. The call was for their plant and their ability to feed the army and to supply Britain with bacon. They listened as did the Armenians, and they acted, and their response was that they would take 80 per cent. interest on their money.

The Armenians, in Guelph, foreigners, men that we spend money to "christianize" at times, strangers in our land, doing the hardest work, and filling the most menial positions—want to let the government use their money without any interest.

The Wm. Davies Co. is composed of and managed by men who would undoubtedly pass muster as "excellent citizens." We would not think of spending money to "christianize" these gentlemen. They are accepted as leaders in the land and pillars of our best institutions. They want to let the government have the advantage of their ability and means. But they want 80 per cent on their capital for so doing!

Here is Your Example

In an apartment house in Toronto a canvasser for the Victory Loan had a strange experience, says the Toronto Star. An old man, a laborer, lived in the attic. "You need not take the trouble to go up," he was told. He is an old man, too poor to buy bonds." The canvasser, however, thought he would try. To his surprise, he found the old man wearing a Victory button. He held bonds to the amount of $500 of the earlier loan, and $200 of the new one. The first loan took all his savings, and the second one is being paid for out of his wages. He cooks his own meals, and uses dripping instead of butter.

This man is choosing between two kinds of sacrifice. He has five sons at the front. Unable to join them, he is doing his bit at home.

This old hero is surely "going over the top." The old man should be an example and a standard. Those who have subscribed for a bond or a few bonds and leaned back with a feeling of comfort and satisfaction ought to think again, and see how much they can do, not how little. They ought to think of the old man in the attic.

Executive Meeting Report

The following report was sent The Advance after our paper had been issued last week—Ed.

At a largely attended meeting of the executive of South Grey Liberal Conservative Association, held at Dundalk on Friday last, Nov. 16th, the following resolutions were passed:

To the widow and daughter of Dr. Sproule. Resolved: That this executive of the Conservative Association of South Grey hereby tender the sympathy of this association to Mrs. Sproule and her daughter, Mrs. Turner, in their sad bereavement in the death of the late Senator Sproule. We can assure you that his death has caused the greatest of sadness, not only over this county but throughout the whole land. We refer with pride to the invaluable public services which Senator Sproule has given, not only to the immediate country, but to our Dominion as a whole. We believe we eulogise none too much when we say that his public life reached a very high ideal and was most exemplary and stands out as an inspiration to others. In conclusion, we beg you to accept our sincere sympathy.

To the relatives of the late M. K. Richardson. The executive of South-East Grey Liberal-Conservative Association desires to convey to the family o the late M. K. Richardson, its sincere sympathy in the loss it has sustained by his death. He occupied a very prominent part in the councils of the party, both in the County and Dominion Parliament while a member of that body, and enjoyed the confidence and respect of both sides of politics. His social qualities endeared him to all people withf whom he came in contact, and his sterling uprightness has been an example and an inspiration to the community where he lived.

Resolution re resignation of R. J. Ball, M.P. In view of the fact that this executive has by resolution unanimously endorsed the Platform of Sir Robert Borden, and also in view of the fact that R. J. Ball has continuously and constantly approved of, and worked for the carrying out of measures introduced by the late Conservative Government in connection with the winning of the war, and is prepared to actively support the present Union Government in bringing that war to a successful issue; in view of these facts, the executive of this Association heartily endorses Mr. Ball's action in this respect, and tenders him their united support in the coming election.
